Two Women Agents To Tell if Any Employes Support Subversive Groups

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Staff Writer

The Dies Committee has been using two women as undercover agents here in Washington, it was learned last night.

The women will appear at a hearing this morning at 10 o'clock in the caucus room of the old House Office Building. The committee is counting on their testimony to answer the question of whether any Government workers here are connected with alleged subversive organizations.

Jan Valtin, author of "Out of the Night," a refugee from both the Nazis Gestapo and the Russian Ogpu, is scheduled to testify later in the week.

The hearing this morning will be conducted by a subcommittee of the special Committee to Investigate Un-American Activities, popularly called the Dies Committee. Chairman of the subcommittee is Representative Joe Starnes (Democrat), of Alabama, and other members are Representative Jerry Voorhis (Democrat), of California, and Representative Noah M. Mason (Republican), of Illinois.

Six Groups Face Inquiry

The women investigators, who have been busy for several weeks prying into the affairs of groups on the subcommittee's list, will begin reporting today on six organizations, as follows:

The American Peace Mobilization, which is now conducting a round-the-clock "peace vigil" in front of the White House; the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, the Washington Committee for Aid to China, the American Youth Congress, the Workers Alliance and the Washington Bookshop.

Representative Starnes said last night that the purpose of the subcommittee would be to "find out what truth there is to the allegations that these groups are subversive organizations, and whether they have sought to disturb our national unity or disrupt our defense program."

"Furthermore," he said, "we want to find out whether any Government workers are affiliated with these organizations."

Besides inquiring into the activities of the six organizations, the Starnes subcommittee expects to inquire into reports that several Government officials are holders of Soviet bonds.

Oppose Valtin's Deportation

Robert E. Stripling, secretary and chief investigator of the Dies Committee, said last night that he was not prepared to announce the day or hour of Jan Valtin's appearance. However, he did say that Valtin would appear later in the week and that the hearing would be open to

Lindbergh Denied Philadelphia Hall

Philadelphia, May 20 (AP).—Charles A. Lindbergh, scheduled to speak here May 29 under the sponsorship of the America First Committee, today was denied the use of the Academy of Music.

John Frederick Lewis, president of the Academy Corporation, said he refused to rent the Academy to the committee "because the audiences Lindbergh attracts are Communists and Nazis and enemies of our American form of government."

"The heads of America First Committee are not objectionable," he said; "they're isolationists and idealists, but the mobs that come to hear Lindbergh are lovers of Germany and haters of democracy."

Why Not 1-Cent Milk in Schools?

Red Tape Deprives Needy Despite Surplus

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

Why can't Washington school children get 1-cent milk?

Is nickel-a-quart milk a failure in the District?

Despite a large milk surplus, many thousand babies, toddlers and expectant mothers in the Nation's Capital are going without. All this in spite of a program which is supposed to keep them provided.

Why?

Mrs. Roosevelt wondered why on Monday. At her press conference she said she thought it strange that the District could produce only 3,000 buyers daily of 5-cent milk. Only 3,000, when some 10,000 are eligible.

A certain committee which met yesterday is determined to straighten out the city's lopsided milk-consumption problem. It faces a maze of red tape and queer regulations.

The situation is something like this:

Approximately 9,000 elementary school children from needy families are getting free lunches daily. A half-pint bottle of milk goes with each lunch. Each bottle costs the District slightly over 3 cents. Or, at the rate of about 13 cents a quart.

Other Cities Do It; Why Not Washington?

Why can't Washington buy this milk for a penny a bottle, as New York and Chicago and Birmingham and other cities are doing? It can, says the Surplus Marketing Administration.

But—and here is the rub—to qualify for a "penny project" in the schools, consumption must be increased 100 per cent or more. Instead of 9,000 needy children, as at present, there must be at least 18,000.

Hard to do, if not impossible, says school headquarters. Robert L. Haycock, first assistant superintendent of schools, told The Post yesterday:

"By law, the free lunches can be given only to 'necessitous children.' The 9,000 who have been certified as eligible by the various school principals—well, that's just about the maximum legally entitled to the milk and solid food.

"My understanding is that we'd have to increase consumption at least 100 per cent to get the surplus milk at 1 cent a bottle. I just don't see how it can be done, if the milk can be dispensed only to needy boys and girls."

Family After Family Without Milk

In putting out surplus milk that is sold below cost, thanks to Federal assistance, the Surplus Marketing Administration (Department of Agriculture) is not primarily interested in relief or charity.

Rather, its concern is for the farmer—the producer. To take off his hands his surplus milk, paying him a fair price and then making it available to the indigent consumer on an extremely low-cost schedule.

That's what nickel-a-quart milk is. The farmer gets paid for his product. So does the dairy—at present, Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase—for delivering it to the 11 dispensing stations. Very fine—theoretically.

Meeting yesterday, however, the District Nutrition Service Committee found all kinds of flaws. Dr. Margaret Nicholson, a pediatrician and who presided, produced a paper with many names. Names of family after family, whom she encounters in clinic practice, who have no milk to drink.

Families with three children . . . six children . . . even up to 13 children. But no milk. Or, perhaps, only a quart a day, where two to five should be the minimum. They can't afford to buy it. And they are not eligible for the 5-cent milk.

If You're on WPA, You're Not Eligible

To qualify for it, you must be on direct relief or certified for WPA. If you're working for WPA, you're out. Once you satisfy all conditions, the quantity you may buy is rigorously limited.

A pint a day for children and nursing and expectant mothers. A half-pint a day for other adults. This restriction and that restriction.

Said an official of the Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase dairy yesterday:

"When we began delivering the milk last summer, it was with

D. C.'s Own Emergency

$1,200,000 Budget Increase Asked to Meet Expansion Needs

To meet unforeseen demands for services and facilities imposed by the defense emergency, Congress will be asked to add more than $1,200,000 to original District budget estimates of $51,765,000, it was learned last night as the House District appropriation subcommittee prepared to start hearings on the 1942 city appropriation bill.

Items for schools, expansion of municipal hospital facilities and additional Metropolitan policemen not included in the budget when it was sent to Congress by President Roosevelt last January are now before the Bureau of the Budget for study, it was learned.

The additional estimates are expected to be forwarded to Congress by the bureau in a few days, perhaps in time to be placed before the subcommittee when District Commissioner John Russell Young and other city officials begin to explain the city's fiscal needs at the start of the hearings at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

If the bureau approves the increase as submitted by the Commissioners, the subcommittee would have to consider a total budget of almost $53,000,000, an all-time high for the District.

The largest single item in the supplemental budget calls for an additional expenditure of $750,000 for school facilities, chiefly in Southeast Washington, where the city's defense growth has been swiftest.

When the original 1942 budget estimates were prepared, it was explained, the full effect of the emergency on the city's growth was not apparent. Since January thousands of workers have been added to the pay rolls of the Navy Yard, the Naval Air Station and scores of Federal defense agencies.

Before submitting additional esti-

Roosevelt Proposes Relief Cut

Budget Estimate Pared $109,000,000 In His Request For $886,000,000

By Hedley Donovan
Post Staff Writer

The Administration yesterday made its first major move for reduction of nondefense expenditures in the 1942 budget as President Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate $886,000,000 for relief in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The sum is $109,000,000 below the estimate submitted in January in the President's budget message and is $464,000,000 under the relief appropriation for the current year.

Under the suggested appropriation, President Roosevelt told Congress, a monthly average of about 1,000,000 persons can be employed by the Work Projects Administration in the fiscal year 1942.

WPA rolls last week carried 1,496,963 workers and during the last ten months have averaged 1,700,000.

Hearings Open Today

The deficiencies subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee will open hearings on the relief estimates at 10 a. m. today, with Howard Hunter, acting WPA commissioner, expected to be the first witness.

President Roosevelt in his message yesterday pointed out that mounting defense expenditures "will have an important bearing on employment," but he cautioned against any assumption that the defense program can wipe out unemployment in the near future.

"Certain regions of the country are not affected by defense activities," he noted, "and many types of workers are not in demand."

The President also explained that the country's total labor force is increasing through population growth and emergency employment of youths and submarginal farm workers, leaving many of those now unemployed with little opportunity to be absorbed by the defense program.

Another Battle Indicated

First Congressional reactions to the President's relief message followed familiar lines, with indications pointing to another battle between Administration supporters and an alliance of Republicans and economy-minded Democrats.

Representative Taber (Republican), of New York, ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee, said that $886,000,000 for the WPA "is about $800,000,000 too much."

"There is no excuse for any such appropriation," Taber said. "If any appropriation is necessary, it should be in the form of small grants to the localities to provide relief for the unemployable."

Representative Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri, ranking majority

Thanksgiving Day To Be Switched To Original Date

The 48 States again will celebrate Thanksgiving on the traditional last Thursday in November because, in the words of President Roosevelt, advancing the date failed to accomplish its purpose.

The change will not occur until next year, however, so calendars, football schedules and sales campaigns will not be thrown out of kilter. For 1941, as he has done for the last two years, Mr. Roosevelt will proclaim the next to the last Thursday in November to be Thanksgiving Day. That will be November 20.

The President said the Commerce Department has found that a majority of the retail stores agreed the shift had made little difference in sales.

Washington business officials yesterday commented that the extra week between Thanksgiving and Christmas helped prepare local stores for the Christmas season, and described the shift as a "worthy experiment."

All Nazi Parachutists on Crete Reported Killed or Captured; Syria Expels British Diplomats

Turkish Intervention Held Likely if Reich Sends Soldiers Into Levant State

By the Associated Press

Beirut, Lebanon, May 20.—War took a firmer grip on French-controlled Syria and Lebanon today.

Authorities of those Levant States ordered British consulates closed and informed their staffs to leave the country within eight days, while Britain's R. A. F. settled down to a steady bombardment of German-used airfields and the Nazis themselves consolidated their hold on the routes to the battlefronts of Iraq.

(Dispatches from Ankara said German ground staffs were transforming more than 20 Syrian airfields for possible use as offensive bases against the British. The big airport at Aleppo was reported functioning as the chief refuelling point for Nazi warplanes en route to Iraq, while Nazi technicians and equipment arrived at other fields by air from the Dodecanese. "Surplus" French military supplies were said to be moving into Iraq by motor trucks and more than 2,000 Syrian natives under French-trained officers were reported to have crossed the frontier to join Iraqi forces fighting the British.)

[Turkey would be forced to intevene in Syria if the Germans occupy that territory with military forces, it was stated today in the leading newspaper, Yeni Sabah, according to the New York Times. This is the first open talk of intervention which has been heard here.

[The article pointed out that Turkey was already virtually encircled by the Germans.

["In order to complete this encirclement the Germans need only install themselves in Syria and Iraq," the article says. "We would then be completely cut off from the world. When they have taken over Syria and Iraq our ports of Mersin and Iskenderun would be cut off and the way to Bassorah would be closed. This would mean asphyxiation for the Turks.

["The German method is to encircle each country which they plan to invade and to force the lines from behind. It is our categoric duty to prevent, at any price, a German occupation of Syria and Iraq and to preserve our contact with our allies, the British—to maintain a road which keeps us in direct contact with the outside world."]

The closing of the British consulates was announced as a reprisal for British bombardment of Syrian airdromes. Misso airdrome, near Damascus, was attacked again this

Axis' Oil Supply Is Critically Low, U. S. Expert Says

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—A Government petroleum expert declared today that Axis oil supplies were so low that England might win the war without invading Europe by bombing Germany's "vital spot"—her synthetic oil plants and transportation lines.

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, head petroleum consultant of the Office of Production Management, made the assertion in a speech prepared for delivery before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers here.

Dr. Wilson said the German-Italian war effort was being fueled with a total petroleum production, including imports and synthetic output, "equal to only 5 per cent of this country's production of crude."

Allies in 'Complete Command' on Island; Germans Also Land By Gliders, Planes

By the Associated Press

London (Wednesday), May 21.—Cairo dispatches today reported the killing or capture of all the air-borne German troops who pounced on the British-Greek island base of Crete yesterday from gliders, transport planes and parachutes, at least 1,500 of them reported disguised in New Zealand battledress.

[The United Press quoted reliable sources as saying the number of invaders was between 10,000 and 12,000.]

The British imperial and Greek forces were reported in "complete command of the situation."

The report of the quick roundup of the invading air army was received by the British News Agency Reuters as an announcement of Greek official circles. It was relayed by A. F. I. independent French news agency.

Earlier, in making the report of the invasion to Commons and laying the claim that some attackers were clothed in Anzac uniforms, Prime Minister Churchill had said:

" . . . The military has reported the situation in hand."

The Nazi shock troops—actually they came to find and seize landing fields for the transport-carried soldiers who followed them in what the prime minister himself called "great strength"—were met by New Zealand, British and Greek soldiers under orders to die upon that island if necessary, but never to surrender it.

British military sources in Cairo, Middle East headquarters, said the British imperial and Greek forces on Crete were considered strong enough to deal with any air-borne invasion.

Warm Reception For Chutists

An air-borne attack had been fully anticipated by the Crete command under Maj. Gen. B. C. Freyberg, it was asserted, and a number of chutists were accounted for quickly.

Churchill had promised there would be no retreat from Crete—the seat of the fugitive Greek government, the last Greek territory in the hands of the British-Greek allies and the greatest barrier to what some Britons thought last night was a Nazi plan to ship mechanized armies to Syria for a drive on the Suez Canal and Egypt.

The Nazis had flown in about 100 miles from occupied Greece, in the largest operation of its kind in history, Britons said, and their principal forces landed on the extreme western end of the island, in the region of Canea and Malemi.

From the declarations of Churchill and others the strange aerial as-

Boy Confesses Triple Slaying At Huntly, Va.

Special Dispatch to The Post

Front Royal, Va., May 21.—A 16-year-old mountain boy early today confessed to slaying three persons last night because they recognized him as he attempted to holdup the little postoffice at Huntly, a hamlet in the Blue Ridge foothills 8 miles southeast of this town.

The dead are Mrs. Sadie Johnson, 40, the postmistress; her husband, Edward, 42, and their daughter, Ethel, 15, a high school freshman.

Boy a Crackshot

Commonwealth's Attorney W. Frank Moffett, of Rappahannock County, announced early this morning that Thomas Dewey Cameron, jr., a crackshot had admitted before a group of State and Federal investigators, that he had slain the Johnsons when they caught him robbing the postoffice. He admitted he had robbed a filling station of $16 last week.

The young bandit, Moffett said, led officials to a mountain cache where he had hidden a .38-caliber revolver, from which five shots had been fired.

The bodies of the Johnsons were discovered in the postoffice at 9 o'clock last night by their son-in-law, W. A. Moore, who lives across the road. There were two bullets in each of the elder Johnsons; one in the girl.

The Cameron boy was arrested several hours later when a bicycle which he confessed riding, was

Zamzam's 322 Safe in France, Nazis Report

Warship Sunk Vessel; 138 Americans May Go to Neutral Country

By the Associated Press

Berlin, May 20.—All the 322 persons aboard the Zamzam were saved and taken by a merchant ship to the German-occupied west coast of France after a Nazi warship sent the Egyptian liner to the bottom of the South Atlantic, Germany announced officially tonight.

A Nazi spokesman earlier had broken the suspense over the lost liner by announcing that the 8,299-tonner had been sunk and its passengers, including 138 Americans, sent ashore in German-held territory.

[In Washington, Secretary of State Hull said the State Department was considering what steps might be necessary for aiding the Americans. The embassy in Berlin has been asked to obtain full details, but it was considered unlikely that the United States would protest the sinking.]

[A United Press dispatch from Berlin said an informed German source declared that it was likely all the "Americans will be allowed to proceed to neutral countries."]

Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, organ of the German foreign office, said every one from the Zamzam was taken aboard the warship, then transferred to a merchant vessel and landed.

These disclosures followed refusal of authorities to comment

The News-Chronicle Urges Intervention To Shorten War

Copyright by New York Times

London (Wednesday), May 21.—A public appeal for the United States to enter the war was made tonight by the Liberal News-Chronicle.

In an editorial, the newspaper said the British thought themselves safe behind the Channel and behind the French army, behind the Maginot Line. "Some of us thought, God help us, that we could win the war without fighting," the paper said. "Some of you seem to think so too."

Britain cannot lose the war but without the help of the United States "it may take us years, wasteful wasted years," the editorial said. "We British people want you American people in this war on our side—fighting—now."

Ships at Martinique Take 'Morale' Trips

Fort De France, Martinique, May 20 (AP).—The French cruiser Emile Bertin and the aircraft carrier Bearn, cut off from the homeland since the fall of France, have been to sea separately for "routine exercises," the commanding admiral said today in this West Indies colony.

The ships have come back to their berth, having achieved their purpose, in part, of keeping up the morale of the crews, it was said. Both have been under British surveillance of varying intensity since France capitulated.

Hats to Become Less 'Poisonous'

The Public Health Service yesterday announced that the Nation's hat industry has agreed to eliminate poisonous mercurial compounds from manufacture of fur felt after December 1.

Agreement to abolish the health hazard through the substitution of harmless compounds for mercury in processing felt was reached at a conference between manufacturers and union representatives arranged by Surgeon General Thomas Parran.

World Peace Requires Sacrifice, Union Now Author Says in Talk at Willard

Deploring those who seek an easy way to world peace, "a slipshod way," Clarence K. Streit, originator of the Union Now theory yesterday told an audience of 400 at the Willard Hotel that his idea is a solution to the present "nightmare."

Before reiterating to the luncheon meeting of his organization members his basic principles, Streit took a poll of audience opinion on the war situation.

He inquired how many thought it probable that the United States would soon be in the war. The response by raised hands was almost unanimous. He asked how many wanted Hitler defeated. There was unanimous affirmation.

He asked if the audience thought the United States was facing the most dangerous crisis in its history. The audience was almost unanimous in its belief that it was. Only six or eight persons, in response to a question, said they believed that England could win without aid from the United States. Streit said that almost identical reactions to these questions are made to him in every part of the United States.

To the audience he described the United States Constitution as a peace document which had originated as one strong means of settling internal territorial disputes. In a statement given the press he elaborated that "the Constitution of the United States is our forgotten foreign policy, our forgotten peace policy."

He proposed that "the American people request the President and Congress to invite the people of Canada, the United Kingdom, Eire, the Union of South Africa, Australia and New Zealand to form with us a provisional Federal Union modeled broadly on the United States Constitution. Have it do for these seven what the Continental Congress did for the 13 States," he said.

Admiral William H. Standley, U. S. N., retired, presided. Mrs. C. Reinold Noyes, of New York City, and Mrs. Edgar Ansel Mowrer, wife of the newspaper correspondent, spoke in advocacy of the organization's objects.

The American Peace Mobilization, which is now conducting a round-the-clock "peace vigil" in front of the White House; the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, the Washington Committee for Aid to China, the American Youth Congress, the Workers Alliance and the Washington Bookshop.

Representative Starnes said last night that the purpose of the subcommittee would be to "find out what truth there is to the allegations that these groups are subversive organizations, and whether they have sought to disturb our national unity or disrupt our defense program."

"Furthermore," he said, "we want to find out whether any Government workers are affiliated with these organizations."

Besides inquiring into the activities of the six organizations, the Starnes subcommittee expects to inquire into reports that several Government officials are holders of Soviet bonds.

Lindbergh Denied Philadelphia Hall

Philadelphia, May 20 (AP).—Charles A. Lindbergh, scheduled to speak here May 29 under the sponsorship of the America First Committee, today was denied the use of the Academy of Music.

John Frederick Lewis, president of the Academy Corporation, said he refused to rent the Academy to the committee "because the audiences Lindbergh attracts are Communists and Nazis and enemies of our American form of government."

"The heads of America First Committee are not objectionable," he said; "they're isolationists and idealists, but the mobs that come to hear Lindbergh are lovers of Germany and haters of democracy."

Why Not 1-Cent Milk in Schools?

Red Tape Deprives Needy Despite Surplus

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

Why can't Washington school children get 1-cent milk?

Is nickel-a-quart milk a failure in the District?

Despite a large milk surplus, many thousand babies, toddlers and expectant mothers in the Nation's Capital are going without. All this in spite of a program which is supposed to keep them provided.

Why?

Mrs. Roosevelt wondered why on Monday. At her press conference she said she thought it strange that the District could produce only 3,000 buyers daily of 5-cent milk. Only 3,000, when some 10,000 are eligible.

A certain committee which met yesterday is determined to straighten out the city's lopsided milk-consumption problem. It faces a maze of red tape and queer regulations.

The situation is something like this:

Approximately 9,000 elementary school children from needy families are getting free lunches daily. A half-pint bottle of milk goes with each lunch. Each bottle costs the District slightly over 3 cents. Or, at the rate of about 13 cents a quart.

Other Cities Do It; Why Not Washington?

Why can't Washington buy this milk for a penny a bottle, as New York and Chicago and Birmingham and other cities are doing? It can, says the Surplus Marketing Administration.

But—and here is the rub—to qualify for a "penny project" in the schools, consumption must be increased 100 per cent or more. Instead of 9,000 needy children, as at present, there must be at least 18,000.

Hard to do, if not impossible, says school headquarters. Robert L. Haycock, first assistant superintendent of schools, told The Post yesterday:

"By law, the free lunches can be given only to 'necessitous children.' The 9,000 who have been certified as eligible by the various school principals—well, that's just about the maximum legally entitled to the milk and solid food.

"My understanding is that we'd have to increase consumption at least 100 per cent to get the surplus milk at 1 cent a bottle. I just don't see how it can be done, if the milk can be dispensed only to needy boys and girls."

Family After Family Without Milk

In putting out surplus milk that is sold below cost, thanks to Federal assistance, the Surplus Marketing Administration (Department of Agriculture) is not primarily interested in relief or charity.

Rather, its concern is for the farmer—the producer. To take off his hands his surplus milk, paying him a fair price and then making it available to the indigent consumer on an extremely low-cost schedule.

That's what nickel-a-quart milk is. The farmer gets paid for his product. So does the dairy—at present, Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase—for delivering it to the 11 dispensing stations. Very fine—theoretically.

Meeting yesterday, however, the District Nutrition Service Committee found all kinds of flaws. Dr. Margaret Nicholson, a pediatrician and who presided, produced a paper with many names. Names of family after family, whom she encounters in clinic practice, who have no milk to drink.

Families with three children . . . six children . . . even up to 13 children. But no milk. Or, perhaps, only a quart a day, where two to five should be the minimum. They can't afford to buy it. And they are not eligible for the 5-cent milk.

If You're on WPA, You're Not Eligible

To qualify for it, you must be on direct relief or certified for WPA. If you're working for WPA, you're out. Once you satisfy all conditions, the quantity you may buy is rigorously limited.

A pint a day for children and nursing and expectant mothers. A half-pint a day for other adults. This restriction and that restriction.

Said an official of the Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase dairy yesterday:

"When we began delivering the milk last summer, it was with

$1,200,000 Budget Increase Asked to Meet Expansion Needs

To meet unforeseen demands for services and facilities imposed by the defense emergency, Congress will be asked to add more than $1,200,000 to original District budget estimates of $51,765,000, it was learned last night as the House District appropriation subcommittee prepared to start hearings on the 1942 city appropriation bill.

Items for schools, expansion of municipal hospital facilities and additional Metropolitan policemen not included in the budget when it was sent to Congress by President Roosevelt last January are now before the Bureau of the Budget for study, it was learned.

The additional estimates are expected to be forwarded to Congress by the bureau in a few days, perhaps in time to be placed before the subcommittee when District Commissioner John Russell Young and other city officials begin to explain the city's fiscal needs at the start of the hearings at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

If the bureau approves the increase as submitted by the Commissioners, the subcommittee would have to consider a total budget of almost $53,000,000, an all-time high for the District.

The largest single item in the supplemental budget calls for an additional expenditure of $750,000 for school facilities, chiefly in Southeast Washington, where the city's defense growth has been swiftest.

When the original 1942 budget estimates were prepared, it was explained, the full effect of the emergency on the city's growth was not apparent. Since January thousands of workers have been added to the pay rolls of the Navy Yard, the Naval Air Station and scores of Federal defense agencies.

Before submitting additional esti-

Roosevelt Proposes Relief Cut

Budget Estimate Pared $109,000,000 In His Request For $886,000,000

By Hedley Donovan
Post Staff Writer

The Administration yesterday made its first major move for reduction of nondefense expenditures in the 1942 budget as President Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate $886,000,000 for relief in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The sum is $109,000,000 below the estimate submitted in January in the President's budget message and is $464,000,000 under the relief appropriation for the current year.

Under the suggested appropriation, President Roosevelt told Congress, a monthly average of about 1,000,000 persons can be employed by the Work Projects Administration in the fiscal year 1942.

WPA rolls last week carried 1,496,963 workers and during the last ten months have averaged 1,700,000.

Hearings Open Today

The deficiencies subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee will open hearings on the relief estimates at 10 a. m. today, with Howard Hunter, acting WPA commissioner, expected to be the first witness.

President Roosevelt in his message yesterday pointed out that mounting defense expenditures "will have an important bearing on employment," but he cautioned against any assumption that the defense program can wipe out unemployment in the near future.

"Certain regions of the country are not affected by defense activities," he noted, "and many types of workers are not in demand."

The President also explained that the country's total labor force is increasing through population growth and emergency employment of youths and submarginal farm workers, leaving many of those now unemployed with little opportunity to be absorbed by the defense program.

Another Battle Indicated

First Congressional reactions to the President's relief message followed familiar lines, with indications pointing to another battle between Administration supporters and an alliance of Republicans and economy-minded Democrats.

Representative Taber (Republican), of New York, ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee, said that $886,000,000 for the WPA "is about $800,000,000 too much."

"There is no excuse for any such appropriation," Taber said. "If any appropriation is necessary, it should be in the form of small grants to the localities to provide relief for the unemployable."

Representative Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri, ranking majority

Thanksgiving Day To Be Switched To Original Date

The 48 States again will celebrate Thanksgiving on the traditional last Thursday in November because, in the words of President Roosevelt, advancing the date failed to accomplish its purpose.

The change will not occur until next year, however, so calendars, football schedules and sales campaigns will not be thrown out of kilter. For 1941, as he has done for the last two years, Mr. Roosevelt will proclaim the next to the last Thursday in November to be Thanksgiving Day. That will be November 20.

The President said the Commerce Department has found that a majority of the retail stores agreed the shift had made little difference in sales.

Washington business officials yesterday commented that the extra week between Thanksgiving and Christmas helped prepare local stores for the Christmas season, and described the shift as a "worthy experiment."

All Nazi Parachutists on Crete Reported Killed or Captured; Syria Expels British Diplomats

Turkish Intervention Held Likely if Reich Sends Soldiers Into Levant State

By the Associated Press

Beirut, Lebanon, May 20.—War took a firmer grip on French-controlled Syria and Lebanon today.

Authorities of those Levant States ordered British consulates closed and informed their staffs to leave the country within eight days, while Britain's R. A. F. settled down to a steady bombardment of German-used airfields and the Nazis themselves consolidated their hold on the routes to the battlefronts of Iraq.

(Dispatches from Ankara said German ground staffs were transforming more than 20 Syrian airfields for possible use as offensive bases against the British. The big airport at Aleppo was reported functioning as the chief refuelling point for Nazi warplanes en route to Iraq, while Nazi technicians and equipment arrived at other fields by air from the Dodecanese. "Surplus" French military supplies were said to be moving into Iraq by motor trucks and more than 2,000 Syrian natives under French-trained officers were reported to have crossed the frontier to join Iraqi forces fighting the British.)

[Turkey would be forced to intervene in Syria if the Germans occupy that territory with military forces, it was stated today in the leading newspaper, Yeni Sabah, according to the New York Times. This is the first open talk of intervention which has been heard here.

[The article pointed out that Turkey was already virtually encircled by the Germans.

["In order to complete this encirclement the Germans need only install themselves in Syria and Iraq," the article says. "We would then be completely cut off from the world. When they have taken over Syria and Iraq our ports of Mersin and Iskenderun would be cut off and the way to Bassorah would be closed. This would mean asphyxiation for the Turks.

["The German method is to encircle each country which they plan to invade and to force the lines from behind. It is our categoric duty to prevent, at any price, a German occupation of Syria and Iraq and to preserve our contact with our allies, the British—to maintain a road which keeps us in direct contact with the outside world."]

The closing of the British consulates was announced as a reprisal for British bombardment of Syrian airdromes. Misso airdrome, near Damascus, was attacked again this

Axis' Oil Supply Is Critically Low, U. S. Expert Says

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—A Government petroleum expert declared today that Axis oil supplies were so low that England might win the war without invading Europe by bombing Germany's "vital spot"—her synthetic oil plants and transportation lines.

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, head petroleum consultant of the Office of Production Management, made the assertion in a speech prepared for delivery before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers here.

Dr. Wilson said the German-Italian war effort was being fueled with a total petroleum production, including imports and synthetic output, "equal to only 5 per cent of this country's production of crude."

Allies in 'Complete Command' on Island; Germans Also Land By Gliders, Planes

By the Associated Press

London (Wednesday), May 21.—Cairo dispatches today reported the killing or capture of all the air-borne German troops who pounced on the British-Greek island base of Crete yesterday from gliders, transport planes and parachutes, at least 1,500 of them reported disguised in New Zealand battledress.

[The United Press quoted reliable sources as saying the number of invaders was between 10,000 and 12,000.]

The British imperial and Greek forces were reported in "complete command of the situation."

The report of the quick roundup of the invading air army was received by the British News Agency Reuters as an announcement of Greek official circles. It was relayed by A. F. I. independent French news agency.

Earlier, in making the report of the invasion to Commons and laying the claim that some attackers were clothed in Anzac uniforms, Prime Minister Churchill had said:

" . . . The military has reported the situation in hand."

The Nazi shock troops—actually they came to find and seize landing fields for the transport-carried soldiers who followed them in what the prime minister himself called "great strength"—were met by New Zealand, British and Greek soldiers under orders to die upon that island if necessary, but never to surrender it.

British military sources in Cairo, Middle East headquarters, said the British imperial and Greek forces on Crete were considered strong enough to deal with any air-borne invasion.

Warm Reception For Chutists

An air-borne attack had been fully anticipated by the Crete command under Maj. Gen. B. C. Freyberg, it was asserted, and a number of chutists were accounted for quickly.

Churchill had promised there would be no retreat from Crete—the seat of the fugitive Greek government, the last Greek territory in the hands of the British-Greek allies and the greatest barrier to what some Britons thought last night was a Nazi plan to ship mechanized armies to Syria for a drive on the Suez Canal and Egypt.

The Nazis had flown in about 100 miles from occupied Greece, in the largest operation of its kind in history, Britons said, and their principal forces landed on the extreme western end of the island, in the region of Canea and Malemi.

From the declarations of Churchill and others the strange aerial as-

Boy Confesses Triple Slaying At Huntly, Va.

Special Dispatch to The Post

Front Royal, Va., May 21.—A 16-year-old mountain boy early today confessed to slaying three persons last night because they recognized him as he attempted to holdup the little postoffice at Huntly, a hamlet in the Blue Ridge foothills 8 miles southeast of this town.

The dead are Mrs. Sadie Johnson, 40, the postmistress; her husband, Edward, 42, and their daughter, Ethel, 15, a high school freshman.

Boy a Crackshot

Commonwealth's Attorney W. Frank Moffett, of Rappahannock County, announced early this morning that Thomas Dewey Cameron, jr., a crackshot had admitted before a group of State and Federal investigators, that he had slain the Johnsons when they caught him robbing the postoffice. He admitted he had robbed a filling station of $16 last week.

The young bandit, Moffett said, led officials to a mountain cache where he had hidden a .38-caliber revolver, from which five shots had been fired.

The bodies of the Johnsons were discovered in the postoffice at 9 o'clock last night by their son-in-law, W. A. Moore, who lives across the road. There were two bullets in each of the elder Johnsons; one in the girl.

The Cameron boy was arrested several hours later when a bicycle which he confessed riding, was

Zamzam's 322 Safe in France, Nazis Report

Warship Sunk Vessel; 138 Americans May Go to Neutral Country

By the Associated Press

Berlin, May 20.—All the 322 persons aboard the Zamzam were saved and taken by a merchant ship to the German-occupied west coast of France after a Nazi warship sent the Egyptian liner to the bottom of the South Atlantic, Germany announced officially tonight.

A Nazi spokesman earlier had broken the suspense over the lost liner by announcing that the 8,299-tonner had been sunk and its passengers, including 138 Americans, sent ashore in German-held territory.

[In Washington, Secretary of State Hull said the State Department was considering what steps might be necessary for aiding the Americans. The embassy in Berlin has been asked to obtain full details, but it was considered unlikely that the United States would protest the sinking.]

[A United Press dispatch from Berlin said an informed German source declared that it was likely all the "Americans will be allowed to proceed to neutral countries."]

Deutsche Diplomatisc! Politische Korrespondenz, organ of the German foreign office, said every one from the Zamzam was taken aboard the warship, then transferred to a merchant vessel and landed.

These disclosures followed refusal of authorities to comment

The News-Chronicle Urges Intervention To Shorten War

Copyright by New York Times

London (Wednesday), May 21.—A public appeal for the United States to enter the war was made tonight by the Liberal News-Chronicle.

In an editorial, the newspaper said the British thought themselves safe behind the Channel and behind the French army, behind the Maginot Line. "Some of us thought, God help us, that we could win the war without fighting," the paper said. "Some of you seem to think so too."

Britain cannot lose the war but without the help of the United States "it may take us years, wasteful wasted years," the editorial said. "We British people want you American people in this war on our side—fighting—now."

Ships at Martinique Take 'Morale' Trips

Fort De France, Martinique, May 20 (AP).—The French cruiser Emile Bertin and the aircraft carrier Bearn, cut off from the homeland since the fall of France, have been to sea separately for "routine exercises," the commanding admiral said today in this West Indies colony.

The ships have come back to their berth, having achieved their purpose, in part, of keeping up the morale of the crews, it was said. Both have been under British surveillance of varying intensity since France capitulated.

Crete Bearing Brunt of Nazi War Efforts

Berlin, May 20 (AP).—The major German war effort was concentrated today on Crete, and German war operations in the Mediterranean entered into what Berlin called a new phase.

A military spokesman virtually acknowledged that an air-borne attack had been made on the big island some 100 miles south of the Greek mainland. He said:

"I have neither the desire nor the intention to deny it. Naturally, our old dictum still obtains: we strike at the English where we find them."

The high command, however, observed its usual attitude of reserve in matters of military development, and no announcement of such an attack was made pending achievement of strategic objectives.

It was, however, disclosed that German bombers have been pounding at Crete's harbors and thoroughly reconnoitering the waters about the island.

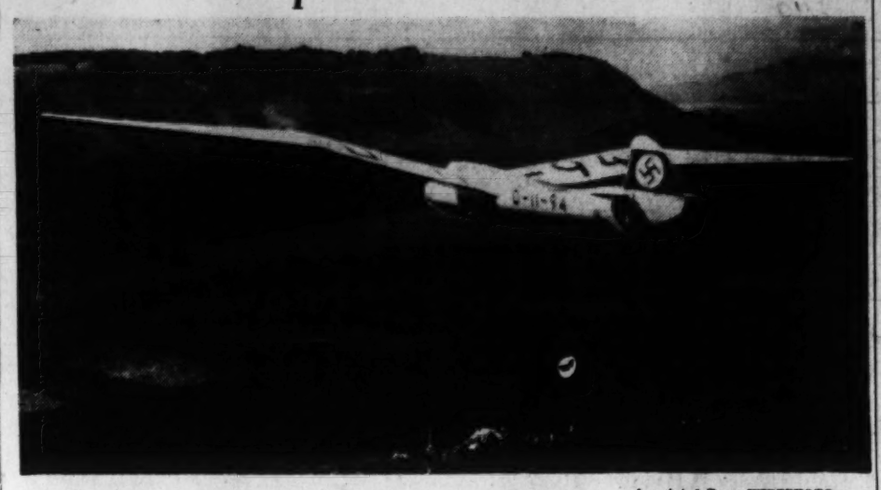
Dive bombers have been devoting their attention to Crete airports and to Suda Harbor, the naval base for the British imperial force on the island.

In the war on British commerce, all arms of the German war services, and especially submarines, were hunting for tankers with considerable success reported. The German navy, it was disclosed, has been told that Britain needs oil more desperately than it needs food.

Malta Raided Again

Valletta, Malta, May 20 (AP).—Axis bombers struck at Malta again last night and tody, killing a number of civilians. Slight damage to urban property was announced.

Gliders Get First Test as Troop Transports In Nazis' Attempted Air Invasion of Crete



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

"MOTORLESS INVASION"—German gliders bearing troops were used in the Nazi attack on the island of Crete, important allied base in the Mediterranean. Here, a glider bearing the swastika soars over the Rhone Hills, training spot for German glider pilots

By the Associated Press

London, May 20.—Motorless aircraft are getting their first real test as carriers for troops in the attempted air-borne German invasion of Crete, informed sources said today.

There were no confirmed reports of the use of gliders in the German invasion of France and the Low Countries last year, although Italian newspapers said at the time that German gliders, each carrying six to eight fully armed soldiers, were employed in Belgium.

Later the glider method of transporting troops was mentioned frequently as a possible German device in case an attempt were made to invade England.

It was recalled here that Germany turned to intensive study of motorless flight as a result of the Versailles Treaty's ban on military aircraft in that country. When the present war began she was reputed to have had 25 glider schools operating (although development of her military air force began in a big way, despite the treaty restrictions, in 1933).

Recently the Germans claimed to have more than 100,000 trained glider pilots, many of whom now are piloting motored planes.

British aviation writers have differed considerably in their reports as to the type of glider Germany was developing for troop transport uses.

One suggested that the Germans have at least 1,000 old bombers, each of which could be used to tow a string of gliders carrying 35 men each; but informed sources said they believed smaller gliders built to carry 14 men each would be more likely.

Text of Churchill's Speech

London, May 20.—The following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's address today to the House of Commons:

Since we last were together several important events have happened on which perhaps I might presume to say a few words to the house.

In the first place, the victory of Amba Alaji has resulted in surrender of the Duke of Aosta and his whole remaining forces and this must be considered to bring all major organized resistance by the Italians in Abyssinia to an end.

No doubt other fighting will continue for some time in the south, but this certainly wears the aspect of the culmination of a campaign which I venture to think is one of the most remarkable ever fought by British or imperial troops (cheers).

It reflects utmost credit on Gen. Cunningham and Gen. Platt, who discharged so well the task assigned to them by the commander-in-chief in the Middle East, Sir. Archibald Wavell.

When we look back to January I find that the best expert opinion fixed the middle or end of May as the earliest date on which we could advance upon Chisiaio and anyone who has acquainted himself with geography will see the enormous advance—beyond anything that was hoped for—that has been accomplished by audacious action and by extraordinary competence in warfare in these desolate countries.

Praises South Africans

I take this opportunity of pointing out that in this compaign the South African army have played a most distinguished part and have been ordered by Gen. Smuts to go forward. Now that this theater is closing down, they are to move northward to the Mediterranean (cheers). Also, two British Indian divisions have gained laurels in fighting at Kassala, and all the way from Kassala to Cheren, up to the final phase of the final event.

These Indian divisions consist of six Indian battalions and three British battalions and I am assured that the greatest admiration is felt at the extraordinary military qualities displayed by Indian troops. Their dash and ardour, their faithful endurance of all hardships have won them the regard of their British comrades (cheers).

Sometimes we have been even seen case when not a single British officer remained and the battalion has conducted itself in the most effective manner. Altogether this campaign is one which reflects very high honor on the soldiers of India, of all the castes and creeds which were engaged (cheers).

I felt I could not refer to that matter without bringing it in a direct and emphasized manner to the attention of the house.

The second event which has occurred since we were last here is the sharp and well sustained action at Salum. This is of interest because it was fought exclusively between British and German troops. It has not, I suppose, been found worthwhile to maintain Italian troops at the end of such a long and precarious line of communication.

Fighting Was Severe

The fighting was severe, but of course not on a very large scale. Several of our motorized brigades, supported by armored brigades and strong artillery, advanced about 30 miles from the position where they had been deployed for some weeks past and attacked the enemy, taking Salum, taking the Hellfire (Halfaya) Pass, taking Fort Capuzzo.

The armored troops had got well round the flank and were very well situated at about 1 o'clock on the 17th. But the Germans launched resolute counter action of about 40 tanks and recaptured Fort Capuzzo. That entailed the withdrawal of the armored brigade from the advantageous position which it had attained.

The operations therefore were indecisive. The Germans claim 100 British prisoners. We have 500 Germans in our hands and losses in tank and in personnel are certainly as heavy, if not heavier, on their side than on ours.

But this operation must be regarded on the background that for more than six weeks past the Germans have been proclaiming that they shortly would be in Suez and have been making much credit with the neutral world by spreading statements of this kind.

It is therefore satisfactory for us to see that we have retained strong offensive power and that the fighting is being maintained at any rate on even terms in advanced areas of the approaches to Egypt.

The third matter is not yet known to the house. For the last few days our reconnoitering airplanes have noticed very heavy concentrations of German aircraft of all kinds on the airdromes of southern Greece and we have attacked them night after night, inflicting considerable damage.

But it is now clear that these concentrations were a prelude to an attack upon Crete. An airborne attack in great strength has begun this morning and what cannot fail to be a serious battle has begun and is developing.

Our troops there—British, New Zealand and Greek forces—are under the command of Gen. Freyberg and we feel confident that the most stern and resolute resistance will be offered to the enemy.

Churchill made a second statement to the House on motion for adjournment as follows:

I mentioned to the House this morning that a sericus attack had begun upon the Island of Crete by air-borne troops. I thought the House would like to know befo.e it separated what is the latest information in possession of the government.

I cannot pretend that the statement is of momentous importance: It is only because we are all together in this matter that I thought the house would like to know and I was most anxious to keep them fully informed, as it is my duty to do whenever possible.

After a good deal of intense bombing of Suda Bay and various airdromes in the neighborhood, about 1,500 enemy troops, wearing New Zealand battledress (cries of oh) landed by gliders, parachutes and troop carriers in the Canea-Malemi area.

This message was sent at 10 o'clock today and the military reported the situation was in hand. Apparently the capture of Malemi airdrome was the enemy's object and this has so far failed.

A later report at 3 o'clock says there is continuous reconnaissance accompanied by sporadic bombing and machine-gunning, chiefly against antiaircraft defenses. The military hospital between Canea and Malemi, which was captured by the enemy, has now been recaptured.

It is reported that there is a fairly strong enemy party near the Canea-Malemi Road which is not yet mopped up, but the other parties are accounted for. The Heraclean airdrome has been bombed, but there has been no landing so far.

I thought the people would like to hear how the action has so far developed.

sault upon Crete meant these things:

1. That the great and expected battle extending from Egypt's frontier clear around the eastern end of the Mediterranean is now under way, with encirclement of friendly Turkey in sight unless Britain can hold fast at Crete.

2. That Germany is now ready to employ the talents of more than 100,000 trained glider pilots.

3. That the Nazi command is prepared for the greatest risks, for it was noted that any soldier found in enemy dress is subject to summary execution as a spy.

The Prime Minister's first story of the half-incredible attack—an attack which some thought might also be a rehearsal for a greater attempt one day upon Britain herself—came at the end of a review of the African campaign.

Concluding this summary with the statement that in Africa Britain had "retained strong offensive power," and that the fighting in the approaches to Egypt was being "maintained at any rate on even terms," he added:

"The third matter is not known to the house. For the last few days our reconnoitering airplanes have noticed very heavy concentrations of German aircraft of all kinds on the airdromes of southern Greece and we have attacked them night after night, inflicting considerable damage.

"Our troops there—British, New Zealand and Greek forces—are under the command of Gen. Freyberg (himself a New Zealander), and we feel confident that the most stern and resolute resistance will be offered to the enemy."

"After a good deal of bombing of Suda Bay (the major Crete harbor) and various airdromes in the neighborhood, about 1,500 enemy troops wearing New Zealand battle dress (and there were cries of "Oh!" in the house) landed by gliders, parachutes and troop carriers in the Canea-Malemi area. . . .

"Apparently the capture of Malemi Airdrome was the enemy's object, and this has so far failed . . .

"The military hospital between Canea and Malemi, which was captured by the enemy, has now been recaptured.

"It is reported that there is a fairly strong enemy party near the Canea-Malemi road which is not yet mopped up, but the other parties are accounted for.

"The Heraclean airdrome has been bombed, but there has been no landing (there) so far."

Churchill's explanation that the heavy maneuvering of Nazi aircraft in Greece had suggested to the British that something was afoot was supported by a disclosure of the R. A. F.

British pilots, it was announced, have been carrying out since Sunday morning a running series of destructive raids upon the Nazi-held airdromes in Greece. The Germans for their part began their preparations for the invasion yesterday by bombing the Crete airdromes.

Whatever the ultimate fate of Crete, it appeared that the Greek King, George II, would stay there until the end. Simultaneously with the arrival of six Greek cabinet officers in Cairo, it was reported that the monarch was staying on the island despite the entreaties of his friends.

morning by British planes.

As for the operations in Iraq, a communique received here from Bagdad reported repulse of British on the western Iraqui front, and destruction of 30 British armored cars by the forces in the Basra area and by the Axis-reinforced Iraqui air force.

The communique said losses in men and material were inflicted on the British on the southern front, where Iraqis, reinforced by irregulars, successfully attacked British positions and took prisoners. It added that two gunboats bombarding Iraqui positions from the Persian gulf were driven off and one was damaged by Iraqui artillery.

British Claim Gains

(A British communique issued at Cairo claimed capture of the town of Fallujah, about 35 miles west of Bagdad, after a brief engagement. The British said this gave them control of an important route into Bagdad. At Habbaniyah and in the Basra area the situation was quiet, the communique said.

(A British broadcast heard in New York by N. B. C. said R. A. F. troop-carrying planes landed men on three sides of Fallujah and that they took the town without a casualty despite the flooding of the countryside by natives in an effort to thwart the landings. An important bridge over the Euphrates River near Fallujah was said to be intact.

(Ankara reported that French officers were regrouping the Syrian army of 35,000 men nearer the Palestine border, and foreign military attaches there said they had learned that German troops were heavily concentrated in Greek mainland ports and the Aegean Islands as far east as Rhodes, while the Nazi air force assigned to the area was believed to exceed 700 planes.)

French Threaten Reprisals

Vichy, May 20 (U.P.).—High French authorities warned tonight that the French air force may launch "reprisal" attacks on British air and naval bases in Palestine if R. A. F. bombings of Syrian airdromes and British attempts to stir up revolt in French possessions continue.

The warning was issued following the arrival in Syria of French Air Minister Gen. Jean Marier Bergeret, who was rushed to Beirut by air on orders of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and French defense leaders after the start of the British bombings there.

U. S. Legation In Bagdad Offers Protection to 160

British subjects as well as Americans are concentrated for protection in the American Legation in Bagdad, according to reports received here. Other Britons are in the British Embassy some distance away.

All told there are 160 persons in the United States Legation and apparently Paul Knabenshue, the minister, and his two sceeretaries, and the others are not leaving the compound as a precautionary measure.

The reports have not indicated a grave situation but they have been scanty.

Envoy to Belgrade Is en Route Home

Arthur Bliss Lane, the American Minister to Yugoslavia, informed the State Department yesterday that he has arrived in Budapest, en route to the United States for consultation.

Secretary of State Hull said this did not mean that the United States was closing its legation in Belgrade. The rest of the staff remains there.

Lane was accompanied to Budapest by his wife; Robert B. McAtee, first secretary of the legation; Mrs. C. H. Bonbright, wife of the second secretary of the legation, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly, and two empolyes of the legation. They arrived in Budapest by river steamer two days ago. Members of the American colony in Belgrade who also arrived in Budapest on the same boat included Leon Kay, Washington, D. C.

U. S. Bombers Beat Back New Push in Egypt

By Edward Kennedy
Associated Press Staff Writer

With the British Forces in North Africa, May 20.—A new German sally into Egypt from Fort Capuzzo on the Libyan frontier has been beaten back with the help of American-made bombers which destroyed Axis tanks and forced the invaders to retreat to their base.

The planes, Martin bombers, were taken from reconnaissance duties for front line work in the first use of American planes in this area. One of the pilots was an American citizen; others came from all parts of the empire.

(In London it was suggested that the planes were from an order of 250 placed by the French before their defeat).

The planes took off at dusk after the German column of 160 armored vehicles moved into positions on a 6-mile front.

British armored units and artillery withstood the main shock of the attack and observers said eight German tanks were destroyed, bringing the attackers to a stop.

The planes were used to harass the Germans and their bombs destroyed several more tanks and started fires among the vehicles. British Blenheims also attacked the same targets and fighters destroyed 19 automobiles and a gasoline dump.

(Reuters, British news agency, reported from Melbourne that the Australian army minister, Percy C. Spender, announced 500 Germans were captured in the Capuzzo area, vehicles were destroyed and heavy enemy casualties inflicted in British and Australian counterattacks at Tobruk, besieged British-held garrison 80 miles inside Libya.

Italy's viceroy of Ethiopia, the Duke of Aosta, and his staff are believed to have surrendered to the British at noon today at Amba Alaja according to plan.

(In Rome today, King Victor Emmanuel sent the Duke of Aosta a message of congratulation on his bravery and conferred on him a gold medal.)

Churchill Balks At Clearing Up Hess Mystery

By the Associated Press

London, May 20.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today he was not in a position to make any statement on the Hess case and he was "not at all sure when I will be."

Thus he left the public and members of Parliament as well to their guessing on the reasons for the May 10 flight to Scotland of Rudolf Hess, No. 3 Nazi.

Vyvyan Adams, Conservative, had entered the questions of whether it was known if the Hess coming was "planned with the connivance and support of the German government" and whether the government would bear in mind the possibility that "the whole stunt may be the common or garden variety of plant."

James Maxton, a Laborite, said that two ministers during the week-end had given a full description of why Hess was in Britain "and all the rest of it."

He asked Churchill to restrain them until an "authoritative" statement is made on behalf of the government.

The reference was to recent statements by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison and Labor Minister Ernest Bevin.

Churchill replied that he believed the week-end statements commanded "general approval" and added:

"It is one thing that statements of that kind are made and another that I should, as it were, sum up on behalf of the government the results of all the inquiries we are making and all the information that comes to our hands."

Questioned About Duke

James Griffiths, another Laborite, asked Churchill to allay "public anxiety" about a British citizen's receiving a "private letter from Hess in Germany."

Churchill replied that there was no doubt that Griffiths referred to the Duke of Hamilton, whose estate Hess was seeking when he parachuted from a crash-bound Messerschmitt in Scotland, but added that this was a question which would be answered by the air secretary, "under whose authority the duke is serving."

Lady Astor Attacks Home Defense Heads

By the Associated Press

London, May 20.—Lady Nancy Astor, Virginia-born Conservative member of Parliament and a power in British politics, blamed the government today for "lack of leadership on the home front" and attacked Home Secretary Herbert Morrison for failure of blitzkrieg defenses.

"We are losing the battle on the home front and will go on losing it unless we are more active and speak fearlessly and try to get things right," she told the House of Commons.

She said Morrison, one of the leading members of the Labor Party, was too careful of local authorities and let them make mistakes while 12 towns were bombed and burned.

She called errors by London authorities a "public scandal" and asked, "If a general lost 12 battles, wouldn't you wonder whether you ought to get rid of him?"

"We've got to get a coordinating plan for the whole country," she said.

Speaking on the government's bill to unify the country's fire-fighting forces, Lady Astor made it clear she had nothing against Prime Minister Churchill.

"He is a magnificent military leader, but we want a home front leader as well," she said.

She charged that male officials were "always passing the buck." Women are not like that. There are plenty of really able women standing idle—and we have some doddering old politicians who ought to have been buried long ago."

"The government is still run too much on party lines," she remarked.

Morrison said the proposed bill would reduce 1,400 fire brigades to 50 regional brigades, with regional reserves ready to move to any point severely attacked.

5 Nazi Divisions In Finland

Copyright by New York Times

Bern, Switzerland, May 20.—There are now nearly five divisions of German troops in Finland, according to information from a usually well-informed diplomatic quarter here tonight.

These troops, in order to avoid attracting too much attention, have been transported there, according to this source, in "overflow"—that is to say, accompanying groups of regular reinforcements in transit for Norway and stopping off on arrival in Finland.

Nazi-Controlled Vichy Press Lambasts Admiral Leahy

Vichy, May 20 (U.P.)—The German-controlled French press in Paris, lashing out angrily at the United States, today asserted that U. S. Ambassador Leahy's presence in Vichy has "become delicate and even impossible" because of President Roosevelt's hostile attitude toward France.

Admiral Leahy, who has warned Marshal Petain of Washington's suspicions in regard to the still-pending French-German collaboration negotiations, was confined indoors today on doctors' orders after suffering a slight pulmonary congestion.

The attacks on Leahy in the Paris press were part of a symphony of anti-American hate which appeared to be inspired, inasmuch as the leading French editorial writers there—Jean Luchaire, Marcel Deat, George Saurez and Stephane Lauzanne—all said the same thing in almost identical words.

The United States has no right to dictate what France may or may not do because the United States "abandoned" France in May and June of 1940 and remained deaf to her appeals for aid, they said, echoing last Friday night's announcement of the Vichy government.

Explain Actions, Hull Bluntly Tells Vichy in Rejecting Protest

The United States yesterday told France it must prove its government is not under German domination before there can be satisfactory relations between the Vichy regime and peaceful nations.

Authoritative quarters disclosed that this was the uncompromising reply of Secretary of State Hull to a protest by French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye against the "unfriendly gesture" of the United States in placing 14 French ships under custody in United States ports.

Hull's plain-spoken reprimand came during a stormy one-hour conference he held with the French envoy yesterday. It was their first meeting in many weeks and came after the United States had sent Coast Guardsmen aboard the French vessels and after President Roosevelt's appeal to the French people, over the heads of their government, to resist any close collaboration with Germany.

Says Vichy Must Explain

The Secretary of State was said to have told Henry-Haye that all nations are satisfied that pro-Hitler elements are now in supreme control of the government of Marshal Petain.

This places the burden on the French government to correct that impression, if it is wrong, Hull was described as telling the envoy.

The Vichy government must make clear that it is acting in good faith in keeping with the terms of the armistice agreement, informed sources said, if the United States is to believe that France is impartial.

"This Emotional Explosion"

The United States position reportedly is that there can be no satisfactory relations with Vichy as long as the impression prevails that France and Germany are coalescing beyond provisions of the French-German armistice.

After leaving Hull's office, Henry-Haye told reporters he had come to ask the reason for what he termed "this emotional explosion" about the new course of the French government.

He threatened that the Vichy government will not release two French ships which carried $1,000,000 worth of wheat to France until the Coast Guardsmen are removed from French vessels in United States harbors. A condition of the gift of wheat to France was that the two ships should return to the United States after completing their mercy mission.

He presented a formal protest against the boarding of the French ships by the Coast Guard, assured Hull that France has not cooperated with Berlin beyond the armistice requirements, and warned that France will defend all its empire possession, with special reference to Dakar and Martinique.

"Must Bow to Victor"

Henry Haye said that the chief complaint against his government was that German planes have been permitted to use Syrian airfields in connection with the Axis drive on Iraq oil fields.

The envoy quoted from Article XVIII of the French-German armistice, which says that "all airports and all airport equipment . . . will be under German and Italian control."

He rebuffed suggestions that this article might imply that Dakar and Martinique were also under German and Italian control, saying that the actual situation was not nearly so severe for France as the language of the armistice agreemen.

He emphatically denied that France had entered into any agreement exceeding its armistice obligations and asserted that the recent reduction of the French tribute to Germany for the cost of occupation resulted from a reduction of the number of German soldiers on French soil.

Henry-Haye emphasized throughout that France had to acknowledge defeat in battle, must bow to the victor and has to face stern facts and act accordingly.

Henry-Haye said he filed no protest against President Roosevelt's reprimand to the French government, but he was "painfully surprised" by the outburst of anti-French emotion.

Vichy Hints Compromise With Americas

By the Associated Press

Vichy, May 20.—Hints that France might consider an understanding with American republics concerning its possessions in the Western Hemisphere were heard in some circles tonight.

It was suggested that while France was interested in incorporating all its African colonies in the new European order, the situation across the ocean was different, and that Martinique and other Western Hemisphere colonies might be treated along the lines followed with Japan over Indo-China.

(Japan was given the right to base certain troops and planes in Indo-China and France agreed to make no accord on the colony which would oppose Japan.)

French sources made clear also that the statement that she would fight to regain control of her African colonies had no connection with colonies in the American hemisphere.

They scouted rumors abroad that Vichy had warned Washington any attack would be met with force, saying that was "far from necessary."

Later declarations by Telemondial, an official news agency, even toned down the statement that France would take aggressive action against the forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. They said it merely confirmed the government's stand against "dissidence."

Nazis Offer 'Safe Haven' For U. S. Relics

Copyright by New York Times

Berlin, May 20.—The appropriation of $30,000 by Congress for the creation of a secure and secret repository for British and American documents of state prompts the Boersen Zeitung to suggest that the German Reichsbank undoubtedly would deem it an honor to place its bomb and burglar-proof vaults at the disposal of the United States, in the event the impregnability of Fort Knox should be considered inadequate.

The only condition imposed by the German newspaper is that the collection of documents should also include the original, or a certified facsimile, of the Monroe Doctrine. Says the Boersen Zeitung:

"The proposal to bury the English Magna Charter somewhere in American soil has historical justification. It would constitute a symbolic act corresponding to that which determined the hasty transfer of that document to America at the beginning of the war.

"As for the American documents, it would seem Congress might have dispensed with the $30,000 appropriation. Those documents, for instance, might have found a resting place in Fort Knox quite as appropriately as the world gold hoard which is now reposing there as a nightmare to the American people. Dictators, it is well known, have a habit of getting out of the way of gold.

"If, however," the Boersen Zeitung continues, "this proposal does not find approval, we offer with the same sincerity that underlies the concern of the members of Congress for these documents to provide a bomb and burglar-proof repository in a Germany safe from invasion, until such time as peace and with it commonsense and American independence from war-mongers shall have returned.

"It would be an honor for the German Reichbank to dedicate one of its massive steel vaults to such an undertaking, with the provision, however, that the original or a certified facsimile of the Monroe Doctrine be included among the documents."

on American suggestions that the survivors might have been taken to Dakar, French West Africa, or to Casablanca, French Morocco (neither of which is known to be German-occupied).

The Zamzam, which sailed from New ork March 20, left Recife, Brazil, April 9, for Capetown, South Africa. The British ministry of information announced Monday that she was overdue and was presumably lost.

Well-informed German quarters and the press reflected considerable irritation with the United States, charging that influential Americans deliberately misrepresented the sinking as "Nazi barbarity," whereas the German navy, it was argued, took extreme pains to save everyone aboard, including the Americans, and conducted the whole operation in strictest accord with international law.

"The vessel was destroyed with the most exacting regard for all international agreements," said the German spokesman.

"The ship carried contraband intended for the enemy. German naval units observed every regulation in meeting the situation. It might be called a perfect example of the war on sea commerce, carried out according to regulations." (This comment apparently was in reference to the fact that Zamzam, as an Egyptian ship, was at least tecnically a neutral.)

Germans chuckled over the confusion indicated in American reports, some that the Zamzam sank with all hands and others that she was not damaged at all and was safe somewhere.

"She is safe in the hands of Neptune, and much war material she carried is safe in our hands," said a German spokesman with a smile.

House Passes Drastic Ship Control Bill

The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate legislation giving the Maritime Commission far-reaching powers to control cargoes and movements of America's merchant fleet.

In addition, legislation authorizing the Navy to build or acquire and convert some 58 additional auxiliary ships costing about $350,000,000 was passed by the Senate and sent to the White House.

Shipping control, under the first measure, would be exercised through issuance of warrants to ships which comply with the commission's requests as to cargoes, routes and rates.

Vessels holding warrants would be granted priorities in the use of fueling, loading, discharging, drydock and repair facilities.

House action came on a voice vote after defeat of an amendment offered by Representative Oliver (Republican), of Maine, which would have barred the commission from sending any American vessels into the Red Sea.

The second bill would permit the Navy to add 550,000 tons of tankers, supply ships, minelayers and other auxiliaries to the fleet, giving it an overall strength of 396 auxiliary craft of 1,652,181 tons.

While some of the craft may have to be built, in the interests of speed, the Navy wants to take as many ships as possible from the merchant marine and convert them to naval use.

Roosevelt Denies Report He'll Send Special Message

President Roosevelt said yesterday there was nothing to reports that he would send a special message to Congress soon. At the same time he declined to discuss the convoy issue, saying he had no news on the subject.

Earlier, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader, had expressed the opinion that supplies seemed to be reaching Britain satisfactorily, but after the President's remarks at his press conference, Senator Barkley said he had just been talking casually, that he had no "expert opinion" and "obviously the situation might change at any time."

When the President was told that "his" Congressman, Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican), of New York, had predicted that he would shortly proclaim a full emergency, the President countered by asking who could have told Fish that?

Fish kept up his agitation over the war question in the House, meanwhile, questioning that a clear cut war resolution would receive as many as 100 votes in Congress.

"Convoying also would be badly beaten," he said.

Representative Ed. V. Izac (Democrat), of California, proposed that the American Navy patrol a shipping zone between the United States and Ireland as a means of assuring safe delivery of aid to Britain and advocating the use of convoys. Izac argued that such a zone would be well within the Western Hemisphere, which he described as beginning at the longitude of Greenwich and running to 180 degrees west longitude. Under this definition, he said, the United States could define an area of ocean extending from the Northeast Coast of this country to Greenland or Iceland, and thence to Ireland or Scotland. American ships, under this plan would confine themselves to that lane, which would be protected by American war vessels.

Representative Paul M. Shafer (Republican), of Michigan, struck out at the idea of "union now" which, he charged, would mean that the United States would have to do the fighting and the paying for such a combination of nations.

Representative Karl E. Mundt (Republican), of South Dakota and member of the House "Non-Interventionists," spoke last night over a radio hookup, urging that every effort be made by the United States to bring the conflict to an end through mediation

"A peace planned this time by a neutral mediation conference instead of a post-war peace conference between embittered rivals would be better than victory for either side," Mundt said. "It is surely better than war fought to exhaustion by both sides, and is vastly better than our own participation in a war whose objective we ourselves are unable to define specifically."

Senator Tom Conally (Democrat), of Texas, advocated in a broadcast that the United States seize French possessions in this hemisphere in the event France gives any military or naval aid to Germany "in her conquering campaign of tyranny."

"We do not propose that totalitarian governments shall acquire a single inch of land in the western world," he said.

Home Defense Plan Gives All Chance to Aid

By George Bookman
Post Staff Writer

President Roosevelt yesterday gave his answer to the many Americans—men, women and children—who have wondered: What can I do for national defense?

He named Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, of New York, to head an office of civilian defense which will invite every one in the land to become a volunteer, part-time soldier in the army of democracy.

Mayor LaGuardia will explain his plans to the Nation in a radio broadcast at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

The family man who has been deferred from military service but "wants to help," the housewife who would like to pitch in for national defense in her spare time, the kid around the corner who wants to serve his country even though he is still too young to shoulder a musket—all of them will have a chance to "do their bit" under the newly announced program.

Mayor LaGuardia, who will be sworn into the new job tomorrow—at no pay and on part time—made his first official move as director of Civilian Defense last night. He ordered New York City Department of Markets personnel to prepare plans for food distribution in event of an emergency.

In a few days the fiery New York Mayor will throw into action defense councils that have already been created in 45 States, the District of Columbia and 1,500 cities.

These councils, to be created in every State and in every city where one is needed, will do the work of actually running the program locally.

President Roosevelt, in announcing the OCD, said it would work through local councils on a regional basis. Creation of nine regional areas, to correspond to the nine Army corps areas is being considered, he said.

Defense of lives and property against any foreign attacks will be a chief function of the civilian defense program. But there will be countless other types of work as well.

Setup Explained

Here is how a volunteer can help under the civilian defense program:

Presumably any man, woman or child who wants to help will be asked to register at the office of his local defense council. In the District, the office is in the District Building, Fourteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest.

Mr. Roosevelt did not specify any special tasks for the volunteers to perform, but officials have in mind a long list of jobs, some useful in war and others equally valuable in peace.

Men will be invited to learn to act as air raid wardens, how to herd people into shelters, quell hysteria, recognize various types of bombs, put out fires and administer first aid. Home guards, organized in several States to replace National Guards, will be trained to guard bridges, culverts, power stations and other key objectives.

Women volunteers would knit clothing for the warriors, watch retail prices for signs of inflation, operate feeding stations and administer first aid.

Boys could clean up backyards, basements and attics to reduce the fire hazard from incendiary bombs, could collect old tires and scrap iron in case of a rubber and iron shortage, and could help men in fire and guard duty.

Domestic Training Planned

Girls would receive training in cooking, care of babies, knitting, wrapping bandages and taking over household tasks so that their mothers could devote their energies to National defense.

A special effort will be made to recruit men who have been deferred from military service. President Roosevelt said he was asking the Selective Service Administration to give the OCD the names of deferred men who said they would like to help National defense at home.

The President's executive order creating OCD made it a subsidiary of the Office of Emergency Management, the "holding company" for many defense agencies.

The President specified that there be within the OCD two new agencies: a Board for Civilian Protection and a Volunteer Participation Committee.

Wanton Murder of Poles Continues, Diplomat Asserts

Copyright by New York Times

According to a statement issued by an anonymous diplomatic source in Washington, "wanton murdering of Poles by the Gestapo under the pretext of legal passing of death sentences" has not ceased in that Nazi-occupied country.

The statement declares that eight men were recently executed at Zamosc for illegal possession of guns and continues:

"Ostdeutscher Beobachter of April 24 states death sentences passed on several Poles charged with various offenses ranging from attacking a German man in Wolynia to singing Polish anthem."

Recruiting for work in the Reich is described as follows:

"With the coming of spring, the German authorities in Poland began anew the process of recruiting Polish working forces for the Reich. Undoubtedly, German actions in this respect will undergo several stages. First, the Germans tempt the hunger-stricken population with various promises, then, gradually, they employ more radical measures of force. Finally, it ends similiarly to the last year's procedure—brutal 'man-hunting' in the cities, villages and streets.

"The first stage in this procedure is characterized by a commentary in the Krakauer Zeitung of April 23 which states that the Polish workers have changed their attitude and are enrolling voluntarily to leave for the Reich. The inducements are better wages than those received in German-occupied Poland.

"Workers wishing to leave their employment, in face of bad conditions and brutal treatment, are forced to remain. If they escape they are sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. Death sentences have been imposed in several instances. It is not surprising, therefore, that workers in occupied countries are reluctant to work in Germany. In consequence of Germany's labor shortage, recruiting offices have been opened in all occupied countries, those suffering the greatest distress naturally receiving the most attention—no fewer than 250 recruiting offices have been opened in the Warsaw district alone."

The effect of the attacks of the R. A. F. on industrial plants in central western Germany has caused the Nazis to organize a new industrial center in the remotest districts of the eastern part of Nazi-occupied Poland, the statement declares.

Interviewing in the latest study was completed during the week ending May 17.

Willing to Take Risks

Institute surveys have repeatedly shown that the country is against going to war at this time by a substantial majority—a fact in which isolationists can take comfort. On the other hand, interventionists can take comfort in the equally important fact that a high percentage of the people who vote against war today nevertheless state their readiness to take steps at the risk of war, or just short of war, in order to aid Britain. The vote on guarding or convoying ships is additional evidence of this willingness to take risks.

Sentiment against going to war at this time naturally raises the question of whether the American public has set its face against war no matter what happens across the Atlantic. Institute studies have shown that a majority of voters say, at this time, that they would rather go to war than see Britain lose. Of course it must be remembered that if British fighting power declines, the actual facts or conditions at that time would likely alter such sentiment one way or the other.

Entry Not Necessary

The public is simply against going to war as of this date, because it feels that our entrance is not necessary at this time and that, in any case, the Nation is not yet well enough prepared for a major war.

The arguments put forward by the majority of persons in today's study are that there is no use making war materials for Britain unless the materials get there, and that it is better to help England now than to fight it out alone with Germany later.

The argument put forward on the other side, by voters who oppose convoys, is that convoying will lead to war.

The degree of public interest in this highly controversial issue is well demonstrated by the fact that only one person in every 14 (7 per cent) interviewed in the survey had no opinion on the subject.

Although Wendell Willkie has come out in favor of convoys, today's study found that a majority of persons in the survey who voted for Willkie last November oppose convoys, the vote being 52 per cent against, 42 per cent in favor and the rest undecided.

Among persons who voted for Roosevelt last November, sentiment is running 60 per cent in favor of convoys, 33 per cent opposed, with the rest expressing no opinion.

The division of sentiment on the issue is very much like the division found on the lease-lend bill when it was first introduced last winter.

Greatest opposition to lease-lend came from the East Central and West Central States—stretching from Ohio westward to Nebraska above the Mason-Dixon line.

That area is opposed to convoys, today's study finds. In fact, of the six great geographical regions of the Nation, the East Central and West Central are the two which disapprove of convoys, while the others are in favor by varying majorities.

Father Defends Accused Ensigns

Pensacola, Fla., May 20 (U.P.).—A father fought for his son's freedom in a naval court-martial here today as two ensigns went on trial charged with decapitating a woman in an Alabama turnip field when they flew their service plane too low.

Paul Brown, Chicago attorney, defended his son, Paul Brown, jr., and J. E. Thompson, of Healdsburg, Calif. Frederick M. Leoder, lieutenant officer in charge of the defendants' squadron, said there was blood on the wings of the plane when the fliers landed.

Gallup to Poll Troops on Dates, Fighting Abroad and Discipline

The Army has authorized Gallup Poll interviewers to proceed with an opinion survey among men in the ranks, covering such diverse questions as whether they favor sending troops abroad to fight, whether military discipline is more strict than anticipated and whether wearing a uniform helps or hinders their getting dates.

A list of 14 queries were circulated among troops throughout the country, but the survey ran into a snag in the Second Army. Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, Second Army commander, ruled that questions on foreign policy, military discipline, the quality of Army food, housing facilities, etc., were improper, but that such inquiries as to whether soldiers had more dates than before they entered the service could be answered.

Other Army commanders referred the matter to the War Department, and yesterday a spokesman said that they had been advised to let the soldiers answer all the questions.

"We feel that it might be a good idea to find out what the men think of their quarters, food, discipline, etc," it was said.

Union Votes Strike in Key Defense Plant

By the Associated Press

C. I. O. workers voted last night to strike at the Carborundum Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y., manufacturer of abrasive wheels and materials which, the firm said, are used in practically every defense industry in the Nation."

Charles A. Doyle, C. I. O. district organizer, said the strike has been called for May 26. The firm employs about 3,200.

Doyle declared the C. I. O. seeks (1) Arbitration of a worker's dismissal. (2) That the company "stop favoring of the company's union" and that "there be no sole recognition given it" pending Labor Board action, and (3) "immediate action" to obtain a "genuine collective bargaining agreement."

Leaders of the American Federation of Labor Metal Trades Council agreed yesterday to postpone sending men back to work in the San Francisco Bay shipyards through picket lines of striking C. I. O. and A. F. L. machinists.

The postponement was ordered at the request of Rear Admiral John Wills Greenslade, commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, and City Manager Jack Hassler of Oakland, to permit Gov. Culbert L. Olson to talk to the men last night and urge them voluntarily to end their walkout.

Seventeen hundred machinists walked out several days ago, but the Trades Council has termed the strike illegitimate. The strikers are asking wage increases from $1 to $1.15 an hour and continuance of double pay for overtime.

John Frey, president of the A. F. L. Metal Trades Department, had indicated that two of the 11 closed shipyards might be reopened yesterday and the others Wednesday.

Ohio Strike Ended

Another shipyards strike at Lorain, Ohio, termed unauthorized by A. F. of L. union leaders, was ended after a conference of the leaders and the strikers. An official of the Michinists Union said the men would return to work at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday under 4-cent hourly increases for those previously paid 79 cents an hour, and 5-cent raises for those receiving 80 cents and more.

The strike was against the American Ship Building Co., which is making six submarine net tenders for the Navy. The walkout at noon yesterday kept about 1,000 men idle.

The General Tire & Rubber Co.'s Wabash, Ind., plant was picketed by A. F. L. rubber workers, but company officials said 95 per cent of the 1,100 employes remained at work. A union organizer said 250 workers had walked off the 11 p. m., shift Sunday. Union demands were not announced.

A strike of the A. F. L. Federal Labor Union closed the C. G. Hussey & Co. copper rolling mill at Pittsburgh after night-long attempts by a State labor mediator to avert a walkout. The union is asking recognition, a closed shop and reemployment of four discharged men.

One thousand waterfront workers in Buffalo received wage increases of $300,000 a year, retroactive to the beginning of the shipping season last month. The increases ended a month's dispute between A. F. L. longshoremen and two Great Lakes package freighter lines.

In New York, a new two-year wage contract covering the Appalachian area was approved by Northern soft coal operators and the C. I. O. United Mine Workers. The agreement applies also to the Southern coal fields of the eight-State region, but the Southern owners were not represented at yesterday's conference.

The agreement calls for basic daily wages of $7, an increase of $1 in the North and $1.40 in the South.

Senate Votes Reports Office $1,500,000

The Senate yesterday voted, 39 to 18, to give permanent status to the Office of Government Reports and authorize an annual appropriation of $1,500,000 for the agency.

Approval of the Administration-sponsored legislation came after five hours of debate centering on Republican charges that the reports office duplicates functions of other Government agencies, indulges in "propaganda" and is a potential medium for censorship of the press.

Administration forces, by four separate roll call votes, overwhelmed amendments which would have reduced the authorization from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000, granted the authorization for only one year, placed the agency's personnel under civil service and abolished the field offices of the agency.

Goes Back to House

The bill now goes back to the House, which approved it last month, for action on the only amendment adopted by the Senate, a provision barring the distribution by the reports office of films or radio scripts. The amendment was proposed by Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio.

Senator Hill (Democrat), of Alabama, chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments and floor manager for the bill, told the Senate that the measure in no way expands the powers that the information agency has exercised for the last seven years.

The agency, now operated on emergency relief appropriation and defense funds, was allotted $975,000 for the current fiscal year. It digests newspaper reports on Government activities, answers inquiries on Government activities and supplies the President with information on functioning of various Federal agencies in the States.

Representative Voorhis is author of a bill to grant American citizenship to Valtin, against whom deportation proceedings have been started by the Department of Justice. The California New Dealer contends that Valtin is too valuable to deport. Already, Voorhis says, Valtin has done much to awaken Americans to the danger of the Fifth Column, and he is eager to do more. The only people who want him deported, according to Voorhis, are the Nazis and the Communists.

Headquarters of the American Peace Mobilization announced last night that a contingent representing the American Communications Association, C. I. O., will join the picket line in front of the White House today. The A. C. A., which includes ship radio operators, will be the second maritime union to fall in line, the National Maritime Union, C. I. O., having had its sailors carrying "No Convoy" placards from the outset.

A statement from headquarters said that 14 members of the National Maritime Union had been picketing the White House and had given "a magnificent display of discipline and enthusiasm." The N. M. U., it was said further, had sent the sailors money for cigarettes and a Houston, Tex., peace club had sent them money for "lemonade."

Meanwhile, a membership meeting of The Bookshop, a consumer cooperative, last night condemned what it called "the illegal seizure" of its membership list by the Dies Committee and denied "insinuations" that it is a Communist organization.

At the stormy session, the resignation of nine members of The Bookshop was flung at the platform by Corienne Robinson, administrative assistant in the office of racial relations, U. S. Housing Authority, who asked the presiding officer whether "only one side of the question" was going to be heard.

David McCalmont, general counsel of the District of Columbia Cooperative League, who surrendered a Bookshop membership list to a Dies Committee investigator, waited in the lobby of the Burlington Hotel until the stormy session neared its close, and then he was allowed five minutes to make a statement.

He declared that neither he nor anyone connected with the league had any contact with the Dies Committee until the agent arrived with the subpena. He said he had severed his connection with the Bookshop because "I no longer have any hope of being able to turn the Bookshop into a genuine cooperative."

Before he appeared, McCalmont's expulsion from the Bookshop membership by its board was approved by the meeting.

In a rebuttal to his statement, Dick Brady, Bookshop representative to the Cooperative League, said the list surrendered to the Dies Committee investigator was not an accurate membership list. He said that the list had been marked by McCalmont with the symbols "S" and "R" by members' names, indicating "Stalinist" and "Rochdaleite." The latter term indicates adherence to cooperative principles. Brady said the marking of this list, without evidence but merely on the basis of personal opinion, "greatly endangered the jobs and livelihood of several hundred persons."

The resolution adopted at the meeting demanded of the Dies Committee the Bookshop's "right to defend itself publicly."

About 300 persons attended the meeting, at which a split came when Dorothy I. Cline attempted to get the floor to read a resolution. It would have protested against the recent withdrawal of the Bookshop from the Cooperative League by acton of the Bookshop's board of trustees, and would have urged that the board be divested of its powers of office. Miss Cline, community relations counselor with the USHA, was ruled out of order.

Thereupon Miss Robinson announced to the presiding officer, David Wahl, the resignation of herself, Miss Cline, Henry Lee Moon, Betty MacDonald Miller, Robert C. Weaver, John Saks, Lucie Breyer, Arthuh Jacobs, Lucia M. Pitts.

U. S. to Expand Steel Plants In West, Aluminum Output

By Alfred Friendly
Post Staff Writer

Although the Government is about to veto the project of Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast industrialist, to erect a $150,000,000 steel plant, it is arranging expansion of steel capacity for Pacific area defense purposes of between 500,000 and 1,000,000 tons annually, it was learned yesterday from OPM sources.

At the same time, reports that the OPM plans an enormous expansion of aluminum production in Government-owned plants, were confirmed by R. S. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Metal Co. He said he had been consulted by defense officials and had indicated that his organization could supervise annual production of 00,000,000 pounds in Federal plants in addition to the 100,000,000-pound annual operations to be underway in the company's own plants by October 15.

Refusal to approve the Kaiser project, which would have involved Defense Plant Corporation financing, is expected as a result of a report by OPM engineers who indicated that it would be wiser for existing steel companies in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast areas to enlarge their plants than for a new organization to start from scratch.

Coal Supply Questioned

The expansion, it was indicated, will take place largely in the Columbia Steel Co. plant near Provo, Utah, which has proved supplies of iron and cokeing coal. Chief question mark in the Kaiser plans, it was learned, was whether additional reliable supplies of coal were available.

The disclosure of the Government's projects for aluminum plants was made by Reynolds during a press conference at which he announced that in test runs Sunday at his company's plant in Lister, Ala., the first ingot aluminum was produced by an organization other than the Aluminum Co. of America.

Reynolds said he understood the Government contemplated building its own plants and was "talking" of an increase of 600,000,000 pounds a year above currently scheduled production, which is now at the rate of about 800,000,000 pounds annually, according to OPM figures.

Offer Supervisorship

Pointing out that he could produce no more than 100,000,000 or 120,000,000 pounds in his own plants, Reynolds said he told defense experts that his company was equipped to conduct operations, on a management-fee basis, to produce an additional 200,000,000 pounds a year in Government-built plants.

Reynolds said he thought the defense agencies planned to obtain 200,000,000 pounds more from Canada, and that the remaining 200,000,000 of the 600,000,000-pound goal would be turned out in Government plants under management contracts held by Alcoa and other aluminum fabricators.

Reynolds also announced that he had signed contracts with owners of large tracts of bauxite, ore from which aluminum is derived, which assures his company delivery of 6,000,000 tons from Dutch Guiana. This amount of ore is sufficient for 3,000,000,000 pounds of aluminum, he indicated.

'Surprise' Witnesses Upset House Hearing on Tax Program

The Ways and Means Committee's hearing on the tax program yesterday was thrown into confusion by the appearance of spokesmen for the International Workers Order and the American Youth Congress.

Representative Wesley Disney (Democrat), Oklahoma, protested that neither should be permitted to testify on the grounds the organizations are subversive in character.

"For my part," he said, "I don't think we ought to dignify these organizations so generally charged with subversive activities by asking their representatives to come here and testify."

Republican Representatives Daniel A. Reed, of New York and Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, joined in citing reports of the Dies Committee charging the organizations were Communist fronts.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina, asserted heatedly that the witnesses had not been invited but had requested opportunities to testify.

The witnesses were John E. Middleton, of New York, vice president of the I. W. O., and Mrs. Vivian Cadden, of Washington, speaking for the A. Y. C. Both opposed the program and urged economies in defense spending.

Text of Relief Message By Roosevelt

President Roosevelt's message to Congress asking an $886,000,000 appropriation for Federal relief activities during the year beginning July 1 follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

In my budget to the Congress in January, I estimated that $995,000,000 would be required during the ensuing fiscal year for continuing the relief program by the Work Projects Administration of the Federal Works Agency. Since the transmission of that message funds appropriated or recommended for national defense have been substantially increased and the Lend-Lease program has been set in motion.

While the increase in defense expenditures will have an important bearing on employment, we cannot anticipate an increase in employment in the same proportion as the increase in expenditures for next year. Moreover, this increase will not necessarily result in a corresponding decrease in unemployment. The labor force will increase, partly due to natural growth and partly due to additional employment of workers such as students who during normal times would continue to pursue an education. Also, many youth and workers on submarginal farms will obtain jobs during the present emergency.

An additional factor militating against as great a reduction in unemployment as might appear possible is that there are many of the presently unemployed who have little chance to be absorbed by the defense effort. Certain regions of the country are not affected by defense activities, and many types of workers are not in demand.

1,000,000 a Month

After weighing all factors I recommend an appropriation of $886,000,000 for the next fiscal year, of which $11,000,000 will be required for administrative expenses or agencies other than the Work Projects Administration. The remainder will provide for an approximate monthly average of 1,000,000 persons to be employed on the relief program.

It has been customary in recent years to provide in the relief appropriation an amount for allocation to Federal agencies for construction and other projects falling within the several categories set forth in the relief act. The agencies receiving such allocations frequently have projects of a similar nature included within State work projects administration programs. It is my belief that most of these projects, and particularly those of the War, Navy, Agriculture and Interior Departments, should be provided for in the State programs. I therefore recommend that provision be made for a limited amount, not to exceed $5,000,000, for nation-wide Federal nonconstruction projects. I further recommend that $600,000 be set aside for allocation, with the approval of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, to those Federal agencies engaged in the planning of projects, or the review of projects, submitted through State work projects administration programs. This sum will offset the 4 per cent administrative allotment now made in connection with the allocations to Federal agencies for projects.

Urges Broader Authority

During the current year the Work Projects Administration has been authorized to train workers for manual occupations in industries engaged in production for national defense. I recommend the broadening of this authority to accelerate the employment of Work Projects Administration workers in private industry.

The Works Projects Administration is now required to remove from employment those persons who have been continuously employed for 18 months, and to make investigations at least once in 12 months to determine the continuing need of each project worker. I believe that the first requirement works a great hardship on many people. The second requirement is unnecessary and costly. I recommend the elimination of these requirements from the 1942 Act.

Under existing law aliens are denied the right to employment on relief projects. I believe that this works a hardship upon a class of persons whose private employment opportunities are becoming increasingly limited. I recommend the removal of this barrier to permit the employment of aliens who are otherwise eligible under the act.

Opposes Discrimination

Administrative employes of the Works Projects Administration, and similar employes in other Federal agencies whose salaries are paid from relief funds, have been barred from the benefits of executive order No. 7916, dated June 24, 1938, and the act of November 26, 1940, extending the classified civil service of the United States. I recommend that this discrimination be eliminated.

There are several sections in the current relief act with respect to political activities. While there is no particular objection to the reenactment of these provisions, most of them appear to be unnecessary because of the passage of the Hatch Act and amendments thereto.

member of the Appropriations Committee, described the President's request as "a well considered estimate of the needs."

"Defense measures have taken up much of the slack of unemployment," he said, "but the WPA program could not be reduced further or eliminated altogether. There are important sections of the country and classes of labor which have not been reached by the defense program."

Opposes 18-Month Clause

President Roosevelt, pointing out that the WPA this year has been authorized to train workers for manual occupations in defense industries, recommended that Congress broaden the authority "to accelerate the employment of WPA workers in private industry."

He also urged Congress to drop the provision of the present relief act which requires the WPA to discharge a worker after 18 months of continuous employment, stating that the regulation "works a great hardship on many people."

Denial of WPA employment to aliens, another feature of the present relief law, imposes hardships "upon a class of persons whose private employment opportunities are becoming increasingly limited," the President said.

Sections of the current relief act forbidding political solicitation of WPA workers and political activity by relief officials "appear to be unnecessary because of the passage of the Hatch Act and amendments thereto," Mr. Roosevelt added.

FWA Enters Labor Dispute

The Federal Works Administration last night entered a C. I. O.-A. F. of L. jurisdictional dispute which closed down construction work on 650 experimental prefabricated houses near the United States naval powder factory at Indianhead, Md. It hoped to get 484 workers back to their jobs.

Members of A. F. of L. craft building trades walked out Monday after one of 11 contractors on the housing project hired workers affiliated with the C. I. O. United Construction Workers Organizing Committee, according to Public Buildings Administration officials.

Ray C. Kirkpatrick, assistant on labor relations for the FWA, was appointed to negotiate the case after it was turned over to his office by the United States Conciliation Service. Conciliation Service officials said similar disputes of a minor nature on the project have been straightened out with little difficulty in the past.

Involved in the project are manufacturers of prefabricated houses who are putting up their own types of houses. They have hired labor wherever they wished, it was said. The dwellings will house workers at the powder factory.

When the houses have fulfilled their purpose at Indianhead they will be taken down and moved elsewhere, to house workers on other jobs, Public Buildings Administration officials said.

More than 300 family units now under construction within the naval reservation have not been affected by the walkout, officers at Indianhead said. Work at the powder plant is not expected to be hindered by the strike. Employes of the plant have been commuting to the reservation pending completion of the houses.

... for the army of defense!

A STORY as long as the story of civilization is behind modern 60-mile-an-hour war machines. The story starts with the invention of the wheel in pre-historic times . . . and before it could culminate in the jeep buggy above, man's ingenuity brought many a refinement.

Wheels provided transportation, but continuous high speeds were impossible until roller bearings were invented to defeat the friction of wheels turning on axles.

And Timken tapered roller bearings are now almost everywhere that wheels or shafts turn — that is why they are so vital to the all-out defense program. The machine tools that make defense equipment, the jeep buggies, and scouting cars, the tanks and bombers and pursuit ships and heavy artillery, as well as the ships that patrol the seas, all depend upon roller bearings for speed, and for quick, easy operation.

Timken is supplying hundreds of factories today, and will supply many more as the defense program expands. And Timken is prepared to meet any demand.

Timken is going "all out".

Aiding Morale

Legion as are the benevolent tugs on our purse strings, there is a tug which has just been engineered in New York that should inspire an enthusiastic response. This is the organization to look after our citizenry under arms. The Y. M. C. A., the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association have just joined forces for the purpose of raising funds to provide recreational facilities for our soldiers and sailors in cities and towns near military camps and naval bases. The campaign of these United Service Organizations, which is headed by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey for the Nation and by Sidney F. Taliaferro as chairman of the local unit, aims at raising $10,765,000. A sum of $250,000 is the District quota. The money is to be used chiefly to maintain service clubs of a strictly civilian character to which recruits can resort for diversion and change from routine on their days off.

In urging public support for this movement, Mr. Dewey rightly said that everybody, regardless of his views about war or peace, should join wholeheartedly in an undertaking of this kind. For none excels it as a morale builder. The Government has a comprehensive program for entertainment and recreation inside the camps, but recruits—naturally and quite properly—like to go to town, too, and relax and enjoy themselves in a different environment. And here the recreational facilities are woefully inadequate. They are so limited, in fact, that in many places townspeople in self-protection frequently turn cold shoulders to the newcomers in nearby cantonments.

Strictly as a defense measure, apart from other reasons, it is most important that good relations should be established and maintained between the men under arms and the civilians with whom they come in contact. Bad feeling, even simple boredom, makes for poor morale. And an army whose morale is poor is undependable, no matter how rigorous its training or how superlative its equipment. So the citizen who responds to the appeal of the United Service Organizations will not only be making life pleasanter for thousands of young men who may have taken up arms at great personal sacrifice. He will be helping to strengthen our defenses by improving the morale of the citizen-soldiery.

The Gaul Of It

Gaston Henri-Haye, representative in Washington of the Vichy branch of the German "New Order," has notified the Department of State that France is determined to defend her empire. These are brave words. But Americans have a right to ask: Against whom is that empire going to be defended? Against France's enemies or against her friends?

'Thinking Makes It So'

Probably the most overworked cliche of the times is the reiterated warning about the perils of "wishful thinking." Indeed, as regards the progress of the present war anything short of the blackest pessimism seems to come under this category. To suppose, for example, that 40 months or so of war and deferred victory may have produced in Germany something comparable to the tensions they have produced in Britain, or for that matter in the United States, is a dangerous illusion. It is wishful thinking.

For the several past decades the tendency of men to believe what they find most hopeful and agreeable to believe has been paraded as though it were some new and profound psychological discovery. Not so many years ago it was being used as an argument against revealed religion. Since men found consolation in believing in God and in eternal salvation, these wishful thoughts were, ipso facto, fallacies. But as a matter of record the tendency of men, when choice is offered them, to believe the agreeable rather than the unpleasant has been observed for thousands of years, and had been commented upon by many observers, including Seneca and Julius Caesar. It is reasonable to assume that a human tendency so universal and so persistent must have a certain virtue in it. Nor is the virtue difficult to discover. If, in some cases, the instinctive optimism of man sometimes leads him to self-deception, more often it preserves him against despair, and to this preservation he owes his survival, for without hope his life is impossible.

This brings up another familiar cliche of the times—which is to say, the constant iteration of the necessity for "realism," or what we call the "realistic viewpoint." The word is too often used as an excuse for not believing what one wishes to seem to want to believe. This is the "realism" of the modern intellectuals so bitterly denounced by the French philosopher Julian Benda. It is the "realism" of Pilate. It is the realism which induces many Americans to parrot the words of the Nazi radio and press about the "inevitability" of Nazi victory. From the realistic viewpoint—the "realism" of Col. Lindbergh—the Nazis won the war even before it began.

Against this barrage we have only the "wishful thinking" of the British people. But for a year Britain, as the New York Times has pointed out, has stood off defeat by wishful thinking. Thus what we mean by wishful thinking is really what is meant by the grander word "Faith." And faith, saith the Apostle, is evidence of things that appear not.

Tyrant Of The Seas

Out of Berlin comes a report which seeks to cover with the respectable cloak of international law the sinking of the Zamzam. It is said that all the proprieties were observed. But the saving of the people aboard, now happily confirmed, does not acquit the Nazis of their duties in connection with the Egyptian craft. The Zamzam was a ship under neutral registry, and the passenger list seems to have been composed of men and women on peaceful, even charitable, missions. The nature of its cargo has not been fully disclosed. The Germans say that the cargo was contraband. But there is yet no satisfactory definition of contraband in international law, and the Nazis could claim anything as contraband, since most goods contribute to war-making in conditions of total conflict.

The Nazi case, however, need not be argued on the problem of contraband. There is the additional matter of procedure about which Berlin says nothing. According to international law, a belligerent meeting a neutral ship suspected of carrying contraband to the enemy has the right to "visit and search." But he must visit and search properly. In the old days, visiting and searching were done on the high seas. But, because of the growth of steamships, deviation into the belligerent's port for examination has been tacitly agreed upon as conformable with international law, provided that the vessel is released without undue delay. In World War I, Germany, with some plausibility, argued that she had no port handy enough to permit of examination, and this was one excuse for sinkings. But in this war possession of the French ports invalidates such an argument. There is, therefore, not the slightest warrant in international law or in decency in international practice for the sinking of the Zamzam.

It is foolish, anyway, to take seriously any talk of international law in connection with the Zamzam when so much lawlessness stalks the world. Nor should it be allowed to obscure the real significance of the Zamzam incident. The sinking shows once again that the entire Atlantic, south and north, is a battleground. Belligerent operations against neutral shipping used to be restricted to war zones, but the Zamzam was sunk in the South Atlantic, far removed from an official war zone. Yet Col. Lindbergh says that this war is intra-European! The fact is that there is scarcely a spot on land or sea in the entire globe which isn't war-affected. And that is of vital concern to this country. The Atlantic in particular happens to be an ocean in which we have a greater stake than has any other power. This is shown by our insistence after World War I on parity with the greatest naval power. In addition, all our diplomacy has been concerned with creating a body of international law which would govern the Atlantic and the high seas everywhere.

It is obvious enough that in the event of a Nazi victory, Hitler would not be party to law-making for the Atlantic. There is no law inside Germany, only a tyrant's Diktat. And it follows that there would be no law or consent to international law-making wherever Hitler extended his sway. The sinking of the Zamzam gives a rough idea of the way that Hitler would police the seas after he got rid of the British navy.

Strike For Monopoly

Once more the country is witnessing a strike to establish a labor monopoly in a vital defense industry. A. F. of L. workers laid down their tools on Monday at Indianhead, Md., because one contractor on a housing project for workers in the Navy's powder plant employs a comparatively small number of C. I. O. men. In other words, the building-trades crafts have had the brass to declare that they will not participate in the construction of homes for defense workers if men from a rival union are granted a share in the work. That is an indefensible position. And it squarely places before the Government once more the question of eliminating jurisdictional strikes in defense industries.

Similar walkouts have taken place in recent months at Wright Field, in Dayton, Ohio, at Walter Reed Hospital and various other places. They do not involve employer-employe disputes. They arise solely out of the antagonism existing between the two great labor organizations. Certain groups insist on carrying on this interunion fight even at the expense of national preparedness. They trifle with the security of the United States for the sake of crushing a rival. The idea of any group enforcing a monopoly on a Government project is repugnant anyway, and when that project happens to be vital to the national defense, such conduct is well-nigh intolerable.

A. F. of L. and C. I. O. officials should themselves take the initiative in ending this warfare, which is a discredit to organized labor in general. Surely it is not too much to ask members of different unions to work side by side in defense of their country. From the long-range point of view, amendment of the Clayton Act again to forbid the enforcement of monopolies through strikes appears to be essential. Under recent decisions of the Supreme Court labor unions are free to impede interstate commerce at will to enforce their demand for exclusive working privileges. They may even stop the flow of trade to crush a rival that has been certified by the National Labor Relations Board as a proper collective bargaining agency. These practices are no less reprehensible than restraints of trade and monopolistic schemes on the part of employers. Unless labor itself outlaws the jurisdictional strike, legislation extending the antitrust laws to cover abuses of this sort would seem to be inevitable.

Helping Arnold

The Senate showed good judgment in rejecting the cut which its Appropriations Committee had made in the 1942 allowance for the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice. Economy was not the issue. Senator Hill reminded his colleagues that the Antitrust Division takes in $2 for every one appropriated to it by Congress. Presumably more effective enforcement of the laws against monopoly next year will bring about a corresponding increase in fines paid. So the question was solely one of scrutinizing conspiracies in restraint of trade more closely during this critical period.

According to Thurman Arnold, head of the Antitrust Division, the Government has been charged excessive prices for some essential war materials because of restrictive agreements between American and foreign companies and collusive bidding on Army and Navy contracts. He believes, too, that vital military information has been disclosed to foreign countries through itemized royalty payments required under patent license agreements. Just now the Government is also much concerned with the fact, as pointed out by Senator O'Mahoney, that monopolistic practices tend to cut down production. Special vigilance is needed to prevent artificial shortages of strategic materials resulting from conspiracies to restrict output.

Aside from the requirements of national defense, moreover, destruction of monopoly is a foremost responsibility of American Government. If our economic system is to endure, freedom of opportunity must be rigorously protected, and restraints upon trade must be eliminated wherever possible. And if thorough investigations are to be made, as a basis for enforcement of the antitrust laws, Mr. Arnold must be granted an adequate staff of experts. There is every indication that the extra $750,000 voted to the Antitrust Division will be well spent in policing our economic system during a very difficult period.

Cuba Libre

Yesterday the people of Cuba celebrated the thirty-ninth anniversary of their nation's independence. In normal circumstances such an event could be dismissed with little more than passing notice. The right of every nation, great or small, to lead its own independent existence used to be taken for granted. That is, alas! not true today. During the past three years the liberty of more than a score of nations has been trampled under foot by the brutalitarian powers. That is why, as the Cuban Ambassador, Dr. Aurelio F. Conchesa, pointed out in his radio address last night, the celebration of Cuban independence "has a profound and historical significance for all the nations of our continent and of the Caribbean." The American republics, as the Ambassador knows, are in no danger of attack from their neighbors. What he and his neighbors must fear is the danger which threatens them from without the continent—a danger which is constantly coming closer. To meet that danger all the nations of the New World must gird their loins and strengthen their defenses, for a threat to one is a threat to all. Evidence that such unity is appreciated comes not only from the words of the Cuban Ambassador but also from such actions as the one just announced by Brazil in refusing permission to the French to reopen the airline between French West Africa and Brazilian territory.

Though it was wailing loud upon the land
And I was dumb as stone.

Decision For Ireland

In the presence of a great catastrophe we pause for recovery. Our sympathy is affected, emotions stirred, all elements of intangibly delicate nature impossible to measure. American grief for the plight of France is tempered by the belief that the country was divided into such bitter factions that disaster was inevitable. Communism, monarchism, pro-Hitlerism, quarreling with each other, perhaps, joined to smother the slender forces of democracy that occasionally rallied in behalf of historic France. Yet we do feel sorry, a genuine deep sadness, to think that France which nourished so many brilliant minds of a century and a half, leaders in science, art, the theater, law, literature and oratory, every exquisite development of the human mind, should today sink so low as to calmly listen while its accepted leader warns all Frenchmen that they must not measure risks nor weigh actions, that they must abandon all thought, be as the Russian mudjik, erase the will, render absolute obedience to the Czar. A depressing picture but one that must be studied by all Americans at once.

With German control of French Africa, America is threatened, England is weakened, Ireland becomes tomorrow's Poland. The academic ideal, "self-determination of small nations," was scuttled by the Hitler-Darlan deal, approved by Petain. Ireland is helpless in the teeth of the Nazi blockade. Food, now scarce is growing scarcer.

Neutrality proved of mean value to the small states of Europe, whose mutilated bodies are spread from Norway to Greece. England alone is left fighting the battle of civilization in Europe today. Ireland should soon decide whether rancorous memories of the past will outweigh sensible judgment of the present. JOSEPH A. CONRY.

Conscientious Objectors

In a letter in The Washington Post of May 10, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. G. B. O'Toole takes issue upon two points with my article "Of Pacifists." The first of these is with regard to the relation of the state's decisions for war to "the private citizen's opinions and preferences." In answer I must point out that the context in which this passage occurs is concerned with national defense. I had already referred to "the folly as well as the malice of the typical aggressor." I pointed to the Government's responsibility for the good and safety of the whole Nation and all its citizens," and stated that the presumption is in favor of the Government's fuller knowledge and better judgment with regard to the Nation's dangers and needs. I wrote of the private citizen's "opinions and preferences," not of convictions. A man is morally obligated to follow his conscience, but it should be a conscience that is sincere and enlightened, and rightly and truly formed by deliberation with competent authorities. With regard to Msgr. O'Toole's second point, a distinction between the conscientious objector and the conscientious noncombatant, I believe that the full implications of this distinction should be carefully drawn out for the benefit of all concerned.

"Experiment In Democracy"

There is one rather extraordinary fact that the interventionists do not, and cannot explain. It is that, in spite of a multitude of highly paid voices raised in favor of our entering the war, the American people are still overwhelmingly against such a course. May I suggest that a partial explanation of this fact lies in the very nature of the democracy we now so loudly praise. Democracy has its foundations in public participation in public issues. This would be a very dangerous philosophy, however, if the public were ignorant, highly prejudiced or entirely selfish. To prevent ignorance, prejudice, and selfishness we maintain educational and communicative facilities devised to make the average man not quite so average. Perhaps, therefore, we are witnessing one of the greatest experiments in democracy of all time. Perhaps we are witnessing a people subjected to propaganda resisting that propaganda because of an earlier fortification of facts.

Americans are aware of a number of things that the propagandists do not give them credit for. They are not to be easily persuaded that any great moral issue is at stake in Europe—not after a very obvious British betrayal of the moral issue of 1914-'18. They are not to be herded into the preposterous fear of a Nazi invasion of this hemisphere, for they have studied geography, and they put more faith in the U. S. Navy than do some of their leaders. They are highly skeptical of the idea of a crusade in the name of the four freedoms, for within living memory they crusaded, or thought they did, for a democratic world, only to see the erstwhile champions of democracy make mockery of the very word.

The American people do realize, however, that we must choose among evils in this world. That is why they prefer a not-too-pure Britain to a non-constructive Germany. But this preference does not go to the extent of giving away the American shirt. The game of power politics is recognized, and certain questions linger in the American mind. Why, for example, should Uncle Sam play his trump before Joe Stalin plays his? Why should America go all out for the defense of the British Empire before the members of that empire go all out themselves? Why is it that the British navy can not guard what little of the Atlantic Ocean American "patrols" have left for it? Why does Mr. Churchill refuse to state his war aims? Has Britain already repudiated leadership in Europe, and are the British fighting merely for survival? And above all what is the price America is to pay for participation in this war? Can we wage a partial war and win? Let the military experts go on the air and give us their opinions on this matter.

Perhaps, then, we are seeing more democracy in America than the interventionists care for. Perhaps we are observing a nation in the process of becoming sophisticated politically. Perhaps the best way to preserve democracy from the disease of war and power politics is to let democracy work; to let it work fully, openly and vigorously. If we must choose among evils, let us choose first at home. Let us choose the people's will over the executive will. F. N. PILLING.

Silver Spring, Md., May 14.

Draft And Schooling

Considerable has been said and written pertaining to a contemplated change in the draft law age limits. Most proposals simmer down to various ages, ranging from 18 years upwards. Primary concern should be the effect of any change on the youth of our Nation. Certainly the age of 18 years should be the absolute minimum at which a young man could be drafted.

However, the age at which drafting begins should be of secondary consideration. Already there have been hints that the one year period of training should be lengthened to two, or even for the duration. It appears to the writer that the proper approach to this problem is from the educational angle and that not so much stress be laid on age. Even in the present emergency, sight should not be lost of the fact that higher education is and will continue to be a great asset, and no boy who sincerely wishes to gain that greater knowledge should be impeded in his aims. If education is allowed to take its normal course, a greater democracy—war or no war—will result.

Most boys are 18 as they graduate from high school. An interruption in their schooling at such a time would mean no further education in many cases. With military training at such a period in life, nobody can say positively when a return to school would be allowed even if it were still possible to the individual. Let the minimum draft age be no less than 18 years. But let no youth be inducted until he has obtained the education he earnestly desires. Let graduation or leaving school be the time when he is subject to draft, with four years in college as a maximum.

Such a program would serve both youth and nation.

Thomas Paine

The stirring appeal penned by Thomas Paine to inspirit the people of colonial America, when the outlook for independence seemed gloomy, should rally all liberty-loving people today. I quote Paine's deathless words:

"These are times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated."

Hess' Taste In Friends

Now that Herr Hess has quit Superior Race Headquarters in most informal style, some clucks, who used to claim his friendship, slander him by saying he's off his nut—has hallucinations!

Now take a close squint at news pictures recently published. Have a careful gander at the list of his close pals wearing the crossed snakes (futuristic) arm bands. See who he's next to most of the time.

If it's as they say, can you blame the poor gimp for getting that way? How could he help it? It's the company he's kept.

The Post Impressionist

The Hero

It was the most unusual story to come out of the war. I got it from a State Department courier who heard it from a newspaper man in Lisbon. It happened a few weeks ago when the Germans smashed their way through Yugoslavia.

The reporter—his name was Williams—had been assigned to Belgrade. When the German panzer divisions began rolling down from the north, he went to the front with a Serb regiment. For a while he had all the news he could write. The Balkan blitz was taking place practically in his lap. Then, suddenly, it was over. Like elsewhere in Europe—when the Nazis move in, news and everything else move out.

Before he left Belgrade, Williams secured permission to make a tour along the line of the recent German drive. He wanted to write a story on the entire campaign. The German military authorites readily acceded. They were very proud of their swift conquest of impudent Yugoslavia. Two young Nazi officers accompanied Williams.

One day they visited a village about 40 miles northwest of Belgrade. They were stonily ignored, though once or twice a Serb peasant would throw them a glance of hate. The vehemence of his smoldering eyes would strike them like a blow.

Williams saw an old man walking down the street. He must have been over 70, but his step was firm and his proud head was held high. He looked like the patriarch of an ancient tribe. Upon his breast dangled a bright new silver medal. Everyone respectfully drew aside for him. He entered a large house at the end of the street. The roof of the house had a large skylight like an artist's studio.

Williams decided to find out who the old man was. He sought out the village priest. They spoke in French. The priest proved more than willing to talk about the old patriarch. "He's an artist," he began. "He was born here, and while quite a young man went to Paris to study. He was a huge success, but one day gave up his career and returned here."

"What happened?"

"No one knows. It was a long time ago. He still paints. Occasionally an art dealer from Venice comes here and buys some of his paintings. The rest he gives away or stores in his house."

"Where did he get that medal?" asked Williams.

"We gave it to him just the other day," said the priest. "He's our hero. He saved the village from being burned down by the Nazis."

"He did this alone?"

"Yes."

"How?"

"With his art."

"Tell me about it," asked Williams.

"I'll never forget the day we heard the Germans were coming down this road from the mountains on the Austrian border. They were mad because we had decided to fight. They wanted us to surrender. In order to frighten us into submission, the Nazi troops had orders to burn the houses if the people showed resistance."

"That's why they bombed Belgrade," said Williams.

"On the morning when we knew the Germans were coming," the priest went on, "we found the artist carrying all his paintings out of the house and setting them up in the street. We thought he had gone mad, but he wouldn't let us interfere with him. When we asked him what it all meant, he said we'd find out when the Germans arrived."

"We gathered around to wait and watch. Strangely none of us wanted to flee. Mayybe we were curious to find out what the artist would do. Presently the Nazis drove in on their armored trucks. They didn't know what to think when they saw the paintings. The captain strode up and down as if he suspected a trap. He knocked a few of the paintings down. The artist yelled at him.

"'That's right. Destroy them. That's why I put them there. Run over my paintings with your tanks.'

"'What do you mean?' roared the captain.

"'I mean that all you ever do is to destroy another man's hope and love for beauty. While you are amongst us we canont possess [illegible] things. Such things always [illegible] a beast. So tear them to [illegible] and then leave us. We are [illegible] strong enough to oppose you. [illegible] young men are away at the front. You can kill us all if you wish, but if you only want to show your mastery, to bulge your brute ego, then destroy this art into which I've put my life and which I dearly love.'"

"What did the captain do?" asked Williams.

"I thought he would explode," said the priest. "He was infuriated. I have never seen a man in such a rage. His lips began to twitch. For a moment I thought he would kill us all."

"But he didn't," said Williams.

"No. He didn't touch another painting nor allow his soldiers to enter our houses. He barked out a few orders and then the whole troop of Nazis drove away."

Bombers—Not Planes

By Ernest K. Lindley

Defense Of The Western Hemisphere

BOMBERS. Not airplanes, but bombers. That is the cry that is going up from both the British and our own air specialists.

LINDLEY

It is not a new cry, but its validity is clearer than it was before the British proved the excellence and numerical strength of their fighter planes and pilots in the daylight air over Britain, and before the anti-Axis ground for armies on the European continent.

As this war has become more decidedly a naval and air war, the need for bombers has become more apparent. Pursuit planes are defensive weapons: vitally important, but unable to strike effectively at the enemy's bases of war-making power. The hope of an ultimate British victory rests very largely on the use of tremendous numbers of bombers to blast German submarine bases, German airfields, German factories, and European transportation centers and channels.

FOR US, in the event the United Kingdom should be overwhelmed, bombers are also the first need in the air; long-range bombers, especially. We would need bombers to reach far out to sea to attack enemy ships heading toward the Western Hemisphere, bombers to destroy temporary bases which might be established within striking distance of our shores, and even bombers to pour explosive and incendiary bombs on, let us say, Tokyo if the Japanese should be foolhardy enough to attack areas which we are determined to defend.

The word "bombers" cannot be too heavily underlined. Most laymen—and too many Army officers—think of an airplane as an airplane. Planes, even military planes, differ, as battleships differ from destroyers or submarines.

Our production of military planes for the rest of this year is estimated to be approximately 14,000. But half of these are training planes; and of the combat planes only about 2,500 are bombers. For 1942 our estimated production is about 30,000 planes, including 8,000 training planes; but only about 9,000 of these are bombers.

THE AIR SPECIALISTS want our bomber program for 1940 doubled or trebled. And they mean medium and heavy bombers which can go considerable distances and dump large loads of explosive and incendiary bombs on vital targets—not short-range types for use in close cooperation with ground forces.

The thoroughgoing advocates of air power have always pleaded for bombers. They have been wrong in a degree—especially in ignoring the other important uses of airplanes in close collaboration with ground troops and surface ships. Some of them overestimated German air power. But, in general, they have been much more nearly correct than have the orthodox military and naval experts.

Pursuit, bombing, reconnaissance and torpedo planes operating from aircraft carriers, battleships and cruisers, must be controlled by the appropriate naval officers. They are auxiliary naval weapons. Dive bombers and other planes used in conjunction with ground forces must be controlled by the appropriate Army officers. They are really mobile artillery, as well as eyes for the Army. Many of our advocates of air power were slow to recognize the importance of the air-tank team.

BUT WHEN British-flown bombers strike at German dockyards, munitions plants and railroad centers—or at civilian populations—they demonstrate that air power is also a separate weapon. Their best advisers may be the experts on economic warfare, rather than the military or naval specialists. At least, they are not operating jointly with naval or ground forces.

Even more emphatically, the defense of the Western Hemisphere, if England should be overwhelmed—which is steadily becoming less probable—depends on great air striking forces, able to range far out to sea and even across the oceans.

The case for air power is stated with particular cogency in the new issue of the Atlantic Monthly by Francis Vivian Drake. His views harmonize with those of some of our more prophetic and best-informed experts on aviation. He admits that the Navy and the Army have special needs which require air arms. But he speaks up for a separate air striking force of thousands of medium and heavy bombers.

BOMBERS require more materials, more men in airplane factories, more tools, more engines, large ground forces and large crews. But they are types in which—in the medium and heavy classes, at least—our designers have matched, and probably excelled, the best the British and Germans can offer.

The British do not have enough planes yet of any type. They need more fighters for use in the Middle East, for example. But we need very few fighters inside our outlying posts, such as the Philippines and Hawaii, except for training purposes. Fighter planes are, in the main, the last line of aerial defense for us. If our outer defenses hold we will not need many of the types of planes which are most useful in cooperation with armies.

LARGELY because of the British and French requirements of more than a year ago, our expansion program was concentrated first on pursuit ships. And in these, largely due to our lag in developing bug-proof, high-powered, liquid-cooled engines, we have made less progress than in improved bomber types.

A gigantic bomber-production program—say 25,000 instead of 9,000 in 1942—would, as Mr. Drake says, tax our utmost capacities. But this is probably the most direct route to the destruction of Nazi power. And, as he also reminds us, "nothing captures the American imagination more completely than to challenge it with the impossible."

Arnold's Report

AS BEFITS a man in his position, Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, Chief of the Air Corps and Deputy Chief of Staff, made a pretty strictly factual report on his return from Britain. He brought back a quantity of data on many aspects of the war, from Britain's acute need for more heavy bombers to the current shipping situation. None of the data occasioned much surprise, since the facts were already known here in general outline.

What is extremely striking, however, is the unanimity with which men who have heard Arnold interpret his factual report. Discussion of the matter with several did not disclose a single dissent from the view that Arnold's report meant Britain would not hold out for many months longer without active American aid. As one man put it, "Arnold painted a picture of a nation bleeding from many wounds and likely to succumb pretty soon without a transfusion. Anyone can see that the transfusion can only come from us, and that the mere sending of more stuff across the Atlantic, if it can be got across, will not be enough."

It is especially significant that agreement was also general on the prime significance of the part of Arnold's report devoted to the shipping situation. This, it was said, was the determining factor in the above conclusion.

NOT LONG ago certain facts on the shipping situation were presented in this space, of which the most notable was the authoritative estimate that 1941 would see a net loss of 30 per cent of the British merchant marine. Arnold's more recent estimates have not been divulged; but it is understood that if they alter the picture at all, they make it darker. Thus 30 per cent net loss may be considered a minimum estimate. What is the meaning of such a loss? And how can the estimate be made to fit in with the loud denials that anything even approaching 40 per cent of cargoes going from this country to Britain were being sent to the bottom? The answers to both questions are reasonably simple.

Taking the second question first, the widely quoted figure of 40 per cent cargo losses undoubtedly originated in a misunderstanding of the fact that considerably more than 40 per cent of Britain's total merchant shipping is expected to be sunk in 1941. The net loss is estimated at only 30 per cent because replacements will be made from several sources. Nor does that imply the sinking of even 30 per cent of every convoy. For even under war conditions the average merchant ship makes four and a half round trips to and from Britain in every 12 months. Thus a given ship's chance of being sunk on a given voyage, whether to or from this country or elsewhere, is only one-ninth of the gross loss.

In short, the loss of ships is cumulative, and the loss of goods is not. While at the end of the year more than 40 per cent of Britain's ships may have been submarined or bombed, only a little more than 5 per cent of the goods sent to Britain will have missed their destination.

WHAT does such a loss mean is the second question. Although some may find grounds for complacency in the thought that Britain is still getting more than 90 per cent of the war materials now being sent to her, the meaning of the loss is unfortunately the conclusion drawn from Arnold's report. For Britain cannot hold out forever if she is condemned to remain on the defensive, subject to a terrible grinding attrition, deprived of any means of striking back. If the British people and the British leaders have no hope that by holding on now they will be enabled to strike back later, they cannot be relied on to stay in the fight. And their only hope is to get infinitely more American war materials than they are now receiving.

By July, infinitely larger quantities of war materials will begin to come off the American production lines. By next spring we shall be turning out a really formidable striking power of weapons. Yet Britain's shipping resources are already strained to the limit and beyond, carrying our present output.

It is not difficult to draw an inference from this state of affairs. When more weapons are produced, there must be more ships to carry them. There will be no more ships, if we allow the present rate of loss to continue, and simply seek to meet the temporary situation by drawing on our own shipping resources. That is the worst form of sending good money after bad, as the Maritime Commission officials have repeatedly pointed out at White House conferences. If Britain's ships are protected and our ships are not thrown away, there will be shipping enough next year. If no protection is afforded, there will be too little shipping and the war will be lost.

THE BRITISH leaders are only too thoroughly aware of all this. The British people vaguely apprehend it. If the danger at sea is not quickly met by this country, no one can be certain how British morale will hold up under the appalling hammering the British people are now taking. Therefore two things are clear. The choice between meeting the danger at sea or not meeting it is the choice between winning and losing the war. And the choice cannot be deferred; it must be made very soon.

Thanksgiving Day

By Mark Sullivan

Presidential Rectification Of An Error

THE PRESIDENT'S press conference on Tuesday, May 20, 1941, was, if you look at it that way, an historic occasion—the date worthy to be carefully recorded and long remembered. It was the first time any New Deal experiment was formally renounced. That is, it was the first time any New Deal experiment was voluntarily abandoned—a few, one time or another, have been repealed by Congress, a few invalidated by the Supreme Court. But this relinquishment was voluntary, by Mr. Roosevelt in person.

SULLIVAN

The renounced experiment was—before I tell, shut your eyes, give yourself ten guesses, and see if you can name it. It was the date of Thanksgiving Day. The New Deal date for that holiday, after lasting three years, is to be abandoned—the date of this 300-year-old institution is to go back to what it was before the New Deal changed it.

Mr. Roosevelt told us why this New Deal innovation turned out to be not well justified. Happily for our trust in Presidential wisdom, the mistake of innovation was not his—responsibility lay on those who urged him to make the change, retailers and other businessmen. Mr. Roosevelt explained it to us at patient length. In 1939 retail merchants in cities told Mr. Roosevelt that Thanksgiving Day came too late in November, too near Christmas; that Thanksgiving buying came so close to Christmas buying as to reduce the quantity of purchases the public might make if the interval were made longer. In amiable deference to this suggestion, Mr. Roosevelt set Thanksgiving a week ahead of the last Thursday in November; it was made the next to last.

THE CHANGE excited commotion. Some was serious, and took on the nature of outright rebellion. Some Governors of States, challenging Presidential power, clung to the old date, with the result that persons who chose to do so and could afford two turkeys celebrated two Thanksgivings. To such recalcitrancy, the sufficient answer of New Dealers was that the nonconforming Governors were either Republicans or Tories. Most of the commotion, however, took the form of humor. Of the quantity of humor the United States was permitted to enjoy during the closing months of 1939, the somber period when the war was getting under way, by far the greater part consisted of irony and satire directed at Mr. Roosevelt's tampering with a venerable institution. Apprehension was expressed as to what Mr. Roosevelt might do about the date of Christmas. It was even suggested that his power might be extended to change the dates upon which Washington and Lincoln were born. Ingenious wits suggested that if Mr. Roosevelt had the power to change the almanac, he might also have power to change the rule of arithmetic by which two plus two make four—such an innovation, it was suggested, might make the New Deal workable. The jokes, the burlesque Presidential proclamations and other quips to which Mr. Roosevelt's change of Thanksgiving gave rise, were an engaging expression of the American spirit; one hopes that some patient person may have collected and recorded them in the interest of a future history of these times.

HUMOR is a powerful detergent of error in high places. Mr. Roosevelt set about ascertaining, after the event, whether his innovation was well based. The Department of Commerce and the national conference of mayors were directed to find out whether the quantity of retail shopping had been materially increased by the new date—one visualizes statisticians spending laborious months delving into the figures. The answer, after many months, was that trade had not been benefited. Thereupon Mr. Roosevelt decided to restore the old date.

At this point, apparently, there was encountered an often ignored condition, the tendency of mistakes to take root and become permanent. Manufacturers of calendars print their wares a year ahead. Such of them as are not obstinately hostile to innovation had printed Mr. Roosevelt's date for Thanksgiving in their calendars for 1941.

SO IT MUST remain—Thanksgiving this year, to those who accept Mr. Roosevelt's jurisdiction, will be the date he fixed, the second Thursday preceding December 1. But this is the last year we shall be called upon to celebrate a New Deal Thanksgiving. In 1942 and after, by grace of Presidential rectification of error, Thanksgiving will be the old date, not dictated by trade but inspired by sentiment and precedent, the first Thursday preceding December 1.

If Mr. Roosevelt devoted much of the press conference time to this, it was not necessarily out of enjoyment of the rare luxury of admitting an error. It was, at least one person present surmised, a means of using up time. One gathered that Mr. Roosevelt, on this occasion, preferred not to discuss questions about foreign relations which might be thrust at him. This surmise is borne out by the fact that most of the rest of the conference he devoted to the not extremely exciting Office of Civilian Defense, just set up under Mayor LaGuardia of New York. In the whole conference, the only allusion to foreign relations Mr. Roosevelt made was about the shipment of food to Ireland. Mr. Roosevelt is learning what President Wilson learned, that in time of war or approach of war, press conferences may give rise to questions embarrassing or imprudent to answer.

Mr. Spelvin On Hess

GEORGE SPELVIN, American, being invited to Washington to tell the committee his views on the flight of Rudolf Hess, testified as follows:

Q. (By Senator Nilly, Ind., Indiana)—Mr. Spelvin, as I understand it, you are of the opinion that if we, now, place credence in the reports that we have seen in the press, why, then, of course, it is very important that Congress should get a clear picture of the whole setup, because otherwise a great many conflicting rumors tend to create confusion, and that is why we have contacted you to give us your opinion as a man in the street hot off the shoulder, so if you will be so kind will you kindly tell the committee whether, in your belief, you believe Hess was a deserter or whether you have some other explanation to explain an incident which may have great significance in the crisis which we are facing under conditions that aggravate the misunderstanding and lead to retarded production, and several of my colleagues are of the same opinion.

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—Well, if you want my humble opinion as a citizen, and I want to say here and now, Senator, if my country gets into the war—why, I hate war as bad as any man—but when you come right down to it, if it is a choice between President Roosevelt, who makes his share of mistakes, but, after all, we elected him three times, and as far as any foreign dictator coming over here like he done—like he did—in Poland, and all those foreign countries, well, they didn't believe it was possible, either, but it seems to me you have to face the situation face to face or otherwise the first thing you know they are tearing your loved ones from your arms and then it is too late.

Q. (By Senator Nilly)—Exactly, Mr. Spelvin, but the committee has a particular interest in whether you believe Rudolf Hess——

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—I was just coming to that, Senator, and I want to say to you gentlemen I think we should be very suspicious of the whole affair, because you take now, for instance, this man. He was as close to Hitler as Harry Hopkins is to President Roosevelt, so it looks mighty peculiar to me that he could get an airplane out of the shed and take off like he did when you have to remember how efficient the Germans are, and especially when they say he was mentally unbalanced and even brings his medicine for his stomach trouble.

Q. (By Senator Nilly)—Now we are getting down to cases, Mr. Spelvin, and, if I must say so, I would like to say——

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—and, furthermore, Senator, if you remember——

Q. By Senator Nilly)—Excuse me, sir, I didn't want to interrupt, but I just wanted to say the committee hopes——

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—Excuse me, Senator, I didn't want to interrupt, because I thought you were finished, but I just want to say——

Q. (By Senator Nilly)—No, please proceed, Mr. Spelvin, because I am sorry I interrupted, and I was only going to say——

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—I beg pardon, Senator, if you will please excuse the interruption, I didn't mean to interrupt your thought, but if you are finished I may say you have an important thing there, and the man in the street is asking himself whether this was a plot to contact the British traitorous element of Nazis and strangle the well-springs of patriotism behind the lines in a way that would show what I mean when I say you have got to be extremely careful of all those foreigners coming into this country, speaking foreign tongues so decent patriotic Americans can't understand a word they are saying when they may be planning to blow up the reservoir if we don't take steps to protect our homes day and night instead of wrangling about strikes and a month's vacation with full pay when my own boy is in the Army getting $21 a month, and all they do is take a piece of stovenipe on a pair of old wagon wheels, and the sergeant yells, "Boom!" while the strikers keep loyal Americans out of the factories, and I will bet you that the Germans won't fall down dead just because somebody yells "Boom!"

Q. (By Senator Nilly)—That is your confirmed opinion of the Hess matter as you see it, Mr. Spelvin?

A. (By Mr. Spelvin)—Well, of course, there are two sides, but we are practically in the war, so what I say is we ought to fight the enemy, not each other.

Senator Nilly—The committee thanks you, Mr. Spelvin.

A Chapter Ends

By Barnet Nover

Ethiopia Five Years Later

AT 4 O'CLOCK in the afternoon of May 5, 1936, Marshal Pietro Badoglio entered Addis Ababa at the head of an Italian column. The war in Ethiopia was over except for guerrilla activities in isolated spots. The kingdom of Ethiopia was no more. Ethiopia, said Mussolini that day to a delirious crowd assembled in front of the Palazzo Chigi, "is Italian in fact."

NOVER

"But I must immediately add," he continued, "that we are ready to defend our brilliant victory with the same intrepid and inexorable decision with which we have gained it. We feel that in this way we are interpreting the will of the combatants in Africa, of those who are dead, who have gloriously fallen in battle and whose memory will be treasured for generations and generations in the hearts of the whole Italian people."

Four days later King Victor Emmanuel was invested with the title of Emperor.

THE TRAGIC FARCE has now run its course. On Monday the Duke of Aosta surrendered to the British Empire forces besieging Amba Alaji. With that surrender, the war in Ethiopia has come practically to an end. There are still pockets of Italian resistance in the northwest end and in the south. But they are of little importance. Ethiopia is Italian no longer. Nor, for that matter, is Italy.

To win for Italy the barren mountains and the pestilential plains of Ethiopia, Mussolini sacrificed Italy's European birthright and made Hitler's subsequent victories possible. To create a new Roman Empire, the purblind dictator left open the gates of Italy to a new barbarian invasion which has now completely engulfed the peninsula.

The Italians cannot but feel a deep hurt over what has happened in East Africa. Their dead have died in vain. Their sons by the many tens of thousands are prisoners of the British. Their meager treasure has been wantonly squandered by the gang which for 18 years had their country in its grip.

To ease their hurt, to recompense Mussolini for his loss of face, Hitler has permitted Italy to carve a new domain out of conquered Yugoslavia. On the day that the Duke of Aosta was asking the British for terms of surrender, the "Kingdom of Croatia" was being set up in Rome with Aosta's brother, the Duke of Spoleto, named as its ruler. This is poor recompense, indeed. But the Fascist press is doing the best it can to portray the development as a sign of the vigor of the "new order."

FIVE YEARS saw the death and rebirth of Ethiopia. Ethiopia was the first independent nation to be swallowed up in the totalitarian tide. Its fate determined the fate of Spain and Austria and Czecho-Slovakia and other nations whose liberties have been trampled under foot. And Ethiopia's rebirth is an indication of how rapidly the whirling of time can bring its revenges in the world of today.

The liberation of Ethiopia was not automatic. On June 18, 1936, Anthony Eden voiced the sentiments of the British cabinet regarding the raising of sanctions against Italy.

"It cannot be expected by anyone," said the foreign secretary, "that the continuance of existing sanctions will restore in Abyssinia the position which has been destroyed; nobody expects that. That position can only be restored by military action. So far as I am aware no other government, certainly not this government, is prepared to take such military action."

But events finally forced Great Britain to do precisely that and under far less favorable circumstances than obtained during the sanctions period of 1935-36.

THERE IS NO USE crying over spilt milk. The people of Great Britain have paid dearly for the shortsightedness and timorousness of the men who governed them during the Ethiopian crisis and after. Had they acted with courage and vigor and sense at that time, they could have halted the tide of aggression at the start. They did not. In consequence, men, women and children by the tens of thousands have been killed in the streets of London and other British cities by bombs dropped by German planes, and soldiers and airmen of the Empire are being forced to fight against great odds on a dozen different fronts from Syria to Suez, from Crete to Gondar.

The mistakes of the Chamberlains and Simons and Hoares and their fellows, both in Great Britain and abroad, may be water over the dam. Yet it would be stupid on our part not to learn from those mistakes.

WE ARE BEING told that a policy of vigorous action in defense of our interests is dangerous, that it would irritate the dictators and lead to war. So the British people were told in 1935 and 1936 that the application of oil sanctions against Italy would offend Mussolini and result in war.

"The point is," said Sir John Simon on June 23, 1936, "that with the present situation in Europe and the great dangers surrounding us here at home, I am not prepared to see a single ship sunk even in a successful naval battle in the cause of Abyssinian independence."

Sir John saw no connection between the preservation of Ethiopian independence and the preservation of British freedom. Yet because Ethiopia's independence was destroyed, Britain's freedom is today in peril of destruction. Equally shortsighted are those in this country who fail to see that the problem which faced Britain in 1935-36 with reference to Haile Selassie's kingdom is the same problem that faces us with reference to Britain. At tremendous cost Great Britain found it necessary to restore Ethiopia's freedom which need never have been sacrificed. We can profit by Britain's experience. Heaven help us if we do not.

U. S. Offers Eire Food, 2 Ships But Is Deaf To Plea For Arms

The United States yesterday offered Ireland two ships and food for the refugees that have found sanctuary in the island, but refused to sell, lend, lease or give the Irish any weapons for defense of their neutrality.

President Roosevelt announced he has offered to sell or charter two cargo ships to Ireland, which would sail under the Irish flag with non-American crews, and also an offer of $500,000 of food, to be distributed by the Red Cross.

The food, it was learned, would be for the 60,000 to 70,000 refugees from bomb-wrecked Northern Ireland and England who have fled to the Free State.

The offer will not include any defense materials, however, Mr. Roosevelt said. "Frank Aiken, defense minister, who came here several weeks ago in quest of arms for his country, is consequently planning to return home soon.

The President said that no conditions had been attached to his offer. Officials insisted that the question of British rights to use Irish naval bases had not been raised during the discussions.

Informed quarters said the reason Ireland was refused arms was that there are not enough weapons to go around. Demand for defense materials is two or three times greater than the output, these sources said. As a result, a general rule has been made that because of the shortage as much material as possible will be sent to those nations actually waging war in defense of democracy. There is none left over for other countries, it was said.

The food, to be distributed by the Red Cross and paid for out of the President's special $50,000,000 relief fund for war sufferers, will all go to refugees temporarily in Ireland, it was learned.

The two ships to be made available to Ireland would carry general cargoes as well as the gift of food, the President said. Irish officials said that the holds would be filled with Irish-owned goods that have been waiting on New York docks until shipping space could be found. The goods include foodstuffs, raw materials for processing into food, and industrial raw materials, such as cotton.

Irish officials said there was no serious food shortage for the permanent population of Ireland, but that a lack of shipping space for imports was a threatening factor.

Irish attempts to buy or charter 10 to 12 ships from the Maritime Commission were unsuccessful and it was indicated that they would not be able to secure more than the two offered yesterday.

The Irish government has not yet formally accepted the American offer but is expected to do so soon.

Park Avenue Joins The Army

Dear Ma:

This is a arsenal of the democrats and I am all for democracy but I wish the draft army wood do something about these rich draftees which come to camp like it was just a visit to the Stork Club and bring along everything including their blondes. A guy just joined the outfit and brought 22 suits of clothes, his monogrammed limmersine and his chaufoor. (At first I think it is some stunt by Ripley but I find out it is all in real life and positively not a picture.)

I wood not be serprised if this guy has his press agent, polo ponies and white marlin tackle along with him two, all of witch gives the rest of the boys a pain in you can gess where, ma. If the arsenal of the democrats wants to give morale a kick in the pants there is no better way then to promote the idea that there is a pent house division in this draft army and that as the old saying goes what is sauce for the goose is high test gas for the upper setters.

Now I am not a soarhead ma and maybe if I had a car and 22 suits of clothes I wood like to have them here two but I think it is bad busyness for a democratic army. It does not make no draft army feel better to see some members acting like they had a personal guarantee that they could get into a war and not suffer no personal hardships, like being left out of the Broadway gossip columns. This guy acts like he didn't care how far a war went as long as it didn't keep him from the Yale-Harvard football games.

Now this deluxe jeep is not a bad egg and I gess I wood act just like him if I was in his 16 pairs of shoes not counting dancing pumps, but he makes the hole outfit soar just the same on account most of us is lucky if we can contact a jitney once a week and half to behave like soldiers in a emergency and not like playboys in a screen play. If this sort of thing is aloud to go on the first thing we know the army will be getting draftees who bring their own featherbeds, big game hunting tents and butlers. Of coarse when a man gets a leave from duts his time is his own and so is his auto but a jeep with chauffoors and a superb wardrobe is no democrat and no arsenal neither.

I forgot to tell you I was put in a military police company last week. It made me soar as nobody likes to be a army copper but it was explained to me that military police was picked on account of they had higher intelligence so I didn't mind so much, but I only lasted a few days and am back in the old outfit. I had a ambishun to be a military policeman long enuff to arrest Otto Bixby, my old boss, for something. It is a grate satisfacshun to have your old boss in a army with you and with no authority over you.

It is a race between us to see witch gets made a corporal first. I am trying very hard. All I want from this army is a chance to boss Bixby around a little.

Well, I will have to close now as there is another innoculashun and I am so full of holes now I look like a dart target. Love,

OSCAR.

Roosevelt Asks Bill to Speed Building Defense Oil Pipe Lines

President Roosevelt urged Congress yesterday to enact quickly legislation to facilitate construction of oil pipelines for national defense, saying it was "of first rank in importance."

He wrote Speaker Rayburn that a bill drafted by the House Oil Subcommittee should be given "early and earnest consideration by the Congress."

The necessity for the legislation, Mr. Roosevelt said, arose from the fact that industry, population and military bases on the Atlantic Coast now depend entirely on coastwise tankers for their oil. That process, he wrote, was long and "potentially perilous" and, in addition, made "restriction of oil consumption to essential uses a distinct possibility within a few months."

"The immediate construction of pipe lines to augment the supply to the Atlantic Coast is the one means available to relieve this situation."

Representative Cole (Democrat), of Maryland, chairman of the Oil Committee, later introduced the measure to which the President referred. He said it would authorize the Government, through one of its departments or through a private company, to invoke the right of eminent domain and purchase or condemn rights of way for pipe lines needed for national defense.

West Point Keeps in Step

Less Glamour, More Brass Tacks Is Academy's Up-to-Date Rule

(Editor's Note: What changes has the defense program brought about at the United States Military Academy? Bill Boni brings you the answers in a series of three daily stories, of which this is the first. Tomorrow: Why West Point hasn't speeded up graduation.)

By Bill Boni

West Point, N. Y., May 20.—Brig. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, superintendent of the United States Military Academy since last November, looked about the walls of his office at the portraits of the men who have preceded him in that post.

"They wouldn't recognize West Point today," he said finally. "The traditions still are here. But as for the rest—you might say that today the Academy's motto is 'a lot less glamour and a lot more brass tacks.'"

The changes that are keeping West Point in step with or even a step ahead of the national defense program are not so noticeable on the surface. The somber granite buildings which serve the cadets for barracks and classrooms still look like well-preserved relics of Europe's feudal era. The corps of cadets on parade, while a heart-filling spectacle in their gleaming "tar-buckets" and choke collars, look like a throwback to the War of 1812.

Just what have been the changes in the tradition-bound Military Academy?

There are many of them, combining into a program which the higher-ups feel will enable each of the 400-odd men to be commissioned second lieutenants this June to step into a position of responsibility with the minimum loss of time for adjustment.

1. THE FIRST CLASSMEN (seniors), after receiving their commissions, will be given radically shortened leaves, then sent for a month's intensive training to the schools of the particular branches (Air Corps, Signal Corps, Engineers, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery, Infantry, Cavalry) which they have chosen or to which they have been assigned. From there they will be sent to their units, and within a year should be company commanders.

2. FROM MARCH 1 on, the first classmen were given thoroughgoing "refresher" courses and additional instruction in company administration, mess management, motor transport, unit supply and other subjects designed to help them step into active service. Beginning May 15, and until graduation, the first classmen are receiving four weeks of strenuous "branch instruction," specialized teaching to fit them even better for whichever branch they are to go to. These two changes, therefore, take up the three to four years' slack which in normal years intervened between graduation and command.

3. WHEN THE first classmen are graduated and the new year's plebes (freshmen) come in July 1, all four classes move out of barracks and into summer camp.

4. THE CADETS' itinerary of summer inspection trips has been enlarged considerably. This year, for instance, the corps will be taken to Fort Benning, Ga., where they will operate tanks and other mechanized equipment and study the Infantry School work with parachute battalions, armored divisions, etc.; Langley Field, Va., for instruction in Air Corps work; the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground, where they will watch the latest type of weapons fired and see mechanized units in action; Frankford, Pa., Arsenal, to see ordnance in the process of construction; Fort Dix, N. J., to watch the training of a division of selectees.

5. DURING THE winter the War Department called up as many West Point officers as could be spared for active duty. The Academy was able to fill the vacancies created on the medical and quartermasters' staffs from the reserve lists.

6. STARTING with the new academic year in September, the cadets will be given one year of French and two years of Spanish, instead of the reverse, "because of the growing importance of Spanish in the world today." At the same time a course in German, first ever given at West Point, will begin for 100 selected cadets.

The supplementary work the young shavetails will get this summer will serve largely to bring them up to date on the latest developments and innovations in the machines and technique of warfare.

The officials are confident the are turning out today know as much about the business of making war as can be compressed into four years of e training.

Bill Cunningham's Column:

Rollie Hemsley's Reform Sparks Two Pennant Contenders . . .

You'd never think a shop-worn catcher's decision to push the bottle aside could revolutionize the careers of two brethren of mask and mattress, could, through them, step up the tempo of two major league ball clubs and set fires of excitement from New York to St. Louis.

Rollie Hemsley, now varsity catcher of the front running Cleveland Indians, was one of the most notorious bottlemen in all baseball. I don't intend to dwell here on the tragic phases of it all. I'm a reporter, not a one-man auxiliary of the W. C. T. U. and this is an account of facts, not a monograph upon the virtues of total abstinence.

Hemsley was a good catcher but a bad actor and had a record to prove both. He came into the big leagues—the National, first—in a regular blaze as brilliant kid of 20. Pittsburgh picked him up eagerly in 1928. Three seasons proved enough. They swapped him to the Cubs in 1931. A season and a half was all Chicago could take. They sold him to the Reds in the winter trades of 1932. Two-thirds of a season was enough for Cincinnati. They asked if any other brave unit in the National wanted to try to cool a hot potato. None did. That's what's called waivers.

The St. Louis Browns, pretty desperate for hands, fished the embattled and entangled athlete out of the National League discard for the waiver price, or he'd have shot the chute to minor pastures. He stayed five years. His last full season there was 1937, and during it he drew $5,000 worth of payless suspensions, growing mostly out of his losing bouts with the Demon, the cops and, certainly, the management.

Home Runs and Hangovers

In between times, the guy could catch. He always could catch. But he'd celebrate. His career was a weird mixture of home runs and hangovers, fines, suspensions, renewed avowals, and then the same old cycle all over again.

Cleveland took him in 1938, and Rollicking Rollie, as he'd been coyly captioned by the Boswells of the pastime, celebrated by getting himself fined and suspended twice for "infractions of training rules" before the month of April could even shed its third week. This went on most of that year and carried over into spring training of the following season.

Truth to tell, he was on the ragged edge of his club's patience by this time, and if this one let him go, he was gone. A strange quirk of fate was what really held him on. Bob Feller, the farm kid who threw dynamite instead of horsehide, was up and new and as wild as a witch. There's been a lot of exaggeration about Hemsley's being "the only man who can catch Feller." Several Indian back-stoppers caught him, and successfully. But there was no question that Hemsley could get more out of the kid and do more with the kid. He became "Feller's catcher"—and the bar rooms right after to celebrate.

Early in 1939 the amazing thing happened. While the 32-year-old back-stopper lay in a hotel bed wracked with one of those heavy duty hangovers that feel as if a woodman's wedge is being driven southward through the skull with steady blows of a pile driver, the stranger walked in and asked him if he didn't want to quit drinking.

This was apparently a representative member of that strange fraternity of the reformed, who call themselves Alcoholics Anonymous.

From the tortured depths of his mental and physical agony, the all but lost ball player groaned, "Yes." The man took him to Akron, where this still somewhat mysterious movement was started, placed him in a hospital for four days, and worked the cure, which seems to consist mostly of companionship and conversation.

Cure Changes Two Teams

The cure is no part of this story, but the cured ball player is, and the strange turn of events the curing brought. Hemsley, who had always been on the verge of moving Frankie Pytlak into the No. 2 catching post with the up-and-coming Indians, as a sane and sober athlete proceeded to do just that. He became close to the best catcher in the American League last season, and the Indians almost won the pennant.

Pytlak, for some strangely moody and emotional reason, was worse as No. 2 than he'd been in the top post. The Boston Red Sox had a catcher in Gene Desautels who seemed scarcely potent enough for the varsity assignment, but who looked as if he might make a good supernumerary. The boards of strategy huddled and decided to dare a trade. It seems to have worked out remarkably for all concerned.

Pytlak, as a Red Sox regular, is back where he used to be, which means good. Desautels, on the other hand, seems ideal as Hemsley's understudy and Cleveland is delighted with him. Both clubs have improved with better catching. Both towns are baseball wild at the moment, and it all works out to a perfect result.

Hemsley, recently idle from a cold, followed by a bruised forearm, hasn't taken even one nip of the creature in more than two years. He has served, himself, on frequent rescue committees such as the one that dragged him back from the drop into oblivion. Possibly the Indians and the Red Sox may fight it out for the pennant. If so, that next drink the washed-up Hemsley didn't take will rate at least an assist if not the entire box score.

the expectation of handling 12,000 quarts a day. It isn't running over 3,000 quarts.

"Yesterday, for example, we carried 2,700. On some days the figure has been as low as 1,700. We are paid 3 cents a quart for handling and, with that low volume, it's costing us money."

The District Nutrition Service Committee and Mrs. Roosevelt and The Post, too, would like to know why this strange tag, in a city where thousands of needy and low-income men, women and children can be produced whose milk consumption is far below minimum standards.

The committee started out yesterday by voting to launch a survey to ascertain the exact number. It will start out by learning how many persons are certified for free or part-pay medical care in the municipal and private hospitals.

Committee Plans Survey

The idea in starting there is the assumption that whoever is found eligible for such treatment is a good bet to have little or no milk in his icebox.

While he and his family may qualify for health care at the community's expense, the red tape may be such that he can't buy milk at a nickel a quart.

Complicated? That's putting it mildly. And here in the Nation's Capital, at that, practically on the eve of a national nutrition conference which has been called in connection with the home defense program.

The Post will continue to unearth and present the facts in this milk muddle.

mates to the bureau, the District Commissioners pared from departmental requests all items save those which, it was felt, could be defended before Congress as essential without question. Requests from department heads totaled $5,300,000.

The 1942 estimates, it was pointed out, represent only a part of the increased cost of District government attributable to defense preparations. Congress already has appropriated for the District, for obligation in this fiscal year, nearly $1,000,000. This has included $380,000 for schools and $500,000 for extension of water and sewer systems.

An hour before Representative George H. Mahon (Democrat), of Texas, subcommittee chairman, announced the starting date for the hearings, Senator John H. Overton (Democrat), of Louisiana, who heads the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, mailed letters to all civic organizations in the city suggesting that, because of the shortage of time, they present their views before House hearings rather than wait until the bill reaches the Senate.

"It is not at all improbable," Overton said, "that the District of Columbia's appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year will reach the Senate too late for the Senate subcommittee handling the bill to permit as extensive hearings as are usually granted . . ."

After outlining the nine stages through which the bill must pass before becoming law and pointing out that the time-consuming procedure should be finished by July 1, Overton suggested that adoption of citizen views in the House bill will not only save time in the Senate but "will probably result in fewer items of appropriation being thrown into conference."

The young gunman, Moffett said, left the postoffice without taking any money since there were only a few pennies in the cash drawer.

32 Nazis Held In Putsch Plot Against Chile

By the Associated Press

Santiago, Chile, May 20.—Thirty-two members of the Vanguard organization formerly known as Chile's Nazi Party were held tonight on charges of plotting a second putsch against the Government.

The arrests followed gunplay Friday night in which one Radical Party delegate was killed and four were wounded when the police said Vanguardists sought to break up a Radical Party convention here. Eight women who had been held were released.

Ismael Romero, a Vanguardist official, was said by the police to have written to a provincial chieftain, Edilberto Bizama, and said:

"I report to you that the unanimous opinion of the people is that we must again embark on another fifth of September."

It was September 5, 1938, when the present Vanguardist leader and deputy, Jorge Gonzalez von Marees, led the Nazi Party putsch against the government of President Arturo Alessandri. It resulted in the execution of 65 Nazis.

Gonzalez remained silent tonight in the face of these charges, but another Vanguardist deputy, Gustavo Vargas, denied that the Vanguardists plotted against the government.

Arturo Hoffman, a Vanguardist youth, was charged with the death of the Radical delegate, Gernando Pinto, and police asserted arms were delivered to Vanguardist headquarters before the assault.

Widow Faces Accused Rival At Death Trial

By the Associated Press

Boston, May 20.—Mrs. Ruth Emery, 25, slight and attractive, faced the woman accused of murdering her husband today and outlined to a jury the progress of an intimacy which ended when Robert Emery, 26, father of her two children, died last January in the West End apartment of blonde Mrs. Ruth Steadman.

Mrs. Steadman, 26, who is charged with murder in the first degree, gave the witness stand fleeting glances as the young widow testified to a series of meetings of the two families at suburban homes—at a swimming party, a "welcome home" for Mrs. Steadman's husband, Kenneth, Pittsburgh insurance man, and elsewhere.

On one such occasion last September, she testified, Kenneth Steadman addressed her as follows:

"I presume you are Ruth Emery. I wish to apologize for my wife's action in monopolizing your husband this summer."

Mrs. Emery then told of attending, with her husband, a party at the home of Needham, Mass., friends, which also was attended by Mrs. Steadman, but not by Steadman. Some time that evening, she said, her husband and Mrs. Steadman were missed, and, after waiting until nearly 2 a. m., she went out with her hosts and two others to search for them.

They were found, she testified, seated in a car parked in "a very dark and poorly lighted street" in the nearby town of Dover.

Two of those in her car got out, Mrs. Emery testified, and asked Mrs. Steadman to get out of the other car "and they would drive her home."

This was done, she said, adding, 'I drove my husband home."

Mrs. Emery was close to collapse when questioned regarding her husband's last departure from home, January 13, eight days before his body was discovered in Mrs. Steadman's apartment.

He was in "very good spirits when he left," she said, and, referring to her daughter, Betty, 4, she added:

"He picked her up, tossed her in the air and pulled her pigtails."

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Steadman averted her eyes when the prosecutor, Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan, produced a piece of cord with which the State alleges Emery was strangled while stupefied with sleeping tablets.

He also presented a nearly empty two-quart whisky bottle and a glass which a medical witness said had contained a whitish powder.

Dr. Jacob Shapiro, who was called to the Steadman apartment after discovery of Emery's body by a renting agent and two chimney sweeps, testified that after determining that Emery was dead, he turned his attention to Mrs. Steadman, who was in bed, unclad, but covered with a sheet.

He said he diagnosed her condition as due to alcohol poisoning and poisoning due to the sleeping preparation. He said he noted a white substance, flecked with blood, on the floor near Emery's mouth.

Japanese Fire on Americans' Plane

Hong Kong (Wednesday), May 21. (U.P.).—Reports reaching here today said that Japanese bombers yesterday forced down and machine gunned a plane of the China National Aviation Corporation which was piloted by an American named Woods and carried two American passengers, Dr. and Mrs. E. Brown.

Occupants of the plane were not hurt, it was said.

Marion Talley Says She Paid Nuptial Bills

By the Associated Press

Los Angeles, May 20.—Opera Singer Marion Talley testified today she paid the expenses of her wedding to Adolph Eckstrom, New York voice teacher, including the cost of both their rings.

She is suing Eckstrom for a divorce and the custody of their 6-year-old daughter, Susan.

Miss Talley said she also paid the expenses incident to the birth of the child, which she testified yesterday followed their wedding in 1935 by only three weeks.

Her attorney introduced numerous letters, in one of which Eckstrom wrote:

"I pity you for not having known the joy of ever really earning money."

"How long have you been earning your living?" the attorney asked the singer.

"Since I was 11 years old," she replied.

The lawyer pointed out that Eckstrom requested Miss Talley to note on checks she sent him from Hollywood, where she had come to fill motion picture engagements, "part payment for professional services rendered." He asked whether she had been taking singing lessons from her husband at that time.

"How could I?" she replied. "He was 3,000 miles away."

The singer testified she had repeatedly pleaded with Eckstrom to join her in Hollywood. She said she wanted to make a home here for him and their daughter.

ELLERY QUEEN'S Mystery Potted Veal with Dumplings

2 pounds veal shoulder
1 onion, sliced
1 quart water
6 carrots, sliced
2 cups potatoes, diced
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon Lea & Perrins Sauce
4 tablespoons flour
¼ cup cold water
2 cups biscuit mix
1 cup milk

Remove fat and cut meat into one-inch cubes. Simmer veal and onion in water for 1 hour. Add carrots, potatoes, salt and Lea & Perrins Sauce; continue cooking for 15 minutes. Thicken mixture with flour which has been blended with water. Combine biscuit mix and milk and drop by teaspoonfuls on top of meat and vegetables which are gently boiling. Cover closely and steam 20 minutes without lifting cover. This makes 4 to 6 servings.

No mystery at all to the hearty, wholesome goodness of this meal-in-a-dish. It's the touch of Lea & Perrins Sauce that turns the trick, and makes the family beg for more.

Church Parley Told of Plans To Aid Selects

The Rev. John Harms last night pictured churches' cooperative efforts in ministering to selectees as an "opportunity for a greater degree of Christian unity."

Mr. Harms, who is executive secretary of the Maryland-Delaware Council of Churches, spoke at the dinner of the sixty-fourth convention of the Disciples of Christ, Capital Area at Columbia Heights Christian Church.

He told the delegates that the council had created a department of ministry to service men and that American and United Lutheran, Episcopalians, Southern Baptists and Disciples of Christ already were "committed 100 per cent to the project."

The new depa.....nt, which is not yet fully developed, aims to help service men retain their denominational connections in the communities near their camps. He emphasized that he felt the Government was adequately handling the service men's ministry in the camps, but said that the church has a great responsibility in taking care of the men when they "go to town."

Sharing the dinner program was the Rev. Robert Whittenburg, pastor of Suitland (Md.) Christian Church, who pointed out the church's opportunities in that area, where the Government recently purchased land for erection of eight office buildings expected to house between 35,000 and 60,000 employes.

Chosen to the board of managers, Capitol area, were the Rev. M. C. Shollenberger, pastor of the First Christian Church, Baltimore; C. C. Gain, Winchester Avenue Christian Church, Martinsburg, W. Va.; the Rev. J. R. Glenn, Ocean View, Del.; Elton Brown, sr., Mount Rainier Christian Church, and the following members at large:

A. C. Hofrichter, Govans Christian Church, Baltimore; the Rev. Norman E. Allen, Snow Hill; Mrs. O. B. Atwood, National City Christian Church here, and Mrs. Robert Gossard, of Waynesboro, Pa.

Last night's worship service speakers were Dr. Peter Marshall, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. May Yoho Ward, Latin-American secretary of the Disciples of Christ.

Among high spots of today's closing session will be an adult dinner at the Vermont Avenue Social Hall of National City Christian Church and a youth banquet at Columbia Heights Church, both at 6:15 p. m., and a Communion service at the latter place at 7:45 p. m.

Va. Shops Active in Civil War Receive Defense Contracts

Small town machine shops, deep in the Shenandoah Valley, which produced armaments for the Confederacy during the Civil War, were yesterday given the first subcontract awarded to a defense cooperative.

OPM officials said that the cooperative, comprised of about 20 little shops in Shenandoah, Augusta and Rockingham Counties, Virginia, were given orders for special nuts, bolts and gears by the A. F. Jorss Iron Works, of Washington. The Jorss concern, located at 1224 Twenty-fourth Street, Northwest, holds a prime contract from the Army for 788 transportation auxiliaries used with antiaircraft searchlights.

Contracts Are Small

Although by defense standards the size of the subcontract, $1,500, is trifling, officials stressed the significance of "democracy in defense" and the fact that the cooperative plan for handling defense orders was feasible.

The cooperative, an outgrowth of one of the first rural electrification cooperatives, will allocate the little order among its members, who together have 365 machine tools used only infrequently for humble chores of repairing farm implements, neighborhood vehicles and a minuscule railroad line.

The group was formed last winter when a survey disclosed that besides the tools, adequate labor was available, consisting mainly of homespun but skilled craftsmen who lived on nearby farms and worked in the shops when there was a job to be done.

Richmond Man Aided

The organization was set up with the assistance of James Stanley, of Richmond, who several months ago presented himself to Washington defense headquarters and asked what he could do to assist the program. The cooperative idea was suggested, and since that time Stanley has been seeking work for the little plants which had been overlooked in the large scale defense program and whose labor is not registered with State or Federal agencies.

The award of the contract is part of the OPM's effort to bring into the defense picture the forgotten small town and back-alley shops in the belief that only by including every possible source of labor and machine tools can the full program be realized. In this, the OPM is taking a leaf from Germany's book, where farmers have been trained to use a single machine tool and are sent "bits and pieces" to process in their spare time.

OPM officials said that in some of the Shenandoah shops there were discovered framed contracts, handwritten on a single sheet of paper, calling for production of firing pins and other gun parts for use of the Confederate States.

Laborer Admits Shotgun Slayings Of 5 in Family

Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 20 (U.P.). Virginius Carter, illiterate 33-year-old laborer, today confessed the shotgun slayings of five members of the Johnson Agrue family, from which he twice had chosen a bride.

Carter told Sheriff William Winegard of Dearborn County that he killed his father-in-law, mother-in-law, their granddaughter and their two sons last Friday because of an "old grudge for them making me marry Mary." Mary Agrue, Carter's first wife, is a daughter of the Johnson Agrues.

Carter said he divorced Mary six years ago, later wedding her sister, Leona, with whom he lived at the time of the slayings.

Defendant Denies Attack Charges Lodged by Woman

Albert M. Farmer, 23, told a District Court jury of three women and nine men yesterday that he was innocent of the assault charges on which the Government seeks to send him to the electric chair.

Defense Counsel Robert W. McCullough and Andrew A. Lipscomb said Farmer's codefendant, Francis J. Mulvey, 23, would testify today.

Farmer denied the story of Mrs. Gertrude Imlay, who said the men forced her into a car the night of September 13, 1940, took her into the Maryland woods, stripped her and assaulted her four times. Farmer said Mrs. Imlay joined them willingly.

The trial began Monday before Justice James M. Proctor in the District Court.

Roosevelt Takes 2-Hour Auto Ride In Nearby Area

President Roosevelt slipped away from the White House for an automobile ride yesterday afternoon for the first time in several weeks.

After a pressing day of conferences, which included a before-breakfast talk with Harry L. Hopkins, lease-lend program director; luncheon with Barney Baruch, chairman of the first World War Industries Board; talks with Swedish Minister Bostrom, Chicago's Mayor Kelly, and Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman George, and his message to Congress on relief, the President entered an open car and was driven around Maryland and Virginia's highways for more than two hours.

The ride was taken on advice of Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, who has been urging the President to get more air, sunshine—and relaxation.

Robert J. Millar, Roosevelt High, Wins Scholarship

Award of its freshman scholarship to Robert James Millar, first honor graduate of Roosevelt High School, was announced yesterday by the Harvard Club of Washington.

Millar, who lives at 3642 New Hampshire Avenue Northwest, is being graduated this year at the top of his class of 474, having received A's in all subjects on every semester report. He is also a major in his cadet regiment.

The scholarship provides study at Harvard College in the academic year 1941-42. Edward G. Bradley and Jack Franklin Bennett, of Woodrow Wilson High School, were named alternates.

Millar is a son of James Millar, Navy Department architect, and Mrs. Millar. He has not yet decided whether to accept the scholarship.

28 Sibley Nurses Awarded Diplomas

Nurses of the Lucy Webb Hayes Training School of Sibley Hospital, participating in commencement exercises last night at Hamline Methodist Church, were reminded of the sacred trust of their profession.

Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, Washington Methodist resident prelate, addressed the graduates shortly after they marched to the chancel, where Dr. John M. Orem, hospital president, presented the diplomas, and Mrs. Helen Shoemaker, director of nurses, fastened their graduation pins.

Symbolizing their following in Florence Nightingale's path, the 28 nurses were presented ornamental lamps. Dr. Harry W. Burgan, Hamline pastor, gave the blessing. John Murphy sang a vocal solo accompanied by Lyman McCrary, Hamline organist.

Ex-D. C. Man Held In Wife's Death

Ralph Gedney, reported to be a former Washingtonian employed in construction work on the Isla Grande Naval Base, San Juan, Puerto Rico, was held on $10,000 bail yesterday on a charge of killing his wife, Virginia, the Associated Press reported.

A check-up here failed to reveal Gedney has any local connections.

The Old and the New in Time Telling

The ancient timekeeper that needed no sunshine for operation was the clepsydra or water clock, shown above

Telling time many years ago was not a matter of looking at a wrist or pocket watch. Alfred the Great invented the time table candle because he wanted to divide the day into three parts—worship, administration, rest and recreation. Left (below) is the time candle. The sun dial (right) was used by the ancient Babylonians and Egyptians to measure time. These are shown in a local store's exhibit

Time Pieces of All Ages Shown In Local Exhibit

By Martha Ellyn

IF YOU talk to anyone identified with the Office of Emergency Management today you will get the idea that time is the most important factor in the American life. And to be able to have instruments to measure time is also of vital importance to us.

Martha Ellyn.

Persons who must get to their destination, whether by train, bus, plane, boat or foot or by family car are in the habit of checking the hour. "Clock-watchers," too, think it is important to know the time of day. Almost without exception, everyone asks himself many times a day "what time is it?"

Life would be pretty much of a jumble if we had to wake up in the morning and judge the time by the position of the sun in the sky and the shadow it casts; and at night, had to guess the time by the position of the stars. Such vague terms as "dawn," "full market," "noon" and "sunset" would bring to modern life many complexities and perplexities.

Today, it amazes us to note the changes that have come, giving us our electric clocks, pocket and wrist watches. An exhibit of many interesting timepieces made through the years is now on exhibit at a local store.

It has taken many years of perfecting time-measuring machines to bring us to the precision movements we now have in timepieces. Some clocks are so mechanized as to show the movements of the earth and the seasons and predict eclipses.

The Babylonians and the Egyptians learned to measure time by the sundial. Of course sunshine was needed for this way of timekeeping. But an ancient timekeeper that needed no sunshine was the clepsydra of water clock. Such a device was used by the Egyptians and then improved by the Greeks and the Romans. Then, in the Middle Ages, came the hourglass, an instrument through which sand runs from one hollow glass cone to another through a tiny hole in the center. Ships at sea checked their time in this way. The first weight-driven clock was invented during the Middle Ages. Then came mechanical clocks.

America's chief source of time measurement is the Naval Observatory, located at Massachusetts Avenue at Thirty-fourth Street Northwest. At the observatory, workers check the movements of the stars against master clocks in airtight cases. These clocks are used in sending out time signals by wire and radio.

Engaged to Be Married Some Years Hence, Girl's Love and Respect for Fiance Die When He Makes Impudent Overtures; Can Feeling Be Revived?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 22 and for the past year I have been going with a young man five years my senior. We have been engaged for some time,—although we couldn't be married for several years yet,—and until the past month, I thought I was very deeply in love with him and that I could never care as much for another man.

My fiance lives in another city, and when we became engaged, it was with the mutual understanding that we would each date others whenever we wanted to,—since we cannot be together often. He favored the idea because,—so he says,— it is professionally advisable for him to keep up his social contacts. And I favored it for two reasons,—firstly, because I like social companionship and good times; and, secondly, because I have always heard it is unwise for a girl to give up all her men friends until she is practically at the altar,—which would be some years yet, in our case.

My problem is this: The last time I was with him, he tried to take liberties which, of course, I wouldn't permit. He said that since we were in love and planning to be married, I ought not to be so hard on him. I told him it would be harder for him if I permitted the petting he wanted. Since then, I have lost respect for him,—although I have tried to forgive him, because knowing that no one is perfect and that we should take a charitable view of others' weaknesses. I have always heard, too, that when you really love, nothing can kill that love. But my feeling for him has changed so much that I feel now that I never want to see him again.

Do you suppose I never loved him as I thought I did? Or does lvoe die when respect dies? Was I wrong in taking the attitude I did? Was I just being old fashioned and narrow minded? He wants to come to see me next weekend. How shall I receive him? Shall I tell him how I feel and ask to be released from the engagement? Or shall I go on as though nothing had happened, —hoping that the former feeling will return?

More than his disappointing conduct may be involved. As I have said, I have been dating other boys all along—some of them regularly. I am particularly fond of one boy, whom I shall call Ted. He is four years my junior, although so mature and settled that he seems to be 23, at least. He seems very fond of me, and some of my friends say he is in love with me. However, I have never let him make love to me or be anything more than just a good friend—because of my engagement, and because I thought I was completely in love with my fiance.

Ted has known of my engagement, as I wanted to be honest with him, and not have him think I was leading him on. He wanted to go on dating me despite the engagement and I have dated him nearly as much as I have my fiance. He is a boy who is much admired and respected. All my friends like him and they don't think the age difference matters. They like to see us together—and none of them (except Ted) knows of my engagement, as it hasn't been announced, because, as I have said, marriage couldn't be for some years yet.

So what about Ted? Shall I go on dating him? Or shall I tell him it might be best if we didn't see each other any more? Your advice will be deeply appreciated, as I must clarify my mind before I see my fiance again. Sincerely,
MILLICENT.

Better Be Glad The Romance Curdled

DEAR MILLICENT: Obviously your engagement was a mistake, based (for your part, at least), on illusion—an illusion that was completely destroyed by your fiance's brash overtures. Not only have you lost faith in the quality of his devotion, but you have made the timely discovery that he is, essentially, physically repugnant to you. And without a sense of genuine physical repport—which is to say, a sense of "rightness" and cleanness and purity of feeling, in tender or ardent affectional exchanges—one of the most important elecents of true love is lacking.

Mate love which endures embodies, in approximately equal parts, the elements of mental, spiritual and physical harmony—and it appears that, in your case, physical harmony is nonexistent and mental and spiritual understanding do not exist to any appreciable extent. Given spiritual understanding, the man's intuition, divining your sense of the fitness of things, would have restrained him from affronting you as he did. Or, given mental kinship, the situation precipiated by his impulsive demands would never have degenerated into a sordid wrangle—in which you were obliged to argue defensively against his repugnant solicitations.

It seems that you and he are poles apart—in moral viewpoint and emotional temperament. And because of his moral viewpoint and five years' seniority, I daresay his history of social experience includes a chapter of "wild oat" sowing that would further emphasize the essential unlikeness of your romantic expectations. Rather than mourn the fact that your love and respect for him died overnight; rather than try to recapture "the former feeling," you should be glad he no longer has any appeal for you. Since he has boldly indicated that he would sensually take selfish advantage of your whole-hearted devotion (had it survived this shock), and since you had been looking forward to an engagement of several years' duration—you would be in for a vicious tug-o'-war, in which you probably would be the loser, eventually, supposing you desired and attempted to continue the relationship.

Ted's presence in the picture probably had little to do with your change of heart—except, perhaps, that his decidedly more chivalrous behavior gave a standard of comparison which helped you to judge your fiance's undesirability with instantaneous accuracy. It was well, indeed, that you kept yourself in social circulation, with several beaux and a few special favorites. Otherwise, you might have inclined—even though disillusioned—to cling to his attentions from sheer force of habit, or for lack of alternate invitations.

My advice to you is to ask immediate release from your promise; and to turn gratefully to Ted's devotion for consolation, —telling him, simply, that the engagement is off, and keeping you own counsel as to the reasons why. Complete reserve on the subject will serve two purposes, from your angle: firstly, it will give a fillip of mystery to your personality; and, secondly, it will prove to Ted that you don't "tell tales out of school" about your romances. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

Woman of the People

THE NOBODIES versus the somebodies! This is the main issue that has developed in the campaign Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey is waging for reelection as president of the Do Something About It League.

Mrs. DeGoofey

The noted reformer at her press conference yesterday said she had accepted the challenge of Mrs. Wimplegate Wadd to become the champion of the underdog. Mrs. Wadd, who is backing Mrs. Buffington Blah for president of the league, last week came out with a platform promising greater social privileges to dowagers and debs.

"I am taking my stand," said Mrs. DeGooofey yesterday, "for the common woman—or rather, I mean the plain woman. No, I mean the ordinary woman—no, that's not exactly it either."

"Perhaps you mean the poor but honest woman," suggested a cliche editor. "'Or rather, I should say, the poor but proud woman."

"No, what I really mean is the average woman, "said Mrs. DeGoofey. "The woman who is pushing a wire basket in a chain grocery store while Mrs. Wadd and her cohorts are riding to benefits in their limousines."

"Will you promise these women two chickens for their pots?" asked a political columnist.

Nondrip Faucets 'Cute' Little Blouses

"No, but I shall promise them chickens that have the pin feathers properly removed when they leave the grocery stores. I shall also do something about their kitchen faucets."

"I thought the husbands always fixed the faucets," observed a broken-down rewrite man.

"That is sheer propaganda put out by the Nazis," said Mrs. DeGoofey. "As a matter of fact, nothing has been done about the faucet situation for years. Why, I ask you, do faucets continue to leak? And what is worse, why do they always turn the wrong way and spatter with the force of Niagara Falls when you so much as touch them?

"I have never yet taken hold of a faucet that behaved in an orderly and expected manner. And what is worse, I have discovered that in many sinks the two faucets turn in opposite directions.

"Another thing I intend to do for the average woman is to look into the blouse situation. Now I understand that this is to be a suit summer, and that millions of women have been sold "darling little suits," expecting to find cute or sweet little blouses to wear with them. Well, the blouses have not been forthcoming. In fact, I understand our sanitariums are packed with women who have suffered nervous breakdowns trying to find the right blouses.

"In fact, many of our average women are facing the problem of wearing their suit jackets all summer or appearing on the streets in their camisoles."

Square Deal Promised, Also Clambakes

Mrs. DeGoofey also renewed her pledge of last year to work for the manufacture of a large summer handbag that did NOT have a purse on a fishline.

"Won't you do anything against your opponents?" asked a crusade editor.

"Yes indeed,' was the reply. "For one thing, I am joining up with Mussolini to have trains cut off of evening dresses. Now this is the first time in my life I have ever found myself in accord with Mussolini on anything, but I do think he is right about dress trains.

They are imperiling the lives—and grace—of their wearers, and the sanity of all persons who attend formal parties. They are silly, unbecoming and are a means of fostering class consciousness.

"I shall also continue my campaign to have taxis given equal rights with limousines at large parties. And I shall do something about the way wearers of sables and ermine get all the attention at the places where wraps are checked."

"I am sure that my platform in behalf of democracy will win me the election by a landslide," continued Mrs. DeGoofey. "And, by the way, I am also holding a series of barbecues, clambakes and 'covered dish' parties, with free food for everybody."

Try Baby Regime To Aid Beauty

Hollywood, Calif.—"Take just one day a week out of a baby's daily routine and you'll be a prettier 'baby' yourself," Jane Wyman advises. Jane is completely intrigued by her three-month-old infant's "beauty" routine. "Take nothing but milk," says Jane, "for 24 hours, including a pint of it warm just before bedtime, and your complexion will improve overnight.

"Take at least four naps throughout the day or relax as much as possible. Use soap and water (a pure, unperfumed soap) on your skin followed by a facial with white vaseline, the baby's dependable skin food. It's excellent for dry lips, the areas about the eyes and mouth and as a hand lubricant."

Jane even considers the infant's lukewarm bath much better than a hot tub or icy shower if nerves are a bit tight. The star's first picture since the birth of her baby girl is "Bad Men of Missouri."

Pique Butterflies For Accessories

Smartness and utility are combined in the novel accessories created for Claudette Colbert's beige gabardine collarless dressmaker suit, which she wears in Paramount's "Skylark." Instead of adorning her suit with the customary jeweled clips, Miss Colbert proudly carries on her left shoulder and at the neckline a pair of white starched pique butterflies.

Removable and washable, these accessories may always be kept fresh and crisp, and when worn cost little to replace.

SmoothManners Attract Beaux

A GIRL whom men are proud to squire to the smart place is one of gracious manner.

Off for a gala evening, no awkward hesitations as to who goes first! Getting out of a car, she lets a man go ahead to help her, but going through doorways she knows she should step ahead.

In the restaurant she takes the chair the headwaiter pulls out for her unless she has some special reason for wanting another. When she gets up to dance she lays her napkin on her chair, instead of messily dropping it on the table.

It isn't hard to have the delightful manners that men admire. Take the matter of receiving compliments. Do you giggle schoolgirl-like when a man tells you you're looking lovely? Peep into your etiquette book and you'll find your line is a smooth "Thank you."

Time to go home? Let your escort unlock your door, tell him what a lovely time you had, then make your exit—unless you want to seem to be asking for a good-night kiss.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, "Etiquette for the Teens" to the NEW YORK OFFICE OF THE WASHINGTON POST, Home Institute, 109 West Nineteenth Street New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name and address, and the name of booklet.

39th Year of Cuban Independence Celebrated at Embassy Reception

By Hope Ridings Miller

CELEBRATING the thirty-ninth anniversary of their country's independence, the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Concheso entertained several hundred guests at a reception at the Embassy yesterday. The fete marked the first large party that the comparatively new envoy and his wife have given in Washington, and drew a representative number from the Diplomatic Corps, the official contingent and residential society.

The host and hostess received in the drawing room from 5 to 7 o'clock, but many guests lingered in the garden until almost time for dinner. Standing with the Ambassador and Senora de Concheso were the Cuban Minister Counselor and Senora de Baron. Here and there in the crowd, seeing that everybody had a good time, was Dr. Vincente Valdes Rodriguez, Counselor of the Embassy, who patiently explained to more than one guest that the party was "a fiesta" in honor of Cuba's independence. Also mingling in the throng was pretty Senora de Valdes Rodriguez, who teaches Spanish at a local school and was taking time off from her lessons to practice the language with a number of guests. Still other members of the Cuban Embassy staff were stationed at convenient intervals to see that everybody met everybody else and had a good time.

A bountiful buffet was spread in one of the drawing rooms, in the large ballroom, and outside in the garden where most of the guests collected and lingered. Many in the crowd either had come from other parties or were going on to one or more. Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William C. Crane were among those gathering in friends yesterday afternoon, and others were Mr. and Mrs. George Boncesco and Miss Azadia Newman, the latter of whom did not give a party, but rather a preview of her lastest portrait—that of Maj. Gen. Allen W. Guillion.

But back to the Cuban party—which was large and lavish and very much in keeping with the standard of hospitality we have come to expect from our good neighbors to the south. Red and white peonies and gladioli stemmed from huge vases throughout the embassy and blended with the blossoms that fringed the garden to the back. After the first hour of the party, nobody stayed indoors. Everybody wandered on to the garden, which soon was a moving mass of well-known Washingtonians, diplomats and celebrated visitors.

Mrs. Jesse Jones' Arrives Early

Going down the line early was Mrs. Jesse Jones, whose blue and white ensemble was set off with three very attractive decorations on the left lapel. "I've put them in the order they belong," said Mrs. Jones. "The American flag at the top, the American unity pin next, and a Canadian Air corps pin next." Mrs. Claude Wickard was among those present at the party; as were the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Don Manuel de Freye y Santander; the Mexican Ambassador, Don Francisco Castillo Najera; the Ambassador of Ecuador, Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, and the Brazilian Ambassador and Senhora de Martins.

The German Minister, Hans Thomsen, was there without Frau Thomsen — she's visiting the German Consul General in Boston and Mrs. Herbert Scholz, who used to be here. I asked Dr. Thomsen why it was that, at innumerable auction sales where I had seen him lately, the auctioneers quite pointedly closed off bidding in his favor almost any time some special object of art was up for sale. "I don't know," he said. "Unless it's because I'm such a regular attendant—and they seem to like me."

Incidentally, he denied the recently circulated report that he had been investing large sums in early American furniture—at auction sales. "That's probably Herr Karl Resenberg (German First Secretary)," he said. "I'm much more interested in paintings."

Mrs. Cordell Hull was among those present, as were Mrs. Henry Stimson, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Adolf Berle, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Deimel, jr., and Mrs. Stanley K. Hornbeck. From the Congressional contingent were many guests, including Mrs. Richard Kleberg, Representative and Mrs. Harry Coffee, Mrs. Laurence Arnold and scores of others.

Famous Physician Among Those Present

Dr. Max Porges, noted Czecho-Slovak diagnostician, was there with Mrs. Porges and their Virginia hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse. The former Austrian Minister and Mme. Edgar Prochnik were among the early arrivals —Mme. Prochnik wearing such a smart little pink rose-trimmed turban that all her friends were urging her "to open a hat shop, quickly."

Still others there included, in addition to practically all the Latin-American envoys and their wives, Director of the Mint Nellie Tayloe Ross, Mr. and Mrs. George Maurice Morris, Dr. and Mrs. William Jennings Price, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Britten, the Rumanian Charge d'Affaires and pretty Mrs. Brutus Coste; George Abell, greeting friends on all sides and telling them what a wonderful time he had on his recent visit to the West Coast; the Czecho-Slovak Minister and Mme. Hurban, Mr. and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, attractive Patria Mencia, of the Cuban Embassy staff; Mrs. Thomas Holcomb, who seemed to know everybody there; Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, the Netherlands Minister and Mme. Loudon, among the more popular guests; Mr. and Mrs. Kleijn Molekamp, who were on their way to the Boncesco party; Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman and her daughter, Miss Laura Tuckerman; Col. and Mrs. Consuelo Seoane and their house guest, Mrs. Worth Hall, who is stopping over here a few days before going on to her home in Detroit, after spending some time in Miami, Fla., and many, many more.

Flower Show Held

Miss Rubicam Is Engaged

The engagement has been announced of Miss Kathleen Bodine Rubicam, daughter of the Marchesa Aurelio Pateras Pescara, and Raymond Rubicam, of New York, to John Daugherty Witten, of Washington, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Wray Witten, of Versailles, Mo. The wedding will take place in New York June 14, in the chapel of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Miss Rubicam was graduated from Rosemary Hall and from Vassar College. She is a member of the Junior League. Her father is chairman of the board of the advertising firm of Young & Rubicam, Inc.

Mr. Witten was graduated from Columbia College and attended the Graduate School of Political Science of Columbia University. He is a member of the Columbia University Club of New York and of the University Club here. He is now serving as an economist and chief statistician in the War Department Office of the Quartermaster General.

Luncheon Given For Miss Henning, To Be Wed June 12

Miss Barbara Henning, who will be married June 12 to Lieut. Thomas Courtenay O'Connell, was honor guest at a luncheon given yesterday by Miss Aileen Wrightson, daughter of Mrs. William Wrightson. The hostess wore a blue and white print frock.

The other guests were Mrs. Arthur Sears Henning, mother of the prospective bride; her sister, Mrs. Landon Head; Mrs. Wrightson, Miss Priscilla Wrightson, sister of the hostess; Miss Nancy Hoskinson, who will be wed Junee 11 to James O'Grady; Miss Edith Pearson, Miss Clare Cotter, Mrs. Virginia Wagoner, Miss Barbara Belling, Miss Julie Cahill, Miss Mary Parker, Miss Roberta Quirk and Miss Frances Clar'.

Other parties planned for Miss Henning includes a shower to be given by Mrs. Irene Caldwell on Thursday, May 29.

Helen Sandberg And R. M. Stacy Will Wed June 12

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sandberg have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Helen Sandberg, to Robert Manning Stacy. The ceremony will take place on Thursday, June 12, in the Augustana Lutheran Church, the Rev. Arthur O. Hjelm officiating. A reception will follow at 2600 Sixteenth Street.

Mrs. Katherine Ernstedt will be matron of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids will be Miss Eleanor Talbott, of Alexandria, Va., and Miss Bess Miller, of Toms Brook, Va.

John Stacy will act as best man for his brother, and the ushers will include James Stacy, Edwin Ernstedt, Theodore Linton and Jack Lansdale, all of Washington.

A number of parties already have been planned in honor of Miss Sandberg and Mr. Stacy. One is a tea, on June 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ernstedt.

Voluntary Service Will Meet Monday

Such divergent public figures as Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and Elsa Maxwell will speak at a gathering sponsored by the American Women's Voluntary Service on Monday afternoon at 4, at the Larz Anderson House.

The function is being held so the public can learn something of the work members of the service are doing. Miss Anita Phipps, vice chairman of the group, and Irene Dunne, movie actress, also will speak.

Patronesses for the event include Mrs. Robert A. Lovett, Mrs. James Forrestal, Mrs. Myron Taylor, Mrs. Edward Stettinius, Mrs. Rodman Wanamaker, Mrs. William Flather, Mrs. C. Mathews Dick, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mrs. S. Kent Legare and Countess Palffy.

Nancy Kite Sets Wedding June 10

Mrs. Harry Arthur Kite has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Nancy Claire, to Ralph Clarke Stanard on Tuesday, June 10.

The ceremony will take place at St. Albans Church at 4:45 p. m. A reception will follow at the Cordova, 1908 Florida Avenue.

Soon to Wed, Couple Will Be Widely Feted

Miss Nancy Hoskinson and James O'Grady, whose marriage will take place on June 11 at the Sulgrave Club, will have a number of parties given in their honor in the next few weeks. Among fetes already planned for them is the dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. A. Burke Summers on June 3.

The party will take place at 4444 Linnean Avenue, the new Summers' home.

About the Town

—with Dudley Harmon

PROBABLY THE HAPPIEST person in Washington these days is Peggy Lane, daughter of the United States Minister to Yugoslavia and Mrs. Arthur Bliss Lane. Her parents are on their way home, after going through some hair-raising experiences during the German invasion.

The Lanes are now in Budapest, en route to Lisbon. The American Legation in Belgrade was so badly damaged by bombs that the staff has been living at the Brazilian Legation. Peggy received one telephone call from her father saying they were safe, and after that—complete silence.

Peggy returned to this country several months ago and has been living in Washington. When not worrying about her family, she has been showing colored pictures which she took in Yugoslavia to help raise funds for relief there.

FRIENDS OF the Second Secretary of our legation in Yugoslavia, James Bonbright, and Mrs. Bonbright, have heard nothing from them for several months. The only word of their adventure was a newspaper account of Mrs. Bonbright's altercation with a German officer who wanted to commandeer her car in Belgrade. She finally won out, after going to the Minister about it. Mr. Bonbright has just been named to a new and possibly an only slightly less precarious post, Budapest.

ONE OF THE fascinating things about English tradition is the way medieval titles continue to be used long after their function has ceased to exist. Sir Wilfrid Greene, who arrives in Washington today, is called Master of the Rolls, but has nothing to do with records or archives. He is actually the Chief of the Court of Appeals in England. The title is a hangover from several hundred years ago, when the Lord Chancellor had a boy to help him keep the records straight. Gradually the assistant assumed legal duties, and now the office is purely judicial.

Sir Wilfred is in this country at the invitation of the committee celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Supreme Court of New York. He came over on the same Clipper with Robert Menzies, the Australian Prime Minister. The visitor is one of 40 active members of that very exclusive organization known as Fellows of All Souls. This is the highest honor awarded graduates of Oxford, and only two a year are selected. Lord Halifax, Sir Arthur Salter and John Foster of the British Embassy are Fellows of Sir Wilfred. In the peculiar way of English tradition, the honor is automatically lost when a member marries. He can gain it back only by achievement in later life.

PASSENGERS on a recent Clipper flight to England spent their time drinking toasts to—a ham. One of the men aboard had been given it by his wife for a friend in England, and before he left she warned him that everybody there would try to cajole it away from him. "Hold it tightly under your arm until it reaches our friend," she cautioned, for a ham in England today is above rubies.

Another vital cargo going to London these days is vitamin B-1. American bombers being flown there are reported loaded with cases of it.

Wives of Texas Legislators Give Breakfast

A number of luncheon dates probably were broken yesterday after the breakfast given by Mrs. Ewing Thomason nad Mrs. Albert Thomas, wives of Texas Representatives, at the Congressional Club. The party, beginning at 10:30 a. m., went merrily along until noon, and the menu was as one guest expressed it, "so ample" that a luncheon engagement afterward was entirely out of the question.

Receiving informally on the first floor of the club, the hostesses urged guests "to go on in for a cup of coffee." Both Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Thomason were trimly turned out in black and white. The latter wore a print frock, featuring a delicate black design on a white background finished off with a rippling white organdy collar and a small white straw hat, while Mrs. Thomas wore with her black frock an off-the-face black and white striped hat, accented with a rim of red roses over the front brim and a wisp of veiling tied under the chin.

Assisting the hostesses at small tables in the dining room were Mrs. Otis Bland, Mrs. Fritz Lanham, Mrs. Luther Johnson, Mrs. Robert F. Rich, Mrs. Dow W. Harter, Mrs. Charles R. Clason and Mrs. Pete Jarman. Among those who took their turns pouring coffee were Mrs. Harry Coffee, Mrs. Herron Pearson, Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, Mrs. John Sparkman and Mrs. Charles Leavy.

Mrs. Dennis Chavez, wife of the Senator from New Mexico, was seated at the right of Mrs. Thomason, while Mrs. D. Worth Clark, wife of Senator Clark, of Idaho, was at the right of Mrs. Thomas. Wives of Texas Representatives predominated in the company, which also included a number of Congressional wives from other States and a scattering of residential Washingtonians. Tables were decorated in either white or red peonies, arranged in low bouquets. Talk over-the-coffee turned on the current Senate race in Texas, with everybody agreeing that it is hardly a race at all —now that the "Please-pass-the-biscuits, Pappy" Governor has declared himself a candidate.

Rev. Leslie Glenn Will Review Withington's Book

The Rev. Leslie Glenn, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, will review Dr. Alfreda Withington's autobiography, "Mine Eyes Have Seen," this afternoon at a tea to be held at the home of Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling. The party is a benefit for the library of St. John's.

Among those who have made reservations for the party this afternoon are Mrs. Kemper Williams, Mrs. Horatio Gilmore, Miss Elizabeth Houghton, Mrs. C. Alden Chase, Miss Grace Dunham Guest, Mrs. Kit Williams and Baroness Korff.

Shouses Entertain Dr. Porges, Wife

Dr. and Mrs. Max Porges, of Czecho-Slovakia, arrived yesterday from New York to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, at their country place, Wolf Trap Farm, over the weekend.

Dr. Porges is known internationally as a diagnostician, and for years potentates from all over the world gathered in his office in Marienbad. King Edward VII was an annual visitor and the list of Americans who crossed the Atlantic for his advice reads like a supersocial register.

Dr. and Mrs. Porges are making their home in New York and when they leave Washington they will go to Boston to be the guests of Mrs. Larz Anderson.

Senora Leonardios Entertains Today

Senora Lourzes Leonardios will entertain at a luncheon today for a group of South American friends and others who have visited in the countries below the Rio Grande.

The guests will be Senora Amorim do Valle, wife of the Naval Attache of the Brazilian Embassy; Senora Albuquerque de Lima, Miss Frances Rands, Mrs. William Johnston and Mrs. Charles Lord.

Mrs. Overton Returns From Louisiana Visit

Mrs. John H. Overton, wife of Senator Overton of Louisiana, has returned to their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after a two-weeks visit in Alexandria, La., with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Cailleteau. Mrs. Cailleteau, the former Kay Overton, has many friends in Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. Cailleteau accompanied Mrs. Overton on her return here, continuing their trip to New York.

Author Is Honored By Mrs. Hoffman

Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman entertained at a dinner for 16 last night in honor of Andre Maurois, French author, who will speak at a benefit tonight to raise funds for French prisoners.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Russell, who are here from New York for a visit with the latter's sister, Countess de Limur. A number of dinners will precede Mr. Maurois' lecture.

Argentine Penologist Praises U. S. Prisons

By Jessie Ash Arndt

The Post Club Editor

Going to jail is not most people's idea of an interesting way to spend one's time in a strange city but that is always the chief objective of Miss Gisele Shaw, of Buenos Aires, who is now in Washington. Miss Shaw, although she is staying at the Sulgrave Club while she is in the Capital, has already visited the Lorton Reformatory.

She considers penal institutions for women in this country the finest in the world—and she is an authority for she has visited those in all parts of South America and in Europe. The social organization of a country is the best index to its political and economic life, said Miss Shaw. Where penal institutions are conducted as they were in France and Rumania before the war, with women herded together and treated like cattle, it is indication of such political corruption as has been revealed in these countries since, she said. Where, on the other hand they are clean and well-ordered with training programs that take into consideration the moral and spiritual needs of a human being, as those in England and America, the political and economic structure of the nation is sound, she believes.

Miss Shaw, whose Scotch ancestry accounts for a name that does not identiy her at once as a Latin American, has visited jails and prisons for women in all of the cities of her own country. She spent three years travelling from place to place in her motor car, and personally inspecting the institutions. She takes materials along which she often gives to women prisoners to make themselves garments, and chocolates for children who are sometimes held in custody with their mothers because no other provision has been made for caring for them. She is seeking appointment as national director of penal institutions for women in Argentina, insisting that such a post should be filled by a woman.

Miss Shaw believes the handling of prison inmates in small units is best for them, and reduces the liability of having trouble among them. The conditions in penal institutions to a large extent reflect the attitude of the person in charge of them, she says.

Miss Shaw is also a representative of the Pan-American League of Argentina and has lectured widely. As an enthusiastic supporter of Pan Americanism she makes it a point when lecturing before women's groups in one country to tell them of women leaders with whom she has contact in other republics and of their work, thus emphasizing the unity of interest among the women of the Western Hemisphere.

She has conferred with many persons in official life during her stay here and has been much entertained. Tomorrow she will be honored, with Miss Marina Nunez del Prado, of La Paz, Bolivia, at a luncheon to be given by the Peoples Mandate Committee at the Carlton Hotel. It was she who arranged the reception in Buenos Aires for the "Flying Caravan" of the Peoples Mandate two years ago.

She will be introduced at the luncheon by Mrs. Thomas Burke, who was ranking member of the caravan delegation which toured the Americas in support of the Buenos Aires Peace Treaties. Miss Mabel Vernon, director of the People's Mandate, will preside.

Miss Del Prado, the sculptor, whose exhibit of work opens at the Pan American Union tomorrow, is the chairman of the Peoples Mandate in Bolivia. She is now the Latin-American Fellow of the American Association of University Women and will be introduced at the luncheon by a national officer of this association. Mme. Gauchalla, wife of the Minister of Bolivia, will be an honor guest.

Miss Amy Onken, Pi Beta Phi Head, Honored at Tea

Miss Amy Burnham Onken, of Chapin, Ill., who for more than 20 years has been president of Pi Beta Phi Sorority, was guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a tea given at the home of Mrs. Charles Pledger. Delegates to the District Panhellenic Association were present, in addition to the Pi Phis, of whom there are more than 600 in Washington.

Mrs. R. H. Pledger, Washington alumnae president, and Mrs. Preston B. Kavanagh, president of the Panhellenic Association, received with Miss Onken.

Later, a buffet supper was given in honor of the national president at the home of Mrs. Ralph Hudson, followed by the final meeting of the season. Supper was served in the gardens.

New officers for the year include, in addition to Mrs. R. H. Pledger, Mrs. Clark Ober, vice president; Mrs. S. L. Sommer, recording secretary; Mrs. Jonathan Hauck, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Francis Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Julian Terrett, assistant treasurer, and Miss Maxine Girts, Panhellenic delegate.

Opens Home for Benefit

Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor (left), past president of the Woman's board of George Washington University Hospital, who opened her estate, Wild Acres, near Bethesda, yesterday afternoon for a benefit card party for the hospital, with Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the board

More than 300 guests gathered yesterday afternoon at Wild Acres, estate of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, near Bethesda, for the garden party given by Mrs. Grosvenor for the benefit of George Washington University Hospital.

Mrs. Grosvenor, a past president of the women's board, received, assisted by Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, who is now the president. Mrs. Grosvenor wore a long gown of blue lace and Mrs. Marvin a street-length flowered print with a light blue picture hat.

Tables for cards were arranged in the rooms on the first floor of the house, on the verandas and under the shade trees on the lawn. A program of dances was presented by students from Miss Hawks' dancing classes, and the entire Chesapeake and Potomac Glee Club sang.

In the dance group were Martha Louise Smith, Billie-Jo Hickman, Louise Adel Sammons, Rose Strong Hellman, Louise Masterson, Charlotte Hubbard, Rosanna Murphy, Elaine Speaker, Shirley Heine, Renee Chevalier, Patricia Smith, Marie Theresa Schwarz, Patricia Valaer, Helen Harvey Cutter, Star Strong Hellman, Betty Guider, Buddy Gates, Andrea MacDonald and Harriett Whisman.

On the committee with Mrs. Grosvenor were Mrs. Wilbur Collier, Mrs. Robie M. Evans, Mrs. Arthur Grahame, Mrs. Philip Pelland, Mrs. Joseph Roe, Mrs. Leonard Stejneger, Mrs. Vivian McNitt, Mrs. W. Y. Handy, Mrs. Norman Smith, Mrs. Robert W. Bolwell, Miss Helen Dunn, Mrs. Barton Richwine. Mrs. Grosvenor's daughter, Mrs. Cabot Coville, was among the young women assisting.

Dr. Gewehr Will Give Final Lecture in Series

The final lecture of the series of six by Dr. Wesley M. Gewehr, on world events, will be presented tomorrow morning at Foundry Methodist Church.

Guests of honor for the occasion will be the Minister of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Vladimar Hurban, who have accepted invitations to be present.

Convoy Issue to Be Placed Before Clubwomen's Conclave

By Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley

Atlantic City, N. J., May 20.—Emergency resolutions which will bring to the fore proconvoy, anticonvoy and isolationist sentiment among the 6,000 women here for the triennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, are expected to be presented before the close of the session, according to Mrs. Harry W. Smith, of Durham, N. C., resolutions chairman.

The federation by-laws provide that resolutions, except those in the emergency category, must be prepared and approved by the board of directors 60 days prior to the convention. With the fast-moving world events, some of the resolutions drawn up last February are completely outdated. Mrs. Frederick Beggs, of Wyckoff, N. J., chairman of the international relations department, disclosed that she is endeavoring to strengthen a resolution already approved by the board of directors, indorsing aid to Great Britain and the nations fighting against aggression.

The resolution indorsing national representation for the District will be one of those to be brought before the convention. As rumors of opposition grew, the District delegation urging support of it intensified its efforts to organize favorable sentiment.

Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, retiring president of the federation, in her address at the opening session this morning, declared women would be called upon to make sacrifices in the immediate future and asserted this was no time for club women to go off on long summer vacations. She urged them to keep their clubs open through the summer and added that they must face the problems of the day with their spiritual forces mobilized. Unless the church and Christian people become pioneers once more, the Nation is headed for a spiritual lag, she said.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church of Philadelphia, and Miss Bess Goodykoontz of the Office of Education, spoke on the afternoon program arranged by the federation departments of the American home and of education.

Tonight the great chorus of 1,000 voices, recruited from the different States, presented an elaborate program

In a brief ceremony this morning, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, on behalf of the pioneer clubwomen of the United States, presented to the General Federation of Women's Clubs a new federation flag made of soft blue with the seals of the General Federation in white, blue and red, within a band of gold. This means that for the first time the federation has its own flag, which will be used at headquarters, 1734 N Street, in Washington.

At the same time, Mrs. Whitehurst presented on behalf of the second class of pioneer clubwomen a handsome American flag. The presentation was made by a procession of State flags, in which the District of Columbia flag was carried for the first time.

1,500 Invited To Dental Clinic Opening

More than 1,500 invitations have been issued to mothers of preschool children, who have attended the parent-teacher summer round-ups, to be present at the open house of the newly equipped dental clinic of the Children's Hospital, Thirteenth and W Streets Northwest, this afternoon at 1:30.

The invitations have been issued by the dental health committee of the Council of Social Agencies, on which are represented the Children's Hospital staff, the Women's Auxiliary of the D. C. Central Society, the District Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Council of Social Agencies.

It will be the first meeting of its kind in Washington. Mrs. Evelyn Bright Buckley, of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers, will preside and brief talks will be made by several doctors and dentists and Miss Mattie Gibson, superintendent of Children's Hospital. The other speakers will be Dr. Joseph Wall, chief of the medical staff of Childre's Hospital; Dr. Walter Rath, chief of the dental staff; Dr. William Paul Hoffman, chairman of the oral hygiene committee of the District Dental Society, and Dr. Frank Cady, D. D. S., of the Public Health Service.

The meeting has been arranged by Mrs. William Sweet, retiring president of the Women's Auxiliary to the District Dental Society. The auxiliary, for a number of years, has supported the dental clinic at Children's Hospital. Children of elementary and high school age have been cared for in the past and now the service is being extended to pre-school children through the auxiliary's efforts.

A CONFERENCE of mothers of Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. opened yesterday at Vacation Lodge, near Cherrydale, Va., with its theme, "We Take a Look at Ourselves—From Long Range —From Close Up."

Registrations at noon were followed by luncheon at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Harold Saunders, chairman of the Mothers' Council, made the opening address in the afternoon and Dr. W. L. Gewehr, professor of American History at the University of Maryland, spoke on "Democracy and Youth." Also on the program were Earl Allgaier, of the safety division of the American Automobile Association, who spoke on "Teen-Age at the Wheel," and Mrs. G. H. Collingwood, who talked on "Doorways and Their Keys."

At 7:30 in the evening, following dinner, there was a discussion on the subject, "Youth Takes a Look Backward." Miss Eleanor Furniss, Herbert D. Smith and Mrs. Van Smith participated with Dr. Fred Buschmeyer in charge of the discussion.

This morning at 9:30 there will be a discussion of the Girl Reserve organization. Mrs. Clinton Ward and Mrs. Thomas E. Mattingly will participate and the conference will adjourn at 11 o'clock.

MAINE PICNIC—The Maine State Society will have a baked bean supper picnic Saturday at Rock Creek Park, picnic grove No. 3, near Pierce Mill, from 3 o'clock until evening. Supper will be served at 5:30 under the direction of Mrs. Marie Collet, chairman. Mrs. Breslau Chosen to Head Hadassah Unit

Mrs. Isadore Breslau was elected president of the Washington Chapter of Hadassah yesterday to succeed Mrs. Moe Offenberg, who has served for the past two years. The election took place at the final meeting of the year at the Jewish Community Center. Dr. Walter Lowdermilk, assistant chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture, was guest speaker.

Other new officers elected were Mrs. Samuel Dodek, Mrs. Arnold Coplan, Mrs. Joseph Freedman and Mrs. Harry Levinson, vice presidents; Mrs. Julius Wolpe, treasurer; Mrs. Aryeh Lev, recording secretary; Mrs. Alexander Hassan, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Philip Hayman, financial secretary; Mrs. Harry Lourie, administrative secretary; Mrs. Benjamin Henkin, assistant financial secretary; Mrs. Aaron Lweittes, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Simon Hirshman, assistant administrative secretary; Mrs. Fred Gichner and Mrs. Paul Pearlman, trustees.

Dr. Lowdermilk, who went to Palestine to study the agricultural conservation work being done there, said that the devotion of the people to the soil should be a lesson to the United States and to the world that would point a "way out" after the war. He said that society must turn from an economy of exploitation of the land and of human resources, to one of conservation.

There was music by the choral group of Hadassah, organized this year under the direction of Cantor Adolph J. Weisgal, of Baltimore.

Press Women Sample Army's 'Field Ration C' at Luncheon

Field Ration C of the U. S. Army made its bow on the luncheon tables of the Women's National Press Club yesterday at the Willard Hotel. Miss Mary Barber, "dollar-a-year" menu-maker for the Army, who has been borrowed by Uncle Sam from the Kellogg Company, brought three cans along for the club members to sample when she addressed them.

This ration is made up of three "dinners," she explained, especially packed for the Army—meat and beans, meat and vegetable stew and meat and vegetable hash. Each can has a companion can containing hard biscuit, soluble coffee, lump sugar and a chocolate wafer. This ration, which will be used by the men on maneuvers this summer, is carried when they are on field duty which does not permit a field mess kitchen being set up. It has the correct proportion of fat to carbohydrate. It also tastes good, the Press Club members decided after having sampled it.

Miss Barber also had samples of the "fatigue pills," similar to those used by the Germans, which are being developed but have not yet been accepted by the Army. These are tablets of highly concentrated food value to be used in emergency—practically a square meal dissolved on the tongue.

"On May 1," said Miss Barber," Field Ration A went into effect. Marketing centers have been set up for food purchasing. There are specialists to advise and work with quartermasters in different sections of the country. The commanding general in each corps area assigns the responsibility for the menus. These must be approved by him and sent to Washington. In the subsistence branch, they are carefully studied and checked and returned, with suggestions if necessary. Our aims are to provide fruit every day, usually for breakfast; cereals, one egg per man per day, milk, vegetables, fresh and canned, meat and cheese. There is variety enough so that the men should not tire of the meals.

"Field Ration B is made up of nonperishable foods — all meats canned, canned vegetables, dehydrated vegetables, canned milk, etc. This ration, too, has been calculated for its nutritional value," said Miss Barber.

"It was found to be adequate, with the exception of vitamin C. This has been corrected by the inclusion of more tomatoes and concentrated lemon juice to which ascorbic acid has been added.

"Field Ration D is an emergency ration which can be carried in the pocket," she said. "It is a chocolate bar, stabilized with oat flour and reinforced with vitamins. One bar yields about 600 calories. Of course, work is being done on parachute, ski and other special rations," she added.

"The Quartermaster Corps is alert to the popular interest in nutrition," Miss Barber declared. "It realizes that mothers are far better informed about food values than ever before and that the boys themselves understand the essentials of a balanced diet. The Army ration is planned with all these things in mind, and the American soldier of today is better fed than any other fighting man in the world—better fed than at least 60 per cent of the civilians of the United States."

As a relaxation from her daily job of planning menus for over 1,000,000 men, Miss Barber said she went to the circus last week to watch the elephants eat, "just to see something that could eat amounts of food such as we prepare."

Miss Josephine Hemphill, first vice president of the club, presided in the absence of Mrs. J. Fred Essary, the president, who is out of town. She introduced as other honored guests: Mrs. Henrietta Nesbitt, White House housekeeper; Dr. Louise Stanley, of the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

Fox's Loans To U. S. Judge Cited at Trial

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, May 20.—Two loans without security, one of $15,000 and one of $12,500, were cited by a Government attorney today as "favors" received from a one-time motion picture magnate by Judge J. Warren Davis, retired United States Circuit Court jurist now being tried on criminal charges.

"No note was given, no collateral, no interest and none of the money was ever paid back and there was no intention of ever paying any," Prosecutor Walter H. Gahagan, jr., declared in opening the Government's case in District Court.

Gahagan, special assistant to the Attorney General, said five rulings made by Judge Davis before he retired two years ago at the age of 72 would be used to "show how justice was sold" in litigation involving the financial holdings of William Fox, bankrupt former motion picture producer.

Fox, called to the stand late in the day, testified he told Judge Davis of his financial "trials and tribulations" and confirmed that he made the two loans.

Fox was indicted with Judge Davis and Morgan S. Kaufman, former bankruptcy referee, last March on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States. Fox has pleaded guilty.

Kaufman, on trial with Judge Davis, was named by Prosecutor Gahagan as "the go-between" who arranged the first meeting between Davis and Fox at the Fox home in Atlantic City and handled later transactions between the two.

Fox testified it was Kaufman who came to him and asked if "I could possibly loan Judge Davis $15,000." Fox said he made the loan and later he met Davis and the judge "thanked me for the $15,000 I had sent through Mr. Kaufman."

The one-time motion picture figure said some time later the judge asked for $12,500. Fox said he came to Philadelphia with 12 $1,000 bills in a newspaper, met the judge on a street and:

"We withdrew into a hallway of a building and I handed Judge Davis the money."

Fox testified that on his first meeting with the judge in Atlantic City Kaufman and Davis said "they would try to learn who he (the referee handling the Fox bankruptcy case) was and speak in my behalf."

Only a short time later, Fox said, Kaufman came to him and said Judge Davis needed $15,000 for his daughter's wedding.

Crippled Children To Go on Cruise

Several hundred crippled school children from Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia will be guests of the Junior Board of Commerce Friday afternoon on a cruise down the Potomac River.

All children eligible to take the cruise will be excused from school, the Junior Board announced. A parent or nurse may accompany each child on the cruise which will be made on the Wilson Line steamer S. S. Mount Vernon.

Children have been asked to be at the Wilson Line pier, Seventh Street wharves, not later than 1:30 p. m. and to leave school early enough to have lunch before the boat departs. Refreshments and entertainment will feature the cruise.

Decoys Used To Draw Sting From Bombers

By Devon Francis

Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, May 20 (AP).—American aviation circles hear that German and British airmen often bomb old-fashioned bonfires, burning innocently in the middle of open fields, when they raid enemy airdromes at night.

Trickling through the censorship has come the open secret of "decoy" fires set by both sides for the dual purpose of proecting airdromes in use and of making bombardiers waste their ammunition.

The communiques say that "on several airports bomb hits were scored on runways and on and adjacent to heavy bombers."

Sometimes to be sure, hits actually are scored, but sometimes they are not, the aviation circles report. Even when the location of airdromes is established by painstaking photographic daylight surveys. It is difficult to navigate to them at night.

To insure themselves against error, bombing crews, particularly in the Royal Air Force, have resorted to following the enemy and dropping fragmentation bombs as homeward-bound raiders touch their wheels.

Bombing planes setting out deliberately to wreck the bases of opposing aircraft, with only meager navigational facilities to guide them, frequently run afoul of the decoy fires, the story goes. The fires are set to lead the enemy to believe that other bombers have preceded them in successful assaults.

They do believe it, says the information from abroad, and blast away with both incendiaries and high explosives—to no effect.

Other decoys are used. On one broad field of no military importance a farmer patiently drives a tractor to and fro to draw the fire of enemy bombers. Stretching from his mount on long arms are lights to simulate those on a big plane. At last reports he had not been struck, though in the early morning hours when bombers on distant forays normally would be coming home to roost he has been a target on a good many occasions.

Just how much damage is done when enemy airmen actually locate an airdrome from which offensive missions depart is questionable.

Runways are mended in an hour. When a bomb makes a hole, trucks with crushed rock hurry over to fill it. On top of that goes molten tar to assure a smooth surface. The runway is ready for the next plane.

Ogden Mills Estate Revealed at 10 Million

New York, May 20 (AP).—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury under former President Herbert Hoover, left an estate of $10,095,812 gross and $8,732,833 net when he died October 11, 1937.

His widow, Dorothy Randolph Mills, of Woodbury, N. Y., received a life estate in the residue.

Washington Board of Trade Drive to Date Nets $45,203

The Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade has received pledges of $45,203 in its current drive for $62,500 to defray the expenses of the committee during the coming year, Wilmer Waller, campaign chairman, announced yesterday.

An amount is raised each year for the promotion and handling of conventions and tourists here. A total of 208 conventions, with nearly 100,000 delegates, and approximately 3,250,000 tourists, came to Washington last year, in large part due to the committee's work, it was said.

Waller told a committee gathering at the Mayflower he expected the campaign goal would be reached by the end of May.

It was pointed out that the committee must take a "long range" view in its efforts, since conventions must be booked three years ahead, and it must plan now for activities which will take place in 1942 and 1943.

Among those attending yesterday with Fred Smith, president of the Board of Trade; Edgar Morris, chairof the Greater National Capital Committee, and E. D. Merrill, president of the Capital Transit Co. and vice chairman of the campaign committee.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

President Roosevelt yesterday asked Congress for authority to bring an estimated 20,000 WPA administrative employes under Civil Service. The agency has approximately 1,345 administrative employes here. The President reminded Congress that there was a restriction in the Ramspeck Act which prevented him from bringing WPA employes under Civil Service. "I recommend," the President said, "that this discrimination be eliminated." The President also said it was "unnecessary" for the Congress to write provisions in the relief bill to prevent WPA employes from participating in politics. The Hatch Act, he declared, takes care of the matter.

The President in 1938 ordered the jobs of WPA administrative employes under Civil Service. Congress balked and stuck a rider on the next relief appropriation bill which prevented payment of salaries to WPA workers brought under the merit system. The original Ramspeck Bill would have brought WPA employes under Civil Service, but strange to say, Democratic members of the House Civil Service Committee joined with the Republicans to force Representative Ramspeck to exempt them. The Democratic members complained they hadn't been given WPA patronage in their districts.

The President requested $886,000,000 for WPA during the 1942 fiscal year. Eleven million dollars would be used for administrative expenses of agencies other than WPA. The President didn't break down the $11,000,000, but it is believed agencies that would divide the money are General Accounting Office, Procurement Division, Office of Accounts and Deposits, Division of Disbursements, Employes Compensation Commission and the Public Health Service.

Interior Secretary Ickes is reported to have had a verbal field day yesterday before the Senate Appropriations Committee explaining the so-called Gruber case. Dr. Ruth Gruber was hired by Ickes to make a study in Alaska. During House debate on the Interior appropriation bill it was mentioned that Dr. Gruber had been to Russia and had written a book about the country. Veiled charges of communism were later made against the 30-year-old employe and the House adopted a rider which would prevent the department from paying her a salary. Dr. Gruber was flying to Alaska at the time and Interior officials caught up with her at Los Angeles and told her to stand by

Ickes is said to have told the Senate Committee that Dr. Gruber was sent to Russia by the New Jersey Women's Clubs on winning a fellowship, that she wrote for the New York Herald Tribune and the North American Newspaper Alliance while in Russia and later wrote a book, "I Went to Soviet Arctic," which told of her travels. The plain-speaking Secretary said he noted that Herbert Hoover had once visited Russia but he was sure he was not a Communist on that account. In the House yesterday, Representative Bulwinkle said the Gruber affair was an "unjust treatment of a person by the House."

Federal employes whose jobs will be brought under Civil Service by the Ramspeck Act and who are fired without cause between April 23 and January 1 are eligible to attain Civil Service status and be reinstated in another job. To be eligible, an employe must be separated because of reduction in force, or abolition of his position. To be reinstated, the person must find himself a job and have an agency request his services. The commission will examine discharged employes.

The Senate, in approving the Justice appropriation, added a provision which would allow Immigration and Naturalization Service to use $200,000 of its appropriation to pay non-Civil Service employes. Senator Russell explained the money would be used to pay employes hired to register aliens. He brought out that the service would have to discharge many competent employes here unless the provision were approved . . . Civil Service exams: Junior custodial officer, $1,860, Bureau of Prisons. Only 14 units of high school education are required. The commission has lowered its requirements for engineering materials inspector and ship construction inspector. The jobs pay from $1,620 to $2,600. The maximum age for applicants has been raised to 65.

Sign and Countersign

What, No Ptomaine?

Private Michael Reilly, Philadelphia selectee at Camp Lee, Va., startled a camp visitor yesterday. When asked how he liked having eggs for breakfast every morning, he replied:

"Well, of course they're not the same kind of eggs that President Roosevelt gets, but they're O.K.—they're digestible."

D. C. Highway Report Wins Wide Support at Hearing

However, Particularly Rise in Gas Taxes Some Reservations,

By Howard F. Wentworth
Post Staff Writer

The city's $44,000,000 scheme to revamp its intricate highway system in the interest of improved safety and better traffic control yesterday received—with minor reservations—wide support of civic and business leaders at a public hearing in the District Building.

Today the Commissioners will begin a study of the Whitehurst highway planning survey report with a view to its early transmission to Congress.

Praise for the report "in principle" was showered on Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, the author, by representatives of some 30 civic, business and auto groups.

But the two-hour flow of testimony was not without conflicting views from citizen witnesses. Proposed methods of financing the gigantic project through an increased gasoline tax brought nearly a score of objectors to their feet.

The report suggests a 2-cent gas tax boost to carry out the changes within eight years. There were those opposed to any increase in taxes and others who objected to 2 cents, but agreed to 1 cent.

Opinions Listed

Opinions also were expressed that the Federal Government should share a greater portion of the costs; that the District should not be required to pay "one penny" for the proposed tunnel crossing of the Potomac River from Alexandria and that only vital portions of the report be considered until the present emergency is ended.

The Federation of Citizens Associations, through Harry Wender, first vice president, presented divided views on the question of raising gasoline taxes.

Some Favor 1-cent Tax

The federation, said Wender, voted 26 to 24, against increased taxes, while indorsing the Whitehurst report "in general." It was felt, he added, that sufficient funds from the present 2-cent gas tax could be raised for the proposed program in view of Washington's rapidly expanding population under defense activities.

But a strong minority within the federation, Wender declared, favored a 1-cent gas tax increase. As leader of the minority, he presented his views along with those authorized by the federation, Wender added.

Washingtonians in general, the federation spokesman asserted, look with "great disfavor" on the contemplated cost of the program, but perhaps have failed to fully comprehend the benefits.

He said the federation was opposed to inclusion of the $9,000,000 Potomac tunnel item in the general estimates.

"Start Buying Safety"

"Safety on the highway can be purchased," Wender concluded, "and now is the time to start buying."

Strong objection to the proposed 2-cent gas tax increase was registered by Washington I. Cleveland, manager of the local American Automobile Association chapter. The A.A.A., he said, considered that a 2-cent boost in gas taxes would force Washington car owners to "bear a burden greater than the motorists of any other city."

Pointing out that all highway improvements are financed through the District Highway Fund derived principally from gas taxes, Cleveland said Washington is the only city in which motorists must pay 100 per cent for street and roadway maintenance.

The A. A. A. spokesman said his organization heartily indorsed Whitehurst's proposals to establish "fringe" parking facilities in sections adjacent to the downtown business area, but it was felt that the program should not be subsidized by the District.

Mrs. Thorpe Disagrees

Mrs. George Thorpe, chairman of the A. A. A. Women's Safety Committee, took issue with Capt. Whitehurst in his statement that land values in the downtown area made it "financially unsound" to construct underground parking facilities.

She described in detail a project in San Francisco now underway where an underground garage for 500 cars is being built beneath a downtown square. The RFC, said Mrs. Thorpe, is contributing a part of the cost and the balance has been raised by the sale of preferred stock to merchants. She suggested a similar plan for certain downtown parks here.

The Capital Transit Co., represented by its chief engineer, Dean J. Locke, also approved the Whitehurst plan "in principle," but suggested that any necessary street car track changes be paid for out of the general estimates.

He said necessary track changes to meet the Whitehurst proposals would cost in the neighborhood of $500,000—"and the benefits to us would not mean enough for us to bear the expense."

Keystone Opposes New Taxes

George E. Keneipp, manager of the Keystone Automobile Club, said his group opposed any increase in gas taxes as a method of financing the project.

As represented by P. Y. K. Howatt, chairman of the traffic committee, the Washington Board of Trade praised the report for its factual contents, but suggested many of its projects not be considered until it is known to what extent Federal taxes will be levied under defense activities.

The Federation of Business Men submitted a statement urging delay in carrying out the survey's recommendations because of present difficulties in obtaining skilled and semiskilled labor.

A. J. Driscoll, president of the Mid-City Citizens Association, was one of the few who favored immediate boosting of gas taxes to "carry out the much-needed program in the shortest time possible."

"The motorists will benefit," he said, "and they should pay the bill."

Others at Hearing

Also attending the public hearing was E. F. Harris, Federation of Civic Associations (colored); R. J. Murphy, Washington Automotive Trade Association; Godfrey Munter, Citizens Association of Chevy Chase; J. B. Wyckoff, Georgetown Citizens Association, and John D. Smoot, Manor Park Citizens Association.

J. Louis Gelbman, Congress Heights Citizens Association; Vernis Absher, Southeast Council Citizens Association; Raymond E. Gable, Petworth Citizens Association; Charles Maize, Association of Machinists; Henry Austin, Bradbury Heights Citizens Association.

Capt. Walter Emerson, Brightwood Citizens Association; M. M. McLean, Brookland Citizens Association; Homer J. Brown, Piney Branch Citizens Association; Charles T. Penn, Washington Building Congress; F. J. Kelly, American Road Builders Association and Dr. George C. Havenner, Forest Hills Citizens Association.

Arlington Boy Held for D. C. Traffic Death

An 18-year-old boy was held for the action of the grand jury and another motorist was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury at two traffic inquests.

Shortly before the hearings, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer announced a special traffic safety compaign to be inaugurated May 30.

Walter E. Basye, 18, of 3239 North Washington Street, Arlington, Va., was ordered held for manslaughter by a jury investigating the death of Maria Herndon, colored, 70, of 1414 Twenty-seventh Street Northwest, who was struck and killed at Twenty-sixth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest last Friday.

It was testified the youth was driving at a fast rate when the woman, who was walking across Pennsylvania Avenue in the crosswalk, was struck. Skid marks on the street measured more than 100 feet, it was said.

At the second inquest, Benjamin F. Turner, 68, of 1717 East Capitol Street, was exonerated in connection with the death of Franconia Coaxum, colored, 5, of 213 Seventeenth Street Southeast.

The child ran into the street in front of Turner's automobile Friday in the 1600 block of B Street Southeast. She was dead on arrival at Gallinger Hospital.

It was this latter death and that of 2-year-old Mary Nancy Tear, of 465 H Street Northwest, Monday, that prompted Van Duzer to announce plans to reduce the number of traffic fatalities caused by persons walking into the street from behind parked cars.

Ga. Avenue Business Men

A lump sum Federal contribution of $10,000,000 to the District for the coming fiscal year was advocated by the Georgia Avenue Businessmen's Association last night.

The association, meeting at its headquarters, 5320 Georgia Avenue Northwest, declared that defense activities here required an increase in the contribution, which should be based on no particular formula.

Proposed staggering of Federal paydays was indorsed by the association. Congratulations were extended to Brig Gen. Charles W. Kutz on his appointment as District Engineer Commissioner.

Army Calls D. C. Nurse

Second Lieut. Madeline H. Fazenbaker, Army Reserve Nurse, of 1112 Euclid Street Northwest, has been ordered to active service and will report to Camp Forrest, Tenn., for duty on or about May 26.

Md. and D. C. Labor Backs Aid to British

Special Dispatch to The Post

Hagerstown, Md., May 20.—Support of the defense program and all possible aid to Britain was pledged today by the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of of Labor, in annual convention here.

In a number of other resolutions of concern to Government workers and other residents of the Washington area, the federation urged:

1. Payment of Federal employes on a staggered pay-day plan.
2. Abolition of discrimination against Negroes in all Government departments and in the national defense program.
3. Suffrage for citizens of the District. (The convention voted to petition Congress for enfranchisement of Washington.)
4. Removal of no existing Government agencies from Washington unless deemed necessary in the interest of national defense.
5. Enactment of House Resolution 4048 to create an accident prevention board in the District.
6. Enactment of the Ramspeck bill amending the Civil Service Act so employes may retire at 60 at their option after 30 years of service.
7. No merger of retirement system of U. S. employes in the District with social security fun and unemployment insurance under the Social Security Board.

Full Support Pledged

The national defense and aid to Britain resolution was proposed by the machinists' union and recommended by the resolutions committee. It pledged the federation's full support to "the program of national defense now under way in an all-out aid to Great Britain."

Joseph D. McCurdy, federation president, was nominated unanimously for reelection at the afternoon meeting.

Eight candidates for vice president were nominated, with six to be elected at the annual election tomorrow afternoon. They are Frank N. Karshner, Baltimore; John B. Locher, Washington; R. L. Kiefer, Baltimore; Harry J. Thompson, Washington; John L. Geist, Hagerstown; Paul W. England, Cumberland; James Walto, Cumberland, and G. Kingston Howard, Baltimore.

Coleman Reelected

Secretary Frank J. Coleman, of Washington, was unanimously nominated for his eighteenth consecutive term. Other nominations, all unopposed, were Robert Lester, Baltimore, treasurer; Robert Buxbaum, Baltimore, organizer, and M. F. Heatly, and Harry Cohen, Baltimore, as delegate to the national A. F. of L. convention.

The convention indorsed the Fair Labor Standards Act and adopted a resolution protesting "any relaxation of State and Federal laws enacted for the protection of working men and women."

Another resolution adopted vigorously condemning the provisions of the Vinson bill which the resolution said "would make it a crime for the workingman to strike for any reason."

Leo H. McCormick, supervisor of the U. S. Department of Labor wage and hour division, stressed the benefits of the overtime provisions of the Wage-Hour Act as an incentive to putting unemployed workers back to work in a speech at the afternoon session.

Scribes Answer Questions for a Change As Group Gives Minstrel Show at Press Club

"MR. WHITE" SOUNDS OUT HIS END MEN—You'd hardly recognize these gentlemen of the Fourth Estate. They were featured last night in the National Press Club's minstrel show, cracked wise and sang such tunes as "Dixie," and "Woodman Spare That Tree." Left to right—Carlisle Bargeron, Rabs Rabner, Merwin Browne, Interlocutor Robert Davidson, Tiny Meeker, Carl H. Butman and Ted Kellogg

The gentlemen of the fourth estate cooked up a little fun in the form of an old-time minstrel show and served it to more than 600 members and guests of the National Press Club last night.

A cast and chorus of more than 60 club members presented the show in the club auditorium.

In the first half of the program six end men, a chorus of 40 voices and individual soloists brought to life the old-fashioned minstrel show with such tunes as "Dixie," "Woodman Spare That Tree" and "When You Wore a Tulip." Interlocutor was Robert Davidson.

In the second half 11 vaudeville acts were presented. They included everything from spirited banjo playing to a Shakespearean burlesque and Congressional candidate Freshwater Twirk in "a page from the political life of the hog-calling belt."

"National defense" was advertised as the theme of the show—as it was when the club presented its last minstrel in 1915 at the old Poli's Theater.

Other featured performers included Merwin Browne, Rabs Rabner, Carlisle Bargeron, Tiny Meeker, Carl Butman, Ted Kellogg, Oliver Lerch, Porter McKeever, Walton Onslow, Bill Coyle, Tom Wrigley, Bill Dougherty, Homer Dudge, R. T. Lawrence, Jack Daly, Charles Stewart, Al Stern, James Bryan, H. O. Citizens' Unit Backs 9-Man Recreation Bill

The Columbia Heights Citizens Forum last night voted unanimous support of a bill now in Congress to etsablish a nine-man board for administration of District recreational activties.

Following an address by Harry S. Wender, vice president of the Federatoin of Citizens Associations, the group adopted a resolution of William I. Swanton to favor passage of the nine-man plan instead of the bill creating a three-man board.

The three-man board, Swanton declared, would be made up of paid officers, while the nine-man proposal provides that five board members be unpaid Washington residents who would represent the public.

The association, which met in Powell Junior High School, Lamont Street and Hyatt Place Northwest, named William J. Cranford, William J. Oates and William I. Swanton to be a committee which will cooperate with the District Defense Housing Committee.

Petworth

Meeting at Petworth Branch Library, Georgia Avenue and Upshur Streets Northwest, the Petworth Citizens Association indorsed "in principle" legislation to establish a nine-man District recreation board and expressed opposition to legislation to change requirements for appointment of members of the Public Utilities Commission.

After hearing a talk by Bobbie Bean, 11, president of the student council of Barnard School, the citizens voted to sponsor a better garden contest with $10 in prizes for owners of the best looking front and back lawns.

The association voted to sponsor a sandlot baseball team and appropriated $175 for its equipment.

Gen. Kutz Takes His Third Oath As District Head

Brig. Gen. Charles W. Kutz, for the third time yesterday took the oath of office as District Engineer Commissioner.

Agile and alert for all of his 7[illegible] years, Gen. Kutz received congratulations from his co-workers in brief ceremonies in the office of Commissioner John Russell Young.

The new city head replaces Col. David McCoach, jr., who has been called to active service.

Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, absent for several week from the District Building because of illness, left a sick bed to attend the swearing-in exercises. Hazen was District surveyor when Gen. Kutz was first Engineer Commissioner from 1914 to 1917.

"I'm delighted to serve the District again," said Gen. Kutz. "The task is bigger now. Why, the city's pay roll is now twice the entire municipal budget when I first came here."

Nelson B. Bell About the Showshops

The Localities Bolster Late Spring's Eminence

Capital Actors Active in All Sectors; Glen Echo Tunes Up Its Crystal Pool; This, That and the Other About the Theater

WHILE THE MOTION PICTURE THEATERS—and that, for the time being, includes the National—are bringing the springtime season to a close in a blaze of cinematic glory, they are being fairly matched by the Capital's amateur and semiprofessional acting groups. It is beyond the capacity of any drama desk to cope with all that is going on locally.

BELL

The King-Smith Studio, for example, is in the midst of four performances of "Kind Lady," a psychological melodrama, dramatized by Chodorov from one of Hugh Walpole's "Herries" stories. It is one of the studio's most painstaking productions and will be followed on May 27 and 28 by Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play, "Our Town."

Then there is "Calidore." This play of social consciousness, by Leo Brady, begins a five-day run at Catholic University tonight under the general supervision of Father Gilbert V. Hartke, director of the speech and drama department. As already announced in this space, "Bill" McGuire will play the stellar role, with Mildred Bates opposite and Mimi Norton as the villainess of the piece.

Tonight and Friday, the Mount Vernon players will continue their presentation of Lula Vollmer's "Moonshine and Honeysuckle," directed by Edward Perkins Mangum.

Tomorrow afternoon, in the Newton Theater, Twelfth and Newton Streets Northeast, St. Gertrude's Guild will sponsor a program of motion pictures and general entertainment for the benefit of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts. Beginning at 1:30, Sidney's Mayflower Orchestra will be heard in a half-hour program. At 2, Gene Archer will offer a group of songs. The screen features will follow.

The Mercury Players—no doubt with apologies to Orson Welles—are a new entry upon the local scene. Tryouts for places in the cast of this new organization, "operating on a professional basis," are being held tonight and tomorrow night at 8, in Hine Junior High School, Seventh and C Streets, Southeast. Their first production will be "What Every Girl Wants," scheduled as first of three summer offerings. Rehearsals will begin Monday, May 26.

Those who don't like to come downtown of nights still should not lack for amusement practically on their own doorsteps.

Petunias for the Prognosticators

All that we—meaning all of the guys and gals of the drayma desks—said about the current semester of the cinema is turning out to be true. It is a particularly opulent period of entertainment. "Fantasia" is booming along in its second week, at the National, "Citizen Kane" already is ticketed for a second week, at RKO-Keith's; the Little Theater is carrying "The Girl in the News" over for a third week and the Columbia is doubling up on the ostensible one-week run of "Ziegfeld Girl." It doesn't end there, but that is as far as an ethical typewriter can go at the moment. For details see Mr. Coe's interesting column of what we call "midweeks."

There won't be any slip-ups in the opening of the Crystal Pool, out at Glen Echo Park, on Saturday. To be sure that the tank still would hold water—there are three tanks as a matter of fact—it was filled a night or two ago after a Saturday night scrubbing that would have done credit to the ablutional enterprises of any bucolic addicted to one-night-a-year bathing. The pool this year again will be under the charge of Boyd Hickman, George Washington football star of the class of 1934, who will be serving his eleventh year as supervisor of the splashing.

The Atlas Resumes Stage Bills

Emerson's Mountaineers, hillbillies from Kentucky and Tennessee, will be the stage attraction at the Atlas Theater on Sunday and Monday, in conjunction with a double-feature screen bill comprised of Warner Baxter and Ingrid Bergman in "Adam Had Four Sons" and Jackie Cooper in "Life With Henry," one of the Aldrich Family series. At this season?

This chap Sharma, decorating Sam Jack Kaufman's overture at the Capitol this week, seems to be quite a fellow. Half East Indian and half Italian, Barrington—that happens to be his Occidental first name—has been singing since he was 5. His appearance at the Capitol is his first theatrical engagement. Despite his Italo-Calcuttan parentage, he was born in the United States—or so I am given to believe without having had the opportunity to pin him down to it, personally. His residence at present is his 150-acre farm at Landover, Md. He insists he is not a "gentleman" farmer, but a farmer's farmer. He even feeds the pigs and makes a great fuss over a bull named, of all things, Skippy. Anyhow, the lad certainly can sing.

Famous-Last-Words Note

Let's call it a day. But there's still the night.

They're in Quest of the Foot of the Rainbow

MARY GORDON, JAMES STEWART AND PAULETTE GODDARD to be seen shortly on the screen at Loew's Capitol Theater in James Roosevelt's production of "Pot o' Gold." Horace Heidt and His Orchestra, recently on the Capitol stage and by whose broadcasts the title has been widely popularized, also are important in the picture

Louella O. Parsons'

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, May 20 (INS).—Bette Davis is so ill that she's unable to talk to anyone on the telephone. She has made three pictures in rapid succession with very little time to rest. Being highly emotional by nature, this has not helped the situation any. At the Goldwyn studios today it was reported that Bette would be out of "The Little Foxes" for a week and that scenes were being shot around her. Herbert Marshall, who plays the husband, reported for work today and all of his scenes in which Bette does not appear are being filmed.

LOUELLA PARSONS

Hollywood, Oscar Strauss told me today, had never looked so beautiful to him. He and Clara arrived Sunday after a really thrilling escape from Paris when the Germans marched in. Oscar is conducting "The Chocolate Soldier" for the Civic Light Opera here June 20 and he has written several new tunes to add to his popular opera. I understand M-G-M is talking to him about the movie, "Chocolate Soldier," which Nelson Eddy and Rise Stevens are to bring to the screen and, of course, there is nobody that knows opera like its own composer.

Gary Cooper is one star who likes to keep the same director. He worked successfully with Henry Hathahway for years, and now he is completely sold on Howard Hawks, who directed him in "Sergeant York." In deference to Gary and because Howard is such a good director, Sam Goldwyn today signed him to direct Gary in "The Professor and the Burlesque Queen."

The admirable way Hollywood visitors to Chicago contributed to the "I Am An American" program was voiced by Jack Malloy, managing editor of the Chicago Herald-American, in a telephone call. He told me Don Ameche acted as master of ceremonies for over three hours and was terrific; that Dennis Morgan's singing and Susanna Foster's two numbers, "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Star-Spangled Banner" were cheered by the 125,000 people who attended.

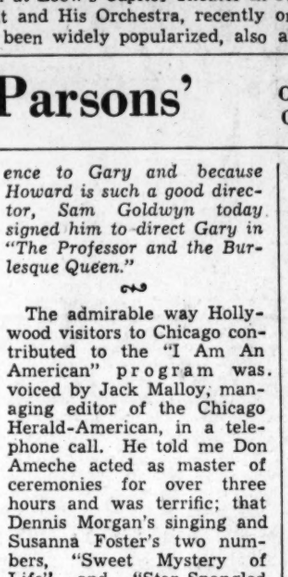
Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Marlene Dietrich is nothing if not impartial. She gave George Raft a cigarette lighter and Eddie Robinson a gold pen when they finished "Manpower;" Claudette Colbert's Welch terrier, "Marlu Frisky," won a blue ribbon at the Ambassador dog show; Gene Autry lost 15 pounds on his appearance tour and Smiley Burnette lost 20, and now Smiley has to gain his poundage back.

Shirley Ross and Ken Dolan out for the first time since the arrival of their son, at Charley Foy's night club; Anita Louise and Buddy Adler celebrated their first wedding anniversary with the Ray Dodges at the Scheherazade; Buddy Westmore and Rosemary Lane, reported cooling, were apparently warming up at the Beachcombers last eve; Virginia Zanuck told me at the Constance Bennett party she plans to take the three children through Yosemite Park. Today the children visited Sonja Henie and watched her skate on the set.

The cutest pair in town—Georgiana Young, Loretta's little sister, and her great admirer, Billy Halop, dining at Victors; Johnny Downs received his Army questionnaire over the weekend and will probably leave in a few weeks.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow.

Barytone



SHARMA, Indio-Italian singer, whose splendid voice is lending luster to Sam Jack Kaufman's "Echoes of the East" overture at Loew's Capitol this week

In Hollywood

Hollywood, May 20.

Looks as though Paramount considers Bob Hope a quartette. He's booked for four more pictures this year. There's "Louisiana Purchase"—and wouldn't you know Buddy De Sylva would use Bob's build-up with Madeleine Carroll and cast them together in "Her Perfect Mate." Jack Moffitt and Dalton Trumbo are writing away on "The Murder Farm," and there's one more war story being dreamed up for him. Incidentally, if Veronica Lake goes into "Sullivan's Travels" with Joel McCrea, they'll have to wait until after the stork's visit in late September.

HOPPER

Thomas Mitchell has almost recovered from his injuries. He'll leave the hospital within the next few days. Until last week Tommy didn't know Edward Arnold had replaced him in "The Devil and Daniel Webster." They didn't tell him for fear it might upset him—so he worried instead about holding up shooting on the picture.

Janet Clair, who comes from my part of the country, that good State, Pennsylvania—in fact, Blair County was named after her grandfather—is making such a hit in Fred Astaire's picture at Columbia that Life Magazine has asked to do a layout of pictures on her.

It isn't true that Priscilla Lane and John Barry will marry immediately. Barry joins the Army in a month . . . It's good to know our old-time favorite Wyndham Standing gets a fine part in "International Lady." And I want to thank him for that old-fashioned bouquet on Mother's Day.

If and when Hollywood ever gets around to making the life of Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York, you can make book on it that Jimmy Walker will be in the picture—I hope not disabled. Hollywood's almost shaken his right arm off.

Frank McHugh, feeling depressed, told his troubles to a priest. "Don't worry," said the priest, "your sins can be forgiven." Sighed Frank: "How about some of those B pictures I've made—can I be forgiven for them, too?" . . . Every studio in town has tried to sign up Dorothy MacGuire, who's playing "Claudia" on the New York stage. David Selznick's the nearest to it.

This comes from Reno and concerns Tallulah Bankhead. Tallulah, who can and does use strong language, was sent a copy of Edgar Selwyn's new play called "Mr. Wookey," and when asked what she thought about it, Tallulah said, "Language is too strong—it's dirty!"

Come May 25, Anna Neagle will read from a play on Queen Victoria in a British Empire Day broadcast from—of all places—Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Leonard Lyons:

New York, May 20.

GEN. GEORGE MARSHALL: Next month the only son of the second most famous man in America will enlist in the United States Army. . . John L. Lewis: There's a sign which now is displayed at the OPM office in Washington. It reads: "Let's Not Be Caught With Our Plants Down" . . . Hans Thomsen: William S. Knudsen studied all the conflicting dispatches concerning Rudolf Hess' flight to Scotland, and the various explanations for it. Knudsen made but one comment: "I only hope that the reason for Mr. Hess' leaving Germany were not trivial!"

LEONARD LYONS

MAJOR BOWES: Are you planning to resign your long-held job as director of the Capitol Theater? . . . Cordell Hull: The Brazilian Embassy—reputedly the best friend of the U. S. A.—invites so many anti-Roosevelt guests to the functions there . . . and the Ambassadress, Maria Martins, loves to have their names published in the newspapers . . . Mayor LaGuardia: The last of the Poilion Sisters, who were so famous in the annals of New York, again will be involved in a law suit—this time against Ed Reilly, in the 8th Dist. Mun. Ct., on June 4 . . . Fannie Brice: The British cable censor now permits Bea Lillie to use whatever signature she wants. And so Lady Peel's cables of last week were signed: "Barrage Balia Peel."

AMBASSADOR OUMANSKY: Jan Valtin was being questioned about the authenticity of the contents of his best-seller, "Out of the Night" . . . "Why is it," Valtin was asked, "when, in your book, you reported a killing by an OGPU man, you always described it as an 'Assassination;' but when you reported any killing done by a Gestapo man you always described it as a 'Brutal Murder'" . . . "After all," Valtin explained, "for 10 years I read nothing except the Communist press."

HENRI-HAYE: Your unofficial boss, Camille Chautemps, hasn't been able to find any popularity for himself, here—especially since Vichy unfurled its swastika. Chautemps tried to rent the elegant penthouse at a West Side hotel—the penthouse he occupied when first he arrived here—and was coldly told: "It's reserved for some one else" . . . N. B. C.: The Navy Dept. has ordered 150 copies of "I Live on Air," the book written by your executive, Abe Schechter. The copies will be distributed among the fleet.

F. D. R.: The newly formed Committee of Thirty Million, composed of American citizens of foreign birth, will be militant in its defense of our democracy. Via General Electric, they'll broadcast, in their native tongues, directly to the Nazi-occupied countries of their birth—including Occupied Italy.

EMILY POST: Lawrence W. Cramer, the former Governor of the Virgin Islands, visited Harold Ickes' office recently. He waited outside a long time and then repeated his name to the receptionist. The flustered girl lifted the phone and hurriedly told the Secretary of the Interior: "The Virgin of the Governors Island is waiting for you" . . . Ickes replied: "I don't believe it—but send him in."

TAX DEPT.: Harry Richman has abandoned his home at Beechhurst, Long Island—the home on which the late Gallagher, of Gallagher and Sheean, once spent $200,000, before Richman acquired it. Richman, who spent $70,000 on it, decided to give it up, rather than pay the high taxes.

United Appeal Volunteers Launch Drive for Funds

Rabbi William Franklin Rosenblum, of New York, told 400 volunteer workers of the United Jewish Appeal last night that "This is no time for tears," but rather is a time "for work for this great humanitarian cause."

The United Appeal represents a definite part of the resistance of the democracies to the dictators, he declared at the Jewish Community Center as the volunteers launched a three-week canvass for funds.

"Blood, sweat and tears have always been the lot of the Jewish people," he said. "Today more than one-half of the Jews of the world are in lands dominated by the Nazi 'panzer' philosophy."

Rabbi Isadore Breslau and Morris Simon, cochairmen of the Appeal in this city, told the workers they are greatly encouraged by early responses to the organization's drive for funds to aid Palestine reconstruction, overseas relief and refugee help.

Charlotte Klein Gives Recital in Epiphany

By Ray C. B. Brown.

District of Columbia Chapter, American Guild of Organists, presents Charlotte Klein in recital Tuesday night in the Church of the Epiphany. Program of compositions by Guy Weitz, Harry Rowe Shelley, Garth Edmundson, Sebastian Bach, Maurice Durufle, Louis Vierne, Mary Howe and Henri Mulet.

When Charlotte Klein presides at a console in recital, she can always be relied upon for an interesting program, as was again evident last evening when she played in the Church of the Epiphany under the auspices of her colleagues in the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The range of her choice encompassed such standardized writers as Bach, Vierne and Mulet, the unfamiliar figures of Guy Weitz and Maurice Durufle, and three American composers: Harry Rowe Shelley, Garth Edmundson and Mary Howe. To the exposition of their music she applied her recognized technical address and interpretative finesse.

BROWN

Enjoyable for its musicianly qualities of performance, her recital began with a poetic symphony by Weitz in two movements: "Regina Pacis" and "Mater Dolorosa." This work is distinguished by fine harmonic writing and adroit registration. It was followed by Shelley's ingenious and brilliant "Fanfare d'Orgue," and Edmundson's delightful pastoral treatment of the twelfth-century chorale, "Fairest Lord Jesus." Bach was represented by the G minor fantasia and fugue played with skill, yet with a restraint that respected the ideas within the form.

Durufle's Opus 5, a three-movement suite, proved to be an intriguing work rich in artistic devices and in imaginative poesy. The prelude had a harmonic texture of shimmering delicacies, the sicilienne cleverly disguised its rhythmic regularity under pleasant melodic contours, and the toccata had an unusual quality of sedateness.

The samples of Vierne were the Debussyan "Arabesque" and the scherzo from the second symphony. Fitting to be in the company of these pieces was Mrs. Howe's unpublished "Elegy," which is a moving mediation excellently registered. The recital closed with Mulet's "Carillon-Sortie."

Chamber Music Guild presents its String Quartet (Frank Gittelson, Alexander Levin, Benjamin Sosner and Marcel Ancher) and Frances Nash Watson, pianist, on Tuesday night in the Cosmos Club assembly hall. Program: Quartet in D major (Chaikovski), Piano Quintet in F minor (Franck).

Overtaxing the capacity of the Cosmos Club assembly hall last evening, an attentive and enthusiastic audience bade farewell for the season to the Chamber Music Guild at the fourth concert of the spring series. Frank Gittelson and his associates in the string quartet, who have made some profitable excursions in American music and offered some rewarding compositions during the season, devoted the final program to Peter Chaikowski and Cesar Franck.

They gave a spirited and enlivening performance of Chaikowski's first quartet which enjoys perennial popularity largely because of the "Andante Cantabile." They were joined by Frances Nash Watson in a deeply satisfying disclosure of Franck's piano quintet, one of the masterpieces of the genre. Mrs. Watson imbued the piano part with spiritual power, and her reading was marked by profound feeling beneath her technical ease.

New Pictures at Four Theaters; Roadshow Films, Hits Continue

"THAT HAMILTON WOMAN." With Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier as the English beauty and her lover, Lord Hamilton, the celebrated screen couple costar in the new film opening at the Palace tomorrow morning. The story climaxes with Nelson's victory at Trafalgar and is activated by the gossip which haunts their association. Sara Allgood, the Abbey Theater star, heads the supporting cast as Emma Hamilton's mother, and Ronald Sinclair plays Nelson's young son. Alexander Korda produced the film in Hollywood.

Earle

"MILLION DOLLAR BABY." Priscilla Lane, Jeffrey Lynn and Ronald Reagan have the leads in this comedy of a department store clerk who inherits a million dollars when her boy friend is badly in need of it. May Robson, Lee Patrick, Helen Westley, George Barbier, Nan Wynn, John Qualen and Fay Helm head the supporting players. The Golden Gate Boys, popular Negro harmony quartet of the airwaves, headline the stage revue, which features Lynn, Royce and the Roxyettes. "Sing-a-Song-with-Mike" returns as an added attraction. Opens Friday morning.

Capitol

"POT O' GOLD." James Stewart, Paulette Goddard and Horace Heidt with his orchestra share the spotlight in the James Roosevelt musical film suggested by the popular radio program. Charles Winninger and Mary Gordon head the supporting company, in which Heidt, a recent headliner on the Capitol stage, turns actor for the first time. On the stage, Bert Frohman stars in a Gene Ford revue, "Knick-Knacks," with the Nonchalants, Carroll and Howe, Ann Pritchard, Johnny Mack and the Rhythm Rockets among the merrymakers. Opens tomorrow morning.

National

"FANTASIA." The much-discussed Walt Disney-Leopold Stokowski triumph continues into its second week on E Street. The film is unique in that it contains drawings in Technicolor by the Disney staff suggested by music from Bach to Stravinski as played by Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra. Showings are twice daily at 2:30 and 8:30 on a reserved-seat basic, with half-price for children under 16.

RKO-Keith's

"CITIZEN KANE." Orson Welles' first screen play continues for a second week on the Fifteenth Street screen. Telling a purely biographical story—that of one of the world's wealthiest publishers—the widely-cheered film was written, directed and stars the gifted Welles. Supporting roles are played by the Mercury Theater players. Unreserved seat showings at 2:30 and 5 p. m. Reserved seat performances evenings at 8:30.

Metropolitan

"THEY DARE NOT LOVE." An Austrian prince who finds refuge in America, but not peace, is the central character of this new film starring George Brent and Martha Scott. Brent plays the prince, while Miss Scott enacts a fellow-exile. Paul Lukas, Roman Bohnen, Egon Brecher, Edgar Barrier, Kay Linaker and Frank Reicher top the supporting players. Opens Friday morning.

Columbia

"ZIEGFELD GIRL." The M.-G.-M. musical film will continue for a fourth week on F Street. The story concerns three girls who find fame as Ziegfeld beauties. Hedy Lamarr, Judy Garland, Lana Turner, James Stewart, Tony Martin, Jackie Cooper, Charles Winninger and Edward Everett Horton are among the players.

Little

"THE GIRL IN THE NEWS." The British mystery yarn of a nurse whom circumstances involve in two murder cases continues for a third week. Margaret Lockwood and Barry K. Barnes are the leading players in the all-English cast. Carol Reed, director of "Night Train," also directed this non-espionage picture.

Trans-Lux

"ABROAD AT HOME." New York's scenic wonders of American, European and African architecture are the subject for a novel travelog produced by Harvard's Edmund Dorfman, leading short film for the newsreel theater's incoming week. "The Jungle Archer" is the sports short and "Western Daze" the cartoon. Opens Friday morning.

Glen Echo

THE SWIMMING POOL at the amusement park will open for the season Saturday morning at 2:30. Actually three separate pools, graded for children, expert swimmers and divers, the pool will be open every day from 9:30 a. m. until 11:30 p. m. Boyd Hickman will again be pool director, marking the eleventh successive year at the park for the one-time George Washington University football star. Special rates for service men in uniform.

Wilson Line

S. S. MOUNT VERNON has begun its summer season of cruises down the Potomac to Mount Vernon. Two round trips daily with 1½ hour stopover at the Washington mansion—sailing from the Seventh Street wharves at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Moonlight cruises nightly at 8:30, with dancing to McWilliams Orchestra.

Open-Air

"SUEZ" and "City of Conquest" form the double bill opening tomorrow evening for a three-night run. The former, a Technicolor historical film, stars Tyrone Power as Ferdinand de Lesseps. Current at the auto theater on the Richmond Highway are "Maryland," with John Payne, and "One Night in the Tropics," with Abbott and Costello.

Gayety

"FUNZAPOPPIN'." Pat Paree stars in the current revue which will close the Gayety's burlesque season at the Saturday midnight performance. Joan Mavis, Elsa Greenwell, Diane Johnson, Harry Clex, I. B. Hamp, Bob Taylor and Billy Crooks top the supporting performers.

GIRLS!!
13 to 25 YRS. OLD
WHO SUFFER PAIN, WEAKNESS, NERVOUSNESS
from Functional Monthly Disturbances

If you're approaching womanhood or in your early 20's and suffer pain of irregular periods, if at such times you get weak, blue, cranky, nervous, with an uncomfortable bloated feeling, dark circles under eyes—due to this cause—try famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pinkham's Compound is one of the MOST EFFECTIVE women's medicines made to relieve pain and distress of weak, nervous feelings due to functional periodic complaints. Beneficial for older women, too, for this purpose!

Listen America,

the worst is yet to come-unless...

LIKE every other patriotic citizen, you have worried about the wave of strikes that has swept the country.

You know how seriously they have disrupted the nation—that they have halted billions of dollars of defense work—that they have already affected, let's hope not fatally, the safety of the United States.

▶ But the worst is yet to come!

Over the head of every American hangs the threat to close down, not one factory or group of factories, but every factory and every industry throughout the land. The threat to deprive us of most of our heat, nearly all of our light, practically all of our railroads, subways, street cars and elevators.

Who has made this incredible threat? Who holds the titanic power to make that threat effective?

John L Lewis has publicly announced that unless the Southern Coal Operators agree to every syllable of his outrageous Mine Workers contract, he will strike every soft coal mine in the country. And this before the nation has recovered from the disastrous strike of April.

If he keeps his threat, this country, within 15 days, will be without coal. Industry will begin to shut down completely Railroads will begin to stop. Lights will begin to go out in our cities.

▶ All right, you say, why don't we sign the contract? Here's why:

By the very words of that contract, John L Lewis will become what so many believe he wants to be—dictator of this country A man potentially more powerful by far than the President of the United States. A man who holds in the palm of his hand the life or death of every industry, the success or failure of our entire defense program, the comfort or hardship of the bulk of our citizens.

▶ You think we exaggerate?

It's there in black and white, in the contract which we, under threat, are ordered to sign without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t". It's there in John L. Lewis' own sinister words. He demands of Southern Operators a 50% greater wage increase than the North will pay. But that—the so-called differential clause—is not, as the public has been mistakenly led to believe, either the sole reason or the chief reason why the Southern Operators have refused to sign this contract. John L. Lewis demands the power to call unlimited "memorial periods." He demands the right to change entire systems of mining. He demands that all the mines be shut off at one time, for a yearly vacation period, thereby completely stopping the flow of industry's life-blood, coal.

But that is far from all. By the very words of the contract, he would have the right to strike any and every mine at any time at his own will or pleasure. He would have the right to shut off any and every industry from its coal supply. He would have the right to deprive any and every city of light, heat and power.

▶ We have already agreed to almost every demand John L. Lewis has made.

We have long since given our 150,000 men a 7-hour day and a 5-day week.

We have given them the check-off for union dues and assessments, and a labor contract which Lewis himself hailed only two years ago as the model labor agreement of the world! We've offered, not only to renew this "model agreement," but to liberalize it.

As an industry, we have paid higher wages than those given any comparable group of workers in the nation.

At the request of the President of the United States, we are already paying a minimum basic wage increase of $1 a day—an increase that will almost certainly bankrupt many companies in an industry that lost $35,000,000 last year—that has lost money every year save one for the last 12 years.

But that's our worry, not yours.

▶ Your worry is this:

Shall we, by agreeing to John L. Lewis' demands, sign away the liberty of our country? Shall we place in the hands of any one ruthless, domineering man power to control the security of our nation? Shall we, with a stroke of the pen, place in jeopardy your well-being, your safety, perhaps your very life?

John L. Lewis is no fool. While America slept, he has craftily gained a death-grip on the one industry which affects the destinies of all others. Now he is apparently using that death-grip to shoot for the dictator's crown.

He called the strike in April. He threatens to call another if he doesn't get what he wants. We can't stop him. All we can do is what we have done—refuse to authorize by contract such dictatorial acts.

No, we can't stop him.

▶ The only person who can stop him is you!

You can. Your voice—the voice of the great American public—has kept this country a free country for 165 years. It can do so now.

Write your Governor. Write your Congressman. Write your Senators. Write the President of the United States. Write the Department of Labor. Write the National Defense Mediation Board. They'll listen to you. Send a letter. Or a telegram.

Tell these representatives of yours in your own words whether or not you want John L. Lewis to control the industry of this country, and through that power, to control the freedom and safety of every man, woman and child in the United States.

Here's what will happen in Washington if John L. Lewis strikes the coal mines!

Within a few weeks the city's lighting system will be imperiled.

Street car service will be sharply curtailed.

The supply of steam heat and hot water will be greatly reduced.

Newspapers and printing plants may have to close down.

Buildings may be without air-conditioning or elevator service.

Funds Held Crux of D. C. Play Problem

Lack of money is what is fundamentally wrong with the District's recreation program, Representative John F. Hunter (Democrat), of Ohio, declared yesterday as his District Parks and Recreation Subcommittee began hearings on a civic controversy that has raged intermittently here for more than a decade.

At the close of hearings on bills proposing changes in the management of play facilities in the Capital, Hunter declared it to be the intention of the subcommittee to write legislation that will set up a "definite recreation administration that can go before Congress with a request for funds for a comprehensive program."

"I believe the District pays approximately $130 per year per child for education," Hunter declared. "The Police Boys Club spends $17 per year for each boy. The playground organization spends $2 and a few cents each year for each child on the playgrounds.

"We know that children spend five hours a day in school and six or seven hours in recreation which should be governed, and you cannot operate recreation at a cost as low as $2 a child."

Two Get Hearing

Only two persons were heard at yesterday's session. One of these was Philip H. Marcum, an attorney who appeared, he said, for a "diversified group vitally interested in recreation." The other was Harry S. Wender, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who shouted in protest at Marcum's assertion that the District had a "splendid" recreation system before the Playground and Community Center Departments were coordinated in 1939.

"This is the first time I ever heard anyone say we have had a splendid recreation system," Wender declared. "There has been a great hue and cry on every hand about the inefficiency of the two organizations. There has been open antagonism. And he (Marcum) failed to mention the (National Capital) Park Office.

"If you think there wasn't friction you just haven't been in this city."

Marcum stated that there had been "friendly rivalry" between the Community Center and Playground Departments, but that he had been unable to find "evidence of jealousy."

Provisions Explained

Marcum explained provisions of a bill which would set up a department of recreation with a superintendent of recreation as the administrative head and with directors of community centers and playgrounds as assistants. A second bill before the committee would put all play facilities here under the supervision of a nine-member board representing the District Commissioners, the school board, the Park and Planning Commission and National Capital Parks and having five citizen members.

Since 1939, Marcum declared, playground activities have been reduced from 100 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent. Where formerly 90 public, year-around playgrounds were available, 26 are in operation today, he said. Recreation houses are without lights, and candles now have to be used, he stated. Because there are no caretakers, playground supervisors have to carry their own coal and clean the grounds, he added.

"Altogether too much has been said of dogma and ritual," Marcum said. "The salvation of Washington recreation has been wholly neglected.

"What we are after is the best recreation system obtainable. It makes no difference to me whether it is to be a three-member board, a nine-member board or 33 members. Put recreation in the District on a workable basis so that people may have what they have lost in the last few years."

Marcum questioned the advisability of citizen members on the proposed recreation board. He stated that "under the old system" play supervisors ironed out difficulties with civic organizations "on the spot" in the playground communities. Now, he said, residents are required to put complaints in writing and wait a year before they get an answer telling them that it will be necessary to "await a determination of basic questions."

Marcum proposed amendments to the recreation department bill for employment of colored assistants for playgrounds and community centers and providing for retention in the proposed department of all recreation employes on the rolls "as of January 1, 1939."

Milo Christiansen, acting coordinator of recreation, and Thomas Settle, executive secretary of the Park and Planning Commission, have been asked to appear at a second hearing Thursday at 10 a. m.

Jackson, VanNuys Will Address Judicial Parley

Attorney General Jackson and Senator Van Nuys (Democrat), of Indiana, will address the opening session Thursday of the District's annual judicial circuit conference.

The conference will be held at 10 a. m. in the hearing room of the United States Court of Appeals here. The court's chief justice, D. Lawrence Groner, who is Washington's senior judicial official, will preside.

A third speaker will be Will Shafroth, chief of the division of procedural studies and statistics of the administrative office of the United States courts.

Teams Picked to Seek Funds For Army Welfare Work

Ten teams which will try to send Washington over the top in the coming funds campaign sponsored by United Service Organizations for National Defense were announced yesterday.

At a Williard Hotel luncheon, addressed by Charles P. Taft, plans were furthered for the drive, scheduled to begin June 4, to establish welfare, religious and recreational quarters for service men and defense workers in cities adjacent to camps and industrial centers.

Taft, who is assistant coordinator for health, welfare and related defense activities in the Federal Security Administration, cited one area where a camp of 10,000 troops adjoins a town of only 2,000 population.

"The congestion that results is beyond belief," he declared.

Falangists Seize Papers, Movies, Radio in Spain

Copyright by New York Times

Madrid (Wednesday) May 21.—The Falange Party today took control of the newspapers, magazines, radio, moving pictures and all other types of propaganda in Nationalist Spain.

A decree approved by Gen. Franco early today set up within the party the vice secretariat of popular education which, it was stated, will take over all the duties hitherto exercised by the subsecretariat of press and propaganda in the ministry of government.

The latter post has been held by Antonio Tovar, an enthusiastic young Falangist who was dismissed this week at the request of the new minister of government, Valentin Galarza.

Veteran Wins Life Gamble On Operation

A Garfield Hospital room is too small to contain the joy of Claude Cammer, Winchester (Va.), businessman, who was left for dead on a French battlefield 23 years ago and who yesterday had the chance of long years before him after one of the most unusual surgical operations on record.

The story begins in the big Allied drive of July, 1918. An American machine-gun unit went over the top, and when its captain fell, First Lieut. Cammer took over the command.

A German machine-gun bullet struck Cammer, piercing his shoulder near the heart and severing a vein and artery. Believed killed, he lay for 36 hours before stretcher bearers came and carried him back to be deposited with the dead.

A nurse saw his hand move, and he was rushed to a hospital. There surgeons said the fact he had lain still for so long had saved his life by allowing a blood clot to form around the severed vein and artery. He was advised to live as quietly as possible and let time heal his injury.

Complications followed, however, and Cammer decided to stake his life on a surgical operation. Several physicians refused to take the risk.

In Washington he found one surgeon who said the artery and proximate vein could be separated and natural circulation restored. Last week the operation was performed. Cammer is now reported on the road to recovery.

His wife is staying near him at the hospital.

SUMMER PICTURE UNFOLDS. The Lounge Riviera's formal summer opening tonight is the first flash of a promising and lighthearted warm weather season in the night spots . . . Next week on May 29 the Starlight Roof atop the Roger Smith Hotel will make its annual debut with Dick Wilson's Orchestra providing glinting dance rhythm. Towering high over downtown Washington, the Starlight Roof is a truly lovely spot, will command the attention of scads of diversion seekers . . . The Shoreham Terrace will open sometime around Decoration Day. Surrounded by arbors of blooming rambler roses and tiny trees studded with blue lights, the Terrace looks like a Joseph Urban setting, is deservedly one of the world's famed dine-and-dance places. . . . Air conditioning will keep such notable spots as the Mayflower Lounge and the Madrillon right in the forefront of the summer picture. Dick Koons' orchestra will play all through the summer at the Mayflower. Ditto for the music of Carr and Don at the Madrillon.

It's a "sleeper,"—the new Jack Coffey floor show in the Metronome Room. The new "Truth or Consequences" skit evoked spasms of hilarity and every other number passed the audience test with flying colors. The show is the best of the Coffey output to date—and they've all been on the nifty side.

JERRY AND TURK, current fire bombs of the Paul Young revue, have an impressive Hollywood history. They appeared in the "Rose of Washington Square," Turk dancing with Alice Faye, also were booked into Victor Hugo's favorite gathering spot for cinema stars, where they met practically every big names in the movies. Little Jerry yanked such stars as Mickey Rooney, Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor and Melvyn Douglas out on Hugo's floor and put them through fast jitter-bug routines. She says Douglas was the nimblest of the flock.

LIGHTS OF LOTUS. A new marquee at the Lotus, all chromium and neon lights, is going to add to the effulgence of downtown Fourteenth Street. Work on it has been going on for a couple of weeks, but when completed it'll be very Broadwayish.

Kenny and Norris, miraculous stunt boys recently seen at the Capitol Theater, joined the Shoreham revue on Tuesday. They flew down from Quebec to make the date.

RITZY MEMORY. Arthur Marchisio, who greets you in the Pall Mall Room, was a lad breaking into the hotel business in London during the heyday of Cesar Ritz, recognized as the greatest of hotel men. He remembers that when Ritz had his final explosive break-up with his London associates, the indignant kitchen force threw their pots and pans into the adjoining Thames as a tribute to Cesar. The utensils were of copper, too, and cost plenty.

MANOR AND MIGNON, polished dance pair at the Shoreham

"THERE'S NO GYPSY MUSIC," says Michel, gypsy violinist of the Plymouth. He explains that all so-called gypsy music is either Hungarian or Russian music interpreted by gypsies, or purely imaginative gypsy music such as Bizet's.

SWEET ADELE. One of the most eye-taking and ear-tickling songstresses around here is Adele Van with Paul Kain's band at Glen Echo. Adele is a native Washington girl, born out in Bethesda. Besides being pretty as a box of candy, she designs all her own clothes, sings in church every Sunday. She graduated from St. Mary's Academy at 15, won a music scholarship to Nazareth College in Kentucky, studied concert work for five years, has sung at the Roger Smith Hotel, Lounge Riviera and Mayfair. She's sung in public since she was a tot, is only 19.

Jane Deering, beauteous young dancer at the Troika, will go direct to New York's Rainbow Room, after the Troika's closing jamboree next Saturday eve.

TUNE TOPPERS. "Muria Linda," glittery new Pan American number being done ever so effectively by Eileen George at the Anchor Room . . . "You're Dangerous," sizzler from the "Road to Zanzibar," being caroled with oomph by the Casino Royal's Bob Preble (we hope he's doing it. He was practicing it a couple of days ago) . . . "El Florero," wicked Mexican song that's exclusive with Lina D'Acosta at the Silver Fox. It'll curl your eyelashes . . . The extra dash of cuteness given "Goodbye, Now" when it's sung by Carmela Lazari in Hi Hat. Makes you realize that it's really a song for a soprano . . . And you'll fall in love all over again with "Ol' Man Mose" when you hear the old fellow resurrected by Joe Collins and his Mad Hatters in the Neptune Room. They really galvanize "Mose."

HITHER AND THITHER. Singer-Drummer Ralph Cannon, of the Rainbow Room, is in fine voice again after a temporary vocal layoff . . . Mayor Ciro, of Ciro's Famous Village, and Dick Ashby, of Dick's Grill, are both professional musicians who've graduated into restaurant ownership . . . Vicente de la Garza, singing guitarist of the King Cole Room, has composed several delightful songs with a Mexican tang.

SUBURBAN BEST BETS. River Bend. Between the superb chicken dinners and George Stein's raz-ma-taz rhythm, you'll have an evening both relaxing and enlivening. The drive to River Bend is beautiful and not too long, just follow the Mount Vernon Boulevard.

NIGHTINGALE. Rodd Raffell's dance orchestra, 14 men strong, offers music so unusual and bright that many musicians and visiting theater stars visit the 'Gale just to hear this up and coming crew. The Nightingale is just a few miles beyond Alexandria.

This Morning

With Skirley Povich

Our town has joined the Joe Louis bum-of-the-month circuit, but it is no ordinary franchise that has been conferred on Washington by Mike Jacobs. We have been designated for special sort of recognition, it seems. Louis fought Abe Simon in March in Detroit at $5 tops. In St. Louis, in April, it was Tony Musto at $10 tops. But nothing is too good for Washington, so we're getting Louis and Buddy Baer for $15 tops.

POVICH

Boy, that's sugar-coating the garbage. It requires, however, no great strain on the olfactory organ to detect the original odor of the package Jacobs is serving up as a title fight. Especially if you're downwind. Joe Louis will be taking his title into the ring, but he won't be exposing it too much.

Louis has punched out victories over 16 challengers, and Baer, even viewed from a head-stand, is simply No. 17 on Louis' hit parade. Buddy Boy qualified handsomely for this title fight with a stirring 1941 record of battling. Baer tore out of his corner against one Eddie Blunt last January and ran smack into a ten-round licking. He won his only other fight this year when, in Washington last month, Tony Galento decided to quit at the end of six rounds, an idea that Buddy Boy, himself, narrowly abandoned when Fat Tony fetched him a few solid licks on the chops in round one.

And so, Jacobs labeled a Louis-Baer bout a natural for Washington where the folks had recently paid $13,000 to watch a Billy Conn-Dan Hassett fandango. If Washington fans had that sort of money to spend for that sort of a fight, nothing was too good for Washington fans, even such a sterling battle as Louis vs. Baer for the heavyweight championship of the world at 15 rounds, or less.

Jacobs has had his men in Washington for three weeks whipping up the combat, and the stuff that has emanated from his agents at the respective camps of Baer and Louis has caught up with and overpowered the original odor of the match with a vile essence of its own. All of the old gags of title fight publicity have been reintroduced and embellished with a few fresh stunts that have been equally as insulting to the credulity of the customers.

In the time-honored tradition of promoters who have a challenger to build up, Jacobs' agents here have been busily occupied in besmirching the champion. In well-feigned horror they were the first to scream that Louis had been dumped on his royal haunches by Joe Corilli, an obscure sparring partner, with a left-hand punch to the chin that was none too potent. Sparring partners have been knocking champions down for years in every well-run fight camp, but somehow no sparring partner ever knocks down a challenger.

To Louis' credit, he hasn't lent himself to any of the cheap ballyhoo, and has been refusing to play the game of Jacobs' press agents. To the genuine horror of the camp's publicity men, Louis dismissed the knock-down as a slip on the wet surface of the ring and said he wasn't hurt. It hasn't pleased the press agents, either, when Louis says he doesn't figure on the fight lasting too long.

There has been guff about Baer spies in the Louis camp, and it has been hinted broadly that Baer himself, disguised in overalls and a clean shirt, has been peeking in on Louis' workouts. Of course, the 240-pound, six-foot-six-inch Baer is as unobstrusive as a fire truck, and he'd never be noticed if he tried to inch into Riverside Arena casual like.

Latest stunt from Olney is that they're feeding Buddy Boy a pound of raw meat for lunch every day on the theory that it will whip up a primitive urge in the fellow who has been exceedingly dove-like in most of his fights. That's an old gag that isn't at all meaty, just raw.

Until there were orders from the higher-ups to shush-shush another gag, Buddy Boy's people were making much of the vengeance that is supposed to beat in his heart against Louis, who knocked out his brother Maxie in four rounds. Somebody suddenly decided, with great logic, not to bear down too hard on the Brother Maxie angle and that the farther Max was kept from the picture perhaps the better.

Buddy's mother, to hear his press agents tell it, persuaded him to be a fighter and made him quit playing football. He'd have only one man to lick in the prize ring, not 11, she pointed out. But somebody seems to have made a bad match for him.

Preview of Joe Louis' Title Fights:

Abe Simon Fails in 'Comeback' Attempt Against Brown Bomber

Joe Louis Stops Bulky, Muscle-Bound Foe In Third Round; Referee Donovan Halts Bout

By Bob Considine.

New York, May 20.—With the scalps of Buddy Baer and Billy Conn in his possession, Joe Louis will go into battle for the second time this year against great, muscle-bound Abe Simon. This will come about some time late in July, probably in the Yankee Stadium, in New York. They fought last March in Detroit and Simon stunned the populace by going 13 rounds with the champion, when he was only scheduled to go two.

Immediately after that fight, Louis got on the radio and said, "Abe Simon sure fought fine. He deserves another chance." Joe had knocked big Abe to the floor four times in the fight. He had hit him with everything. So hard and so often, in fact, that Joe's ring finger on his right hand had buckled—the first real hand injury he ever suffered.

Now, as we stare into three crystal balls, searching for our hocked watch, we see the return match. Big Abe, his own injured hand completely well, is in shape—the shape of a full sack of flour. He has been trained faithfully by the astute James Joy Johnston, who is noted for his ability to make his fighters look good against Louis. Jack Johnson, who has never liked Louis, has assisted Simon once again. Old Jack had talked a lot, too, when Johnston wasn't talking, and as a result nearly 25,000 spectators have shown up for the fight and deposited $200,000 at the box-office—a fine showing for a challenger who was originally scheduled as a bum-of-the-month.

ROUND ONE

ROUND TWO

Louis, full of cold mahem, for he knows he has looked bad against Simon for too long, carefully pursues big Abe across the ring. He takes three, four, five jabs on his thick, arched mouth, then slips the next jab and floors Simon with a thunderous crash by dint of a murderous left hook and right cross to Abe's jaw. Full of heart, Abe gets up and fights back. But Louis takes what he's got. He goes to work on Abe, hitting him five times, and with slashing accuracy, to every soggy punch ponderous Abe gets in. He wastes no punches this time, as he did in the first fight. He makes each one count on the vast target before him. Simon barely weathers the round, and carries heavy wounds back to his corner with him.

ROUND THREE

Simon makes a plucky effort to come out bouncing, but his timing has suffered under the heavy punishment of the second round, and Joe soon has all his wounds open again with his trip-hammer left jab and savage hooks. Simon can do nothing right; Louis nothing wrong. The great razing job continues scientifically. First Louis sets him up with his wondrous jab and elegant feinting. Then the clean, shocking punch to the spot where it will hurt the most. Then the heavy staggering, the desperate struggle for balance and he ring-shaking crashes. Arthur Donovan steps in after a time and leads away the protesting bulk of the beaten man.

Bob Feller Faces Chase Today

Bob Feller will start a game in Griffith Stadium today for the first time since 1939. The league-leading Indians move into the Stadium for a two-game series with the Nats.

Feller's pitching turn for the Indians never occurred throughout last season when the Indians were playing in Washington, but Manager Roger Peckinpaugh announced yesterday that his fireball hero would work today's game.

The appearance of Feller is the signal for Ken Chase to return to a starting role for the Nats after being demoted to relief pitching last week. Manager Bucky Harris cites Chase's traditional effectiveness against the Indians. Two weeks ago, Chase lost a 2-1 game to Feller in Cleveland.

6,000 See Dutch Fail To Finish 2d Straight Start; Former Nats In on Every Run

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

Using the same three-day-old formula featuring the lusty swatting of Joe Kuhel and Taft Wright, the White Sox yesterday mopped up the three-game series with the Nats. Returning again to the scene of their crimes this week against Washington pitching, the two one-time Nats slugged the White Sox to a 5-2 victory.

Kuhel and Wright were mixed up in every run scored by the White Sox. The runs they didn't carry across the plate personally, they drove home, and this morning the second-place White Sox are only two games removed from the league-leading Indians who have dropped three straight games to the A's.

It was another case of a White Sox pitcher holding the Nats tight in the grip of some potent pitching while Kuhel and Wright banged the runs around. Left-handed Thornton Lee was the pitcher in this case and the last the Nats saw of him, he was shutting them out in the final eight innings. He was putting together a six-hit performance.

6,000 Ladies' Day Fans

The 6,000 Ladies' Day fans saw Dutch Leonard fail to finish a second consecutive start. Because he was pitching runs back to the White Sox faster than the Nats could score some for themselves, Leonard was retired by Manager Bucky Harris at the end of five innings. By that time he had given up all of Chicago's five runs and eight of their eleven hits.

Alex Carrasquel and Arnold Anderson turned in four innings of scoreless relief pitching after Leonard vanished, but it was in a hopeless cause. Lee was out there blanking the Nats and only three of his pitches were hit out of the infield in the last four innings.

Jimmy Bloodworth averted the ignomy of a shutout for the Nats when he swatted a two-run single with the bases full in the first inning. That ended the Nats' run production. Roger Cramer and George Archie each collected a pair of the Nats' six hits, but the latter's was sort of nullified when he hit into two double plays.

Doubles Fly Fast

The Champ Looks Like He's in a 'Transom' . . . but Mike's Happy

Macks Defeat Indians Again, 6-5, for Sweep

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, May 20.—The Athletics mauled the league-leading Cleveland Indians again today to sweep a three-game series, 6 to 5, as Rookie Pitcher Tom Ferrick starred once more in a relief role.

Ferrick, who gave the Indians only four hits in four and two-thirds innings after he replaced Johnny Babich in Sunday's game, succeeded Nelson Potter in the eighth after Potter had walked the first two men to face him. Ferrick ended the game in prompt fashion, not permitting a man to reach first base in the two innings he pitched.

The victory, however, went to Bump Hadley, his second since joining the A's recently. Hadley went into the seventh with a 6-to-2 lead, but was knocked out before retiring a man. Jeff Heath led off with a homer. Walker and Ray Mack followed with singles, and Luman Harris replaced Hadley. Walker later scored on Campbell's grounder and Mack came home on Lou Boudreau's single. Potter started the eighth, but lacked control, and gave way to Ferrick.

Mel Harder Routed

Mel Harder, trying for his fifth straight victory, was knocked out in the third and suffered his first defeat. With one down in the third Pete Suder and Hadley singled. Al Brancato singled Suder home. Wally Moses walked, then Benny McCoy drove in Hadley and Brancato with a single. Bob Johnson walked to again load the sacks, but Dick Siebert hit into a double play, one of eight made during the game.

The Indians got two runs in the fourth on a two-bagger by Roy Weatherly, Ken Keltner's single,

By Al Hailey

The New York fight mob began its mop-up action in Washington yesterday as Mike Jacobs & Co. moved in to take a look at Joe Louis and Buddy Baer in their final workouts today and to take personal charge of the ticket situation—one which is expected to be a $150,000 situation by ringtime at Griffith Stadium Friday night.

Louis and Baer will call a halt to heavy work this afternoon, the champion finishing off at 3 p. m. at Riverside Stadium and Baer beginning his windup a half-hour earlier at Olney, Md.

Jacobs, oblivious of a storm of protest from local boxing figures that he is discriminating against District officials, watched Louis work in the stuffy humidity of Riverside yesterday and was in high spirits over prospects of a $150,000 gate.

Silent on Referee Selection

The New York promoter had nothing to say in reference to reaction to the District Boxing Commission's appointment of Arthur Donovan as referee for the 15-round title match.

One prominent District fight figure charged that the local boxing commission is playing stooge to Jacobs.

"Our local officials are as well qualified as anyone to handle this fight," he said. "They work hard for peanuts and when along comes a big fight where they can make a little money they get a raw deal. It's not this fact that rankles so much, but it looks to me as if Jacobs is making the commission jump through hoops."

Louis, meanwhile, did a noble job of slapping his sparring partners

Nats Sign Guerra, Cuban Catcher, From Springfield

Mike Guerra, Cuban catcher who has been one of the leading hitters of the Springfield, Mass., team in the Eastern League, has been bought by the Nats.

Guerra will join the Nats tomorrow, the Associated Press reported. Springfield, formerly a Washington farm team, now has a working agreement with the Nats.

The acquisition of Guerra rounds out a catching staff depleted by the trade that sent Rick Ferrell to St. Louis in the deal for Vernon Kennedy. Guerra has been playing with teams in the Washington farm system for a half dozen years.

Dodger Manager Back at Shortstop

Chicago, May 20 (AP)—Prompted by the four-game losing streak of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Manager Leo Durocher announced tonight that he would bench Peewee Reese and play shortstop himself tomorrow when his club opens a vital two-game series in St. Louis.

Reese has been in a batting slump since the Dodgers invaded the West.

Christoforidis Confident of Kayo Victory

By International News Service

New York, May 20.—Anton Christoforidis polished off his training today in a midtown gymnasium, then proclaimed his confidence that he will blast Gus Lesnevich into a delicate state of delirium some time Thursday night between the first and fifteenth rounds of their light heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden.

This, in itself, seemed to be a brash statement, but it hardly tells the story of Anton's far-flung campaign to become one of the few guys in pugilistic history to risk life and limb for an undisputed world's title. In this lies the tale of the black-haired, dark complexioned youth who looks like one of the classic illustrations in our old Greek grammar come to life.

Christoforidis is a native of Greece. He started fighting in Paris. He found his fists an easy livelihood for a 17-year-old lad who had been orphaned in the Symrna disaster and made a world wanderer. His first fights were fought in a small Paris club called the Bucket of Blood.

Promoter Jeff Dickson, the Natchez, Miss., citizen who became the Michael Strauss Jacobs of French pugilism, picked Anton off the streets and matched him in the famed Palais de Sportes in Paris.

Double Crown Winner Scores by Two-and-A-Half Lengths; Mioland Is Second

By Bob Considine

New York, May 20.—Whirlaway went out to play with the older boys today at Belmont, and came home with all their marbles. The beautiful long-tailed 3-year-old winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness soundly whipped 4-year-old Mioland and 5-year-old Hash, both prominent stakes winners, to win the Henry of Navarre gallop of 1 1-16 miles.

Off fourth, well behind the pace-setting Mioland, Warren Wright's champion, piloted by Jockey Wendell Eads, hugged the rail and ate dust until the small but select field went into the course's single turn.

"Whirly" Turns on Speed

Then Whirlaway began to pour it on, as only he can. He fairly soared past Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance to pull up to third. Then, still hugging the rail, he fairly catapulted past Hash and Mioland as they straightened out for home. He bore out rather seriously once he was headed for home. But he had so much speed in his winged hooves that neither the Greentree's Hash—piloted by Whirly's old jockey, Eddie Arcaro—or Charles S. Howard's Mioland, with Lloyd Haas up, could take advantage.

Whirlaway whipped these older and more seasoned colts and horses by 2½ lengths, and to the delight of the crowd of 16,264, which had made him favorite, paid $3.50, $2.70 and $2.30. Mioland paid $. to place and $2.40 to show. Hash returned $2.80 to show. Your Chance was fourth and Ringle last.

This was Whirlaway's first sortie against older horses, but he dominated them with his great stretch running as much as he dominated his 3-year-old contemporaries in the recent classics at Churchill Downs and Pimlico.

Just a Tuneup

He was dropped in the $2,500 Henry of Navarre unexpectedly yesterday by Trainer Ben (One Blinker) Jones, who wanted to keep him in tune for the $50,000 Belmont Stakes on June 7, when Whirly will try to become one of the five horses in history to win the triple crown—the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

On a weight-for-age basis, Whirlaway ran today under 10 pounds, to Mioland's 127, Hash's 120, Your

Lack of money is what is fundamentally wrong with the District's recreation program, Representative John F. Hunter (Democrat), of Ohio, declared yesterday as his District Parks and Recreation Subcommittee began hearings on a civic controversy that has raged intermittently here for more than a decade.

At the close of hearings on bills proposing changes in the management of play facilities in the Capital, Hunter declared it to be the intention of the subcommittee to write legislation that will set up a "definite recreation administration that can go before Congress with a request for funds for a comprehensive program."

"I believe the District pays approximately $130 per year per child for education," Hunter declared. "The Police Boys Club spends $17 per year for each boy. The playground organization spends $2 and a few cents each year for each child on the playgrounds.

"We know that children spend five hours a day in school and six or seven hours in recreation which should be governed, and you cannot operate recreation at a cost as low as $2 a child."

Two Get Hearing

Only two persons were heard at yesterday's session. One of these was Philip H. Marcum, an attorney who appeared, he said, for a "diversified group vitally interested in recreation." The other was Harry S. Wender, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who shouted in protest at Marcum's assertion that the District had a "splendid" recreation system before the Playground and Community Center Departments were coordinated in 1939.

"This is the first time I ever heard anyone say we have had a splendid recreation system," Wender declared. "There has been a great hue and cry on every hand about the inefficiency of the two organizations. There has been open antagonism. And he (Marcum) failed to mention the (National Capital) Park Office.

"If you think there wasn't friction you just haven't been in this city."

Marcum stated that there had been "friendly rivalry" between the Community Center and Playground Departments, but that he had been unable to find "evidence of jealousy."

Provisions Explained

Marcum explained provisions of a bill which would set up a department of recreation with a superintendent of recreation as the administrative head and with directors of community centers and playgrounds as assistants. A second bill before the committee would put all play facilities here under the supervision of a nine-member board representing the District Commissioners, the school board, the Park and Planning Commission and National Capital Parks and having five citizen members.

Since 1939, Marcum declared, playground activities have been reduced from 100 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent. Where formerly 90 public, year-around playgrounds were available, 26 are in operation today, he said. Recreation houses are without lights, and candles now have to be used, he stated. Because there are no caretakers, playground supervisors have to carry their own coal and clean the grounds, he added.

"Altogether too much has been said of dogma and ritual," Marcum said. "The salvation of Washington recreation has been wholly neglected.

"What we are after is the best recreation system obtainable. It makes no difference to me whether it is to be a three-member board, a nine-member board or 33 members. Put recreation in the District on a workable basis so that people may have what they have lost in the last few years."

Marcum questioned the advisability of citizen members on the proposed recreation board. He stated that "under the old system" play supervisors ironed out difficulties with civic organizations "on the spot" in the playground communities. Now, he said, residents are required to put complaints in writing and wait a year before they get an answer telling them that it will be necessary to "await a determination of basic questions."

Marcum proposed amendments to the recreation department bill for employment of colored assistants for playgrounds and community centers and providing for retention in the proposed department of all recreation employes on the rolls "as of January 1, 1939."

Milo Christiansen, acting coordinator of recreation, and Thomas Settle, executive secretary of the Park and Planning Commission, have been asked to appear at a second hearing Thursday at 10 a. m.

Jackson, VanNuys Will Address Judicial Parley

Attorney General Jackson and Senator Van Nuys (Democrat), of Indiana, will address the opening session Thursday of the District's annual judicial circuit conference.

The conference will be held at 10 a. m. in the hearing room of the United States Court of Appeals here. The court's chief justice, D. Lawrence Groner, who is Washington's senior judicial official, will preside.

A third speaker will be Will Shafroth, chief of the division of procedural studies and statistics of the administrative office of the United States courts.

Teams Picked to Seek Funds For Army Welfare Work

Ten teams which will try to send Washington over the top in the coming funds campaign sponsored by United Service Organizations for National Defense were announced yesterday.

At a Williard Hotel luncheon, addressed by Charles P. Taft, plans were furthered for the drive, scheduled to begin June 4, to establish welfare, religious and recreational quarters for service men and defense workers in cities adjacent to camps and industrial centers.

Taft, who is assistant coordinator for health, welfare and related defense activities in the Federal Security Administration, cited one area where a camp of 10,000 troops adjoins a town of only 2,000 population.

"The congestion that results is beyond belief," he declared.

Following are the ten team rosters:

Falangists Seize Papers, Movies, Radio in Spain

Madrid (Wednesday) May 21.—The Falange Party today took control of the newspapers, magazines, radio, moving pictures and all other types of propaganda in Nationalist Spain.

A decree approved by Gen. Franco early today set up within the party the vice secretariat of popular education which, it was stated, will take over all the duties hitherto exercised by the subsecretariat of press and propaganda in the ministry of government.

The latter post has been held by Antonio Tovar, an enthusiastic young Falangist who was dismissed this week at the request of the new minister of government, Valentin Galarza.

Veteran Wins Life Gamble On Operation

A Garfield Hospital room is too small to contain the joy of Claude Cammer, Winchester (Va.), businessman, who was left for dead on a French battlefield 23 years ago and who yesterday had the chance of long years before him after one of the most unusual surgical operations on record.

The story begins in the big Allied drive of July, 1918. An American machine-gun unit went over the top, and when its captain fell, First Lieut. Cammer took over the command.

A German machine-gun bullet struck Cammer, piercing his shoulder near the heart and severing a vein and artery. Believed killed, he lay for 36 hours before stretcher bearers came and carried him back to be deposited with the dead.

A nurse saw his hand move, and he was rushed to a hospital. There surgeons said the fact he had lain still for so long had saved his life by allowing a blood clot to form around the severed vein and artery. He was advised to live as quietly as possible and let time heal his injury.

Complications followed, however, and Cammer decided to stake his life on a surgical operation. Several physicians refused to take the risk.

In Washington he found one surgeon who said the artery and proximate vein could be separated and natural circulation restored. Last week the operation was performed. Cammer is now reported on the road to recovery.

His wife is staying near him at the hospital.

SUMMER PICTURE UNFOLDS. The Lounge Riviera's formal summer opening tonight is the first flash of a promising and lighthearted warm weather season in the night spots . . . Next week on May 29 the Starlight Roof atop the Roger Smith Hotel will make its annual debut with Dick Wilson's Orchestra providing glinting dance rhythm. Towering high over downtown Washington, the Starlight Roof is a truly lovely spot, will command the attention of scads of diversion seekers . . . The Shoreham Terrace will open sometime around Decoration Day. Surrounded by arbors of blooming rambler roses and tiny trees studded with blue lights, the Terrace looks like a Joseph Urban setting, is deservedly one of the world's famed dine-and-dance places. . . . Air conditioning will keep such notable spots as the Mayflower Lounge and the Madrillon right in the forefront of the summer picture. Dick Koons' orchestra will play all through the summer at the Mayflower. Ditto for the music of Carr and Don at the Madrillon.

It's a "sleeper,"—the new Jack Coffey floor show in the Metronome Room. The new "Truth or Consequences" skit evoked spasms of hilarity and every other number passed the audience test with flying colors. The show is the best of the Coffey oupiput to date—and they've all been on the nifty side.

JERRY AND TURK, current fire bombs of the Paul Young revue, have an impressive Hollywood history. They appeared in the "Rose of Washington Square," Turk dancing with Alice Faye, also were booked into Victor Hugo's favorite gathering spot for cinema stars, where they met practically every big names in the movies. Little Jerry yanked such stars as Mickey Rooney, Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor and Melvyn Douglas out on Hugo's floor and put them through fast jitter-bug routines. She says Douglas was the nimblest of the flock.

LIGHTS OF LOTUS. A new marquee at the Lotus, all chromium and neon lights, is going to add to the effulgence of downtown Fourteenth Street. Work on it has been going on for a couple of weeks, but when completed it'll be very Broadwayish.

Kenny and Norris, miraculous stunt boys recently seen at the Capitol Theater, joined the Shoreham revue on Tuesday. They flew down from Quebec to make the date.

RITZY MEMORY. Arthur Marchisio, who greets you in the Pall Mall Room, was a lad breaking into the hotel business in London during the heyday of Cesar Ritz, recognized as the greatest of hotel men. He remembers that when Ritz had his final explosive break-up with his London associates, the indignant kitchen force threw their pots and pans into the adjoining Thames as a tribute to Cesar. The utensils were of copper, too, and cost plenty.

"THERE'S NO GYPSY MUSIC," says Michel, gypsy violinist of the Plymouth. He explains that all so-called gypsy music is either Hungarian or Russian music interpreted by gypsies, or purely imaginative gypsy music such as Bizet's.

SWEET ADELE. One of the most eye-taking and ear-tickling songstresses around here is Adele Van with Paul Kain's band at Glen Echo. Adele is a native Washington girl, born out in Bethesda. Besides being pretty as a box of candy, she designs all her own clothes, sings in church every Sunday. She graduated from St. Mary's Academy at 15, won a music scholarship to Nazareth College in Kentucky, studied concert work for five years, has sung at the Roger Smith Hotel, Lounge Riviera and Mayfair. She's sung in public since she was a tot, is only 19.

Jane Deering, beauteous young dancer at the Troika, will go direct to New York's Rainbow Room, after the Troika's closing jamboree next Saturday eve.

TUNE TOPPERS. "Muria Linda," glittery new Pan American number being done ever so effectively by Eileen George at the Anchor Room . . . "You're Dangerous," sizzler from the "Road to Zanzibar," being caroled with oomph by the Casino Royal's Bob Preble (we hope he's doing it. He was practicing it a couple of days ago) . . . "El Florero," wicked Mexican song that's exclusive with Lina D'Acosta at the Silver Fox. It'll curl your eyelashes . . . The extra dash of cuteness given "Goodbye, Now" when it's sung by Carmela Lazari in Hi Hat. Makes you realize that it's really a song for a soprano . . . And you'll fall in love all over again with "Ol' Man Mose" when you hear the old fellow resurrected by Joe Collins and his Mad Hatters in the Neptune Room. They really galvanize "Mose."

HITHER AND THITHER. Singer-Drummer Ralph Cannon, of the Rainbow Room, is in fine voice again after a temporary vocal layoff . . . Mayor Ciro, of Ciro's Famous Village, and Dick Ashby, of Dick's Grill, are both professional musicians who've graduated into restaurant ownership . . . Vicente de la Garza, singing guitarist of the King Cole Room, has composed several delightful songs with a Mexican tang.

SUBURBAN BEST BETS. River Bend. Between the superb chicken dinners and George Stein's raz-ma-taz rhythm, you'll have an evening both relaxing and enlivening. The drive to River Bend is beautiful and not too long, just follow the Mount Vernon Boulevard.

NIGHTINGALE. Rodd Raffell's dance orchestra, 14 men strong, offers music so unusual and bright that many musicians and visiting theater stars visit the 'Gale just to hear this up and coming crew. The Nightingale is just a few miles beyond Alexandria.

With Skirley Povich

Our town has joined the Joe Louis bum-of-the-month circuit, but it is no ordinary franchise that has been conferred on Washington by Mike Jacobs. We have been designated for special sort of recognition, it seems. Louis fought Abe Simon in March in Detroit at $5 tops. In St. Louis, in April, it was Tony Musto at $10 tops. But nothing is too good for Washington, so we're getting Louis and Buddy Baer for $15 tops.

POVICH

Boy, that's sugar-coating the garbage. It requires, however, no great strain on the olfactory organ to detect the original odor of the package Jacobs is serving up as a title fight. Especially if you're downwind. Joe Louis will be taking his title into the ring, but he won't be exposing it too much.

Louis has punched out victories over 16 challengers, and Baer, even viewed from a head-stand, is simply No. 17 on Louis' hit parade. Buddy Boy qualified handsomely for this title fight with a stirring 1941 record of battling. Baer tore out of his corner against one Eddie Blunt last January and ran smack into a ten-round licking. He won his only other fight this year when, in Washington last month, Tony Galento decided to quit at the end of six rounds, an idea that Buddy Boy, himself, narrowly abandoned when Fat Tony fetched him a few solid licks on the chops in round one.

And so, Jacobs labeled a Louis-Baer bout a natural for Washington where the folks had recently paid $13,000 to watch a Billy Conn-Dan Hassett fandango. If Washington fans had that sort of money to spend for that sort of a fight, nothing was too good for Washington fans, even such a sterling battle as Louis vs. Baer for the heavyweight championship of the world at 15 rounds, or less.

Jacobs has had his men in Washington for three weeks whipping up the combat, and the stuff that has emanated from his agents at the respective camps of Baer and Louis has caught up with and overpowered the original odor of the match with a vile essence of its own. All of the old gags of title fight publicity have been reintroduced and embellished with a few fresh stunts that have been equally as insulting to the credulity of the customers.

In the time-honored tradition of promoters who have a challenger to build up, Jacobs' agents here have been busily occupied in besmirching the champion. In well-feigned horror they were the first to scream that Louis had been dumped on his royal haunches by Joe Corilli, an obscure sparring partner, with a left-hand punch to the chin that was none too potent. Sparring partners have been knocking champions down for years in every well-run fight camp, but somehow no sparring partner ever knocks down a challenger.

To Louis' credit, he hasn't lent himself to any of the cheap ballyhoo, and has been refusing to play the game of Jacobs' press agents. To the genuine horror of the camp's publicity men, Louis dismissed the knock-down as a slip on the wet surface of the ring and said he wasn't hurt. It hasn't pleased the press agents, either, when Louis says he doesn't figure on the fight lasting too long.

There has been guff about Baer spies in the Louis camp, and it has been hinted broadly that Baer himself, disguised in overalls and a clean shirt, has been peeking in on Louis' workouts. Of course, the 240-pound, six-foot-six-inch Baer is as unobstrusive as a fire truck, and he'd never be noticed if he tried to inch into Riverside Arena casual like.

Latest stunt from Olney is that they're feeding Buddy Boy a pound of raw meat for lunch every day on the theory that it will whip up a primitive urge in the fellow who has been exceedingly dove-like in most of his fights. That's an old gag that isn't at all meaty, just raw.

Until there were orders from the higher-ups to shush-shush another gag, Buddy Boy's people were making much of the vengeance that is supposed to beat in his heart against Louis, who knocked out his brother Maxie in four rounds. Somebody suddenly decided, with great logic, not to bear down too hard on the Brother Maxie angle and that the farther Max was kept from the picture perhaps the better.

Buddy's mother, to hear his press agents tell it, persuaded him to be a fighter and made him quit playing football. He'd have only one man to lick in the prize ring, not 11, she pointed out. But somebody seems to have made a bad match for him.

Preview of Joe Louis' Title Fights:

Abe Simon Fails in 'Comeback' Attempt Against Brown Bomber

Joe Louis Stops Bulky, Muscle-Bound Foe In Third Round; Referee Donovan Halts Bout

By Bob Considine.

New York, May 20.—With the scalps of Buddy Baer and Billy Conn in his possession, Joe Louis will go into battle for the second time this year against great, muscle-bound Abe Simon. This will come about some time late in July, probably in the Yankee Stadium, in New York. They fought last March in Detroit and Simon stunned the populace by going 13 rounds with the champion, when he was only scheduled to go two.

Immediately after that fight, Louis got on the radio and said, "Abe Simon sure fought fine. He deserves another chance." Joe had knocked big Abe to the floor four times in the fight. He had hit him with everything. So hard and so often, in fact, that Joe's ring finger on his right hand had buckled—the first real hand injury he ever suffered.

Now, as we stare into three crystal balls, searching for our hocked watch, we see the return match. Big Abe, his own injured hand completely well, is in shape—the shape of a full sack of flour. He has been trained faithfully by the astute James Joy Johnston, who is noted for his ability to make his fighters look good against Louis. Jack Johnson, who has never liked Louis, has assisted Simon once again. Old Jack had talked a lot, too, when Johnston wasn't talking, and as a result nearly 25,000 spectators have shown up for the fight and deposited $200,000 at the box-office—a fine showing for a challenger who was originally scheduled as a bum-of-the-month.

ROUND ONE

ROUND TWO

Louis, full of cold mahem, for he knows he has looked bad against Simon for too long, carefully pursues big Abe across the ring. He takes three, four, five jabs on his thick, arched mouth, then slips the next jab and floors Simon with a thunderous crash by dint of a murderous left hook and right cross to Abe's jaw. Full of heart, Abe gets up and fights back. But Louis takes what he's got. He goes to work on Abe, hitting him five times, and with slashing accuracy, to every soggy punch ponderous Abe gets in. He wastes no punches this time, as he did in the first fight. He makes each one count on the vast target before him. Simon barely weathers the round, and carries heavy wounds back to his corner with him.

ROUND THREE

Simon makes a plucky effort to come out bouncing, but his timing has suffered under the heavy punishment of the second round, and Joe soon has all his wounds open again with his trip-hammer left jab and savage hooks. Simon can do nothing right; Louis nothing wrong. The great razing job continues scientifically. First Louis sets him up with his wondrous jab and elegant feinting. Then the clean, shocking punch to the spot where it will hurt the most. Then the heavy staggering, the desperate struggle for balance and he ring-shaking crashes. Arthur Donovan steps in after a time and leads away the protesting bulk of the beaten man.

Louis hardly takes a deep breath.

Bob Feller Faces Chase Today

Bob Feller will start a game in Griffith Stadium today for the first time since 1939. The league-leading Indiana move into the Stadium for a two-game series with the Nats.

Feller's pitching turn for the Indians never occurred throughout last season when the Indians were playing in Washington, but Manager Roger Peckinpaugh announced yesterday that his fireball hero would work today's game.

The appearance of Feller is the signal for Ken Chase to return to a starting role for the Nats after being demoted to relief pitching last week. Manager Bucky Harris cites Chase's traditional effectiveness against the Indians. Two weeks ago, Chase lost a 2-1 game to Feller in Cleveland.

6,000 See Dutch Fail To Finish 2d Straight Start; Former Nats In on Every Run

By Shirley Povich

Post Staff Writer

Using the same three-day-old formula featuring the lusty swatting of Joe Kuhel and Taft Wright, the White Sox yesterday mopped up the three-game series with the Nats. Returning again to the scene of their crimes this week against Washington pitching, the two one-time Nats slugged the White Sox to a 5-2 victory.

Kuhel and Wright were mixed up in every run scored by the White Sox. The runs they didn't carry across the plate personally, they drove home, and this morning the second-place White Sox are only two games removed from the league-leading Indians who have dropped three straight games to the A's.

It was another case of a White Sox pitcher holding the Nats tight in the grip of some potent pitching while Kuhel and Wright banged the runs around. Left-handed Thornton Lee was the pitcher in this case and the last the Nats saw of him, he was shutting them out in the final eight innings. He was putting together a six-hit performance.

6,000 Ladies' Day Fans

The 6,000 Ladies' Day fans saw Dutch Leonard fail to finish a second consecutive start. Because he was pitching runs back to the White Sox faster than the Nats could score some for themselves, Leonard was retired by Manager Bucky Harris at the end of five innings. By that time he had given up all of Chicago's five runs and eight of their eleven hits.

Alex Carrasquel and Arnold Anderson turned in four innings of scoreless relief pitching after Leonard vanished, but it was in a hopeless cause. Lee was out there blanking the Nats and only three of his pitches were hit out of the infield in the last four innings.

Jimmy Bloodworth averted the ignomy of a shutout for the Nats when he swatted a two-run single with the bases full in the first inning. That ended the Nats' run production. Roger Cramer and George Archie each collected a pair of the Nats' six hits, but the latter's was sort of nullified when he hit into two double plays.

Doubles Fly Fast

Macks Defeat Indians Again, 6-5, for Sweep

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, May 20.—The Athletics mauled the league-leading Cleveland Indians again today to sweep a three-game series, 6 to 5, as Rookie Pitcher Tom Ferrick starred once more in a relief role.

Ferrick, who gave the Indians only four hits in four and two-thirds innings after he replaced Johnny Babich in Sunday's game, succeeded Nelson Potter in the eighth after Potter had walked the first two men to face him. Ferrick ended the game in prompt fashion, not permitting a man to reach first base in the two innings he pitched.

The victory, however, went to Bump Hadley, his second since joining the A's recently. Hadley went into the seventh with a 6-to-2 lead, but was knocked out before retiring a man. Jeff Heath led off with a homer. Walker and Ray Mack followed with singles, and Luman Harris replaced Hadley. Walker later scored on Campbell's grounder and Mack came home on Lou Boudreau's single. Potter started the eighth, but lacked control, and gave way to Ferrick.

Mel Harder Routed

Mel Harder, trying for his fifth straight victory, was knocked out in the third and suffered his first defeat. With one down in the third Pete Suder and Hadley singled. Al Brancato singled Suder home. Wally Moses walked, then Benny McCoy drove in Hadley and Brancato with a single. Bob Johnson walked to again load the sacks, but Dick Siebert hit into a double play, one of eight made during the game.

The Indians got two runs in the fourth on a two-bagger by Roy Weatherly, Ken Keltner's single,

By Al Hailey

The New York fight mob began its mop-up action in Washington yesterday as Mike Jacobs & Co. moved in to take a look at Joe Louis and Buddy Baer in their final workouts today and to take personal charge of the ticket situation—one which is expected to be a $150,000 situation by ringtime at Griffith Stadium Friday night.

Louis and Baer will call a halt to heavy work this afternoon, the champion finishing off at 3 p. m. at Riverside Stadium and Baer beginning his windup a half-hour earlier at Olney, Md.

Jacobs, oblivious of a storm of protest from local boxing figures that he is discriminating against District officials, watched Louis work in the stuffy humidity of Riverside yesterday and was in high spirits over prospects of a $150,000 gate.

Silent on Referee Selection

The New York promoter had nothing to say in reference to reaction to the District Boxing Commission's appointment of Arthur Donovan as referee for the 15-round title match.

One prominent District fight figure charged that the local boxing commission is playing stooge to Jacobs.

"Our local officials are as well qualified as anyone to handle this fight," he said. "They work hard for peanuts and when along comes a big fight where they can make a little money they get a raw deal. It's not this fact that rankles so much, but it looks to me as if Jacobs is making the commission jump through hoops."

Nats Sign Guerra, Cuban Catcher, From Springfield

Mike Guerra, Cuban catcher who has been one of the leading hitters of the Springfield, Mass., team in the Eastern League, has been bought by the Nats.

Guerra will join the Nats tomorrow, the Associated Press reported. Springfield, formerly a Washington farm team, now has a working agreement with the Nats.

The acquisition of Guerra rounds out a catching staff depleted by the trade that sent Rick Ferrell to St. Louis in the deal for Vernon Kennedy. Guerra has been playing with teams in the Washington farm system for a half dozen years.

Dodger Manager Back at Shortstop

Chicago, May 20 (AP)—Prompted by the four-game losing streak of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Manager Leo Durocher announced tonight that he would bench Peewee Reese and play shortstop himself tomorrow when his club opens a vital two-game series in St. Louis.

Reese has been in a batting slump since the Dodgers invaded the West.

By International News Service

New York, May 20.—Anton Christoforidis polished off his training today in a midtown gymnasium, then proclaimed his confidence that he will blast Gus Lesnevich into a delicate state of delirium some time Thursday night between the first and fifteenth rounds of their light heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden.

This, in itself, seemed to be a brash statement, but it hardly tells the story of Anton's far-flung campaign to become one of the few guys in pugilistic history to risk life and limb for an undisputed world's title. In this lies the tale of the black-haired, dark complexioned youth who looks like one of the classic illustrations in our old Greek grammar come to life.

Christoforidis is a native of Greece. He started fighting in Paris. He found his fists an easy livelihood for a 17-year-old lad who had been orphaned in the Symrna disaster and made a world wanderer. His first fights were fought in a small Paris club called the Bucket of Blood.

Promoter Jeff Dickson, the Natchez, Miss., citizen who became the Michael Strauss Jacobs of French pugilism, picked Anton off the streets and matched him in the famed Palais de Sportes in Paris.

Shows Heels To Five Foes In Stretch

Double Crown Winner Scores by Two-and-A-Half Lengths; Mioland Is Second

By Bob Considine

New York, May 20.—Whirlaway went out to play with the older boys today at Belmont, and came home with all their marbles. The beautiful long-tailed 3-year-old winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness soundly whipped 4-year-old Mioland and 5-year-old Hash, both prominent stakes winners, to win the Henry of Navarre gallop of 1 1-16 miles.

Off fourth, well behind the pace-setting Mioland, Warren Wright's champion, piloted by Jockey Wendell Eads, hugged the rail and ate dust until the small but select field went into the course's single turn.

"Whirly" Turns on Speed

Then Whirlaway began to pour it on, as only he can. He fairly soared past Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance to pull up to third. Then, still hugging the rail, he fairly catapulted past Hash and Mioland as they straightened out for home. He bore out rather seriously once he was headed for home. But he had so much speed in his winged hooves that neither the Greentree's Hash—piloted by Whirly's old jockey, Eddie Arcaro—or Charles S. Howard's Mioland, with Lloyd Haas up, could take advantage.

Whirlaway whipped these older and more seasoned colts and horses by 2½ lengths, and to the delight of the crowd of 16,264, which had made him favorite, paid $3.50, $2.70 and $2.30. Mioland paid $2 to place and $2.40 to show. Hash returned $2.80 to show. Your Chance was fourth and Ringle last.

This was Whirlaway's first sortie against older horses, but he dominated them with his great stretch running as much as he dominated his 3-year-old contemporaries in the recent classics at Churchill Downs and Pimlico.

Just a Tuneup

He was dropped in the $2,500 Henry of Navarre unexpectedly yesterday by Trainer Ben (One Blinker) Jones, who wanted to keep him in tune for the $50,000 Belmont Stakes on June 7, when Whirly will try to become one of the five horses in history to win the triple crown—the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

On a weight-for-age basis, Whirlaway ran today under 10 pounds, to Mioland's 127, Hash's 120. Your

Bill Wixted Checks Maryland Bats as Georgetown Wins, 9-6

Big Pitcher Also Proves Star at Bat

Gets Triple and Two Singles to Aid in His Second Victory; Terps Threaten Late

By Jack Munhall

Georgetown's thirteenth victory equaled Maryland's thirteenth loss yesterday at the Hilltop where the Hoyas overcame a pair of jinxes to defeat the Terrapins, 9-6.

Not only did Joe Judge's nine get over the unlucky "13" hex, but with air-tight fielding in the first inning it prevented the Terrapins from becoming the thirteenth team in 17 games to score on Georgetown in the opening inning.

Big Bill Wixted went all the way for Georgetown to score his second triumph of the season over the Old Liners and enjoyed a very profitable afternoon at bat, lacing out a triple and two singles in four trips. His sixth-inning three-bagger was Bill's first extra-base hit of the season and, according to heckling teammates, the first of his career.

Wixted Escapes Trouble

Wixted started out poorly by allowing Maryland to load the bases with none out in the first. He escaped that bad situation without yielding a run by fanning Clean-up Hitter "Pop" Wharton and forcing Mearle DuVall to ground into a snappy double play, but Maryland caught up with him in the second to punch over three runs.

A double by Leib McDonald, a home run by Danny Boothe, a walk to Carroll Radebaugh, a passed ball and Bill England's single produced Maryland's first three counters. England's single, incidentally, was the first of four hits for the Maryland catcher, who is riding the crest of an amazing streak. England has hit over .500 for his last five games.

Georgetown, held to one run in the first two innings by some fancy Maryland fielding, broke out with a cluster of three tallies in the fourth on Joe McFadden's single, Hank Mlynarski's double, and singles by Jim Castiglia and Wixted.

Hoyas Increase Margin

In the fifth, the Hoyas increased their lead to 5-3 on Mlynarski's single and a pair of Maryland errors, and then in the sixth they clinched their victory with four more markers. A single by George Pajak, a triple by Wixted, a single by McFadden, a triple by Mlynarski and a single by Lou Ghecas were the main ingredients of the rally.

Maryland, limited to only one hit and no runs during the fourth, fifth and sixth, threatened in the late innings. The Terps scored twice in the seventh on a walk to Woodward and singles by England, Wharton and DuVall, and once more in the ninth on England's single and DuVall's triple.

Miss Burke, undefeated in some 400 bouts, will risk her crown against Elvira Snodgrass, the Smoky Mountain, Tenn., hillbilly, tomorrow night at Turner's Arena

Joe Turner To Referee On Own Show

Joe Turner, wrestling impressario who hasn't been in the ring for many years, has been asked to referee tomorrow's night's world's feminine championship match between Mildred Burke, the titleholder from Columbus, Ohio, and Elvira Snodgrass, the Smokey Mountain, Tenn., hillbilly, at Turner's Arena.

Both Billy Wolfe, who has steered Miss Burke into the championship and through 400 matches without a defeat, and Elmer Snodgrass, Elvira's husband-second, have asked Turner to handle the bout.

Joe, who in the past has frowned on being the third man in any match, said he is reserving his decision until today. If the promoter doesn't do it, Casey Berger, the husky Washington Airport guard, will get the call.

Turner, former world's middleweight champion, is guaranteeing Champion Burke $500 to risk her title, and as a result has been forced to hike his prices to $1.65, $1.10 and 85 cents. All seats are reserved.

A bang-up supporting card of five matches has been arranged. In the cofeature Len Macaluso, former Colgate All-American, will meet Rough Rudy Dusek, "Riot Squad" leader.

Silver Spring Fans Will Honor Myer And Travis Today

Cecil Travis and Buddy Myer, members of the Washington baseball team, will be honored this afternoon before the game at Griffith Stadium, by the Silver Spring, Md., Board of Trade.

The ball players will be given duplicate rifles as prizes for receiving the most votes as the team's best players in a contest conducted throughout Montgomery County. It was first planned to make only one award but the men ran so closely in the votes that the board decided to give them each a prize. The presentation will be made by Arch McDonald, radio sports announcer and resident of Silver Spring.

Eastern, Western Win In Interhigh Finales

Championship Question Now Rests on Friday Game Between Central, Western High Nines

The whole question of who meets Eastern in the interhigh baseball championship series, involving the top two teams in the final standings, now hinges on Central's tangle with Western Friday following a pair of games yesterday.

Eastern closed out its regular season with an 11-10 judgment over Anacostia, clinching first place in the playoff. Western, however, could only tie Central for second place with a 9-5 verdict over Roosevelt.

Western Has Trouble

Not without considerable difficulty did Western slap down the Riders on their home field. It took a six-run splurge in the seventh inning to break a 3-3 deadlock and Roosevelt's spirit.

In that disastrous seventh the Riders committed almost every misplay in the books, and all Western needed to do for its six tallies was to slam out three small singles.

In retaliation Roosevelt put on an uprising of its own in the lower half of the seventh, but all it could accomplish was to chase Starting Pitcher Clarence Kuldell from the mound and cut their losing margin by two runs.

Hines Hurls No-Hitter

Kuldell gave up all 14 of Roosevelt's hits, while his relief, Charley Hines, hurled no-hit ball. Billy Garner, Rider southpaw, issued a mere ten hits but suffered from three wild pitches and five bases on balls. His teammates kicked in with eight errors, the same number as committed by Western in probably the sloppiest clash of the season.

It was an error by Bernie Miller, right fielder, which launched Western's biggest inning. With one out, Bernie apparently ran into a gopher hole as he raced for Jake Hilleary's fly. Hilleary reached third before the ball was recovered, and before the inning was over he, Cady, Dorsett, Leach, Shoemaker and Malarkey had romped across home plate.

Tide Wrecks Anacostia

Anacostia, playing heads-up ball, held the favored White Tide in check for the first five innings but disaster struck in the fifth. Eight Easterners scored in that period, turning a close game into a shambles and effectively voiding all Anacostia attempts to rally thereafter.

John Penn pitched to the first two Eastern men in the fifth, allowing a double and single. Elmer Leukhardt moved over from first base to hurl, then, and he could retire only two of the eight men to face him. Jim Flaherty was finally called in, walked the first two batters to face him, but eventually forced "Ducky" David to fly out. Meanwhile the Tide had registered four singles, two doubles by Eddie Hoffman and a triple by Billy Hite for their eight runs.

In all Eastern collected 12 hits for the day, 5 more than the Indians. Kenny Deavers pitched the first seven innings, ran into difficulties in the seventh when Anacostia scored four runs, and gave over to Rookie Bray. One of the two hits off the latter was Blaine's homer in the eighth with one on.

We frequently have seen fishermen fishing with equipment that makes it impossible to get any real enjoyment out of their efforts. More often than not their tackle is far too heavy.

There seems to be an impression that salt water fishing means tussling with large fish. This is untrue. Ordinary bait casting tackle such as used for black bass fishing is sometimes used in taking many of our salt water bay fish. The experienced angler has his own ideas on tackle for each particular fish. There is no desire on our part to contradict these anglers, rather we wish to suggest tackle we have found suitable for the experienced angler as well as beginners, tackle from which the beginner can get real sport and pleasure. The lighter the tackle, the better the sport.

For average light tackle salt water fishing we recommend the 3-6 outfit. Many anglers don't know what the so-called 3-6 outfit means. The specifications are a rod, which including handle weighs 6 ounces; not less than 6 feet in length and no line heavier than 6 thread (each thread tests at approximately 3 pounds breaking test—therefore the designation 3-6.) The reel can be of 2-0 or 3-0 size with or with drag; 200 yards of line. Wire leader no heavier than No. 7, hooks not larger than 7-0.

This equipment will give the angler a sporty outfit for all general fishing on the bay. If you use anything heavier you will miss a great deal of sport . . . give the fish a chance.

The 6/9 outfit has a tip not over 6 ounces in weight, nor less than 5 feet in length. The butt is 14 to 21 inches in length and has a forward hand grasp above the reel seat. The reel can be either a 3/0 or 4/0 with 300 yards of 9-thread line. Wire leader not heavier than No. 8 and hooks not larger than 9/0.

If you are just beginning, the 9 and 12-ounce tips may feel safer to you but for the most sport we again urge you to use the lightest tackle. A 6-ounce tip will handle most all the lighter fish that one encounters when trolling.

If you want to lose a friend, borrow a rod and reel or gun from him.

A weekend check-up revealed that even the most hardened pessimists are forced to admit that fishing for land-locked salmon and trout in Maine is the best in years.

As the water gets warmer during the next week conditions are expected to improve if possible . . . some prize winners should be set up this season, especially brook trout (squaretails) . . . best fish reported from Rangely Lakes, was a 7½ pound squaretail caught on fly by J. S. Coffin, of Englewood, N. J.

Herb Welch, veteran fly-casting champ was never more enthusiastic over fishing in the Rangeleys. His theory, one of the many, is that the early ice out was before the smelt had really started running in good shape.

Beaver Creek, Moose River and Spencer Bay on Moosehead Lake are producing excellent fishing.

Big trout and land-locked salmon catches are being made at Belgrades, including Chinook salmon which were stocked in Great Pond in 1938.

Gov. Sewall of Maine has issued a proclamation closing the woods as forest fire prevention measure, eliminating all inland fishing except from boats, rafts and all other craft. Smoking or building campfires in the woods or building open fires anywhere in the State is prohibited.

In requesting Gov. Sewall to issue the proclamation, Forestry Commissioner Randall said the ban was absolutely necessary and would remain in effect until there was sufficient rain to relieve conditions.

Although this is a tough break for the ardent stream anglers, there is plenty of action available on the thousands of lakes, ponds and streams that are big enough for a boat.

Georgetown Prep Defeats Landon, 4-3

An error by First Baseman Beatty, of Landon, yesterday enabled Georgetown Prep diamonders to eke out a 4-3 judgment in a pitchers' battle at Garrett Park.

With Tobin on base in the sixth after singling and stealing second, Beatty muffed a throw to allow Tobin to come all the way home. The run broke a 3-3 tie and proved the most important of the game.

Paul Baker, Landon hurler, did all in his power to win, but it was no use. He pitched 5-hit ball, struck out 13 and gathered a single and homer in five trips, but couldn't bring his team out on top. His homer came in the fifth with nobody on base.

Phils Subdue Leading Cardinals in 11-Inning Battle, 6-4

Philadelphia Hangs Up Two Markers in 11th; Cardinals Hold First Place

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, May 20.—The St. Louis Cardinals retained the National League lead by a fractional margin over Brooklyn today after losing to the last-place Philadelphia Phillies, 6 in 4.

Until the sixth it looked like an easy victory for the Cards, and a turn in the fortunes of Southpaw Clyde Shoun, who has lost two without winning any this year. At the stage St. Louis led, 4 to 0, all the runs propelled over the plate by Johnny Mize's pair of doubles and a triple.

Then up stepped Pinch Hitter George Jumonville, a 6-footer, who drove in 100 runs for Ottawa last season and came up to the Phils for a few games at the close of the season. He hit a home run into the left-field bleachers.

That was the spark needed. The Phils scored another run that inning, another in the seventh and the tying tally in the eighth on Nick Etten's double which scored Johnny Rizzo from second.

The game went into extra innings after a play at the plate cut off a threatening Philly rally in the ninth. After one out, Ben Warren and Harry Marnie singled in succession. Ike Pearson, who had relieved Si Johnson on the mound, was safe at first as Eddie Lake fumbled his infield blow, but Lake recovered in time to nip Warren at home.

Bobbles Help Yankees Whip Browns, 10-9

By the Associated Press

New York, May 20.—The St. Louis Browns made six errors today to throw away a 10 to 9 decision to the New York Yankees.

The hard-hitting Brownies combed three New York pitchers for 13 hits, including two home runs by Harlond Clift and one by Roy Cullenbine, and even after Bill Dickey had put the Yanks ahead with a three-run homer in the eight, St. Louis managed to tie the score.

But the atrocious throwing of the Browns cost a final run in the last of the ninth. John Strum led off with his third single and was forced at second by Red Rolfe, but John Lucadello trying for a double play, overthrew first for the third time in the game. Tom Henrich walked and went to second when Joe DiMaggio forced Rolfe. Then Charley Keller grounded to Relief Pitcher George Caster, who also threw badly to first and Henrich raced home from second.

Red Ruffing, who started the game for the Yanks, was relieved in the seventh after giving up seven hits, among them all the Browns' homers.

Reds' Late Outburst Defeats Braves, 9-6

Champions Hang Up Third Straighgt With 9th Inning Rallp; McCormick's Homer Aids Cause

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, May 20.—The Cincinnati Reds today put on one of those ninth-inning rallies that made them the world champions last year and snatched their third straight victory from the Boston Braves, 9 to 6.

Frank McCormick's home run of the year, coming with the score tied, two out, and two on, capped the six-run explosion that knocked Casey Stengle's crew out of what looked like an easy decision in the final game of the series.

Up to that time the Braves had pecked away at Gene Thompson, who has yet to win a game for the Reds this year, Whitey Moore, and Elmer Riddle for their six runs in a sloppily played ball game marked by butter fingers, disputes and light attendance.

Red Sox Snap Streak, Beat Tigers, 4 to 2

By the Associated Press

Boston, May 20—Earl Johnson, youthful Boston Red Sox lefthander, ruined Hal Newhouser's 20th birthday party today, letting the Detroit Tigers down with four hits as his team snapped its five-game losing streak with a 4-2 triumph.

Johnson held the hard-hitting Tiger crew in complete subjection, mowing them down virtually in order in the first five innings. The first blow off his serves was Frank Croucher's double in the sixth but Earl erased that threat with a pair of strikeouts. Charlie Gehringer doubled in the second but died on base.

Not until the ninth did the Tigers cross the plate. Then Paddy Mullin singled and came home on Rudy York's home run hoist into the left field screen.

The Sox gave Johnson an early start in the first when Dom DiMaggio and Lou Finney drew successive walks. After Ted Williams splashed into a twin killing, DiMaggio romped home on a solid single to right by Jimmy Foxx.

Cubs Crush Dodgers, 9-1, For 3d Straight

By the Associated Press

Chicago, May 20.—The Chicago Cubs, who apparently don't know their own strength, crushed the pennant-mad Brooklyn Dodgers again today, 9 to 1, sweeping the three-game series and extending the Flatbush losing streak to four straight.

In cooling Brooklyn's pennant fever, the Cubs, after floundering around in the second division most of the time since the season started, whipped the Dodgers' three best pitchers and gave the losers only two earned runs in the three games.

Kirby Higbe, the Dodger starter today, mowed down his former teammates in order the first three innings. But in the fourth, Stan Hack led off with a double, igniting a three-run explosion on six solid singles. Then the young righthander settled down and allowed only one more hit through the seventh inning, at which point he retired for a pinch hitter.

Bill Lee Comes Through

Pete Reiser set up the only Dodger run by beating out a bunt in the fourth and proceeding to second on Clyde McCullough's wide throw to first. Cookie Lavagetto scored him with a double.

The Dodgers made six hits thereafter, but Big Bill Lee was untouchable with men on bases. In the ninth, for example, Lavagetto opened with a triple but Lee easily retired the side without a ball going out of the infield.

The Cubs' eighth inning out-burst opened with Newt Kimball, a former Cub, giving Hack a walk. Three more walks, Phil Cavarretta's double, Bob Sturgeon's single and Lou Stringer's triple with the bases loaded produced six runs.

Thus the Cubs have completed their most impressive exhibition of the young season, collecting 33 hits and 30 runs off the Dodgers, who came to Chicago with 22 victories in their last 26 games.

Woodmont's Second Team Golfers Win

Woodmont's contenders for the second team title of the Women's District Golf Association increased their lead yesterday, although winning only 5½-3½ over the next-to-last place Kenwood team at Indian Spring.

While the leaders were scoring fewer than six points for the first time in seven matches, the runner-up teams, Army and Navy and Columbia, were losing to Beaver Dam and Argyle, respectively, thus tightening the second-place race, while Woodmont pulled 10 points ahead.

The handicapping system of the second team matches is proving to be nearly 100% correct as virtually every match is carried to the eighteenth green for a decision and with two exceptions the teams are closely bunched. The good golfers are having trouble giving strokes in wholesale allotments but as a whole everyone is well satisfied.

Columbia Upset

Argyle's first two brackets accounted for 5½ points in upsetting Columbia, 6-3, while Beaver Dam players used strokes to advantage in handing Army and Navy a surprising 8-1 defeat. Woodmont dropped 2½ points in the last bracket but beat Kenwood, 5½-3½.

Argyle and Beaver Dam pulled into a tie for fourth place, only a point back of Army and Navy. Chevy Chase moved up with a 5½-3½ victory over Indian Spring as each side played with just five players.

Congressional won over Belle Haven, 6-3 and Washington pushed Manor deeper into the cellar with an 8-1 victory.

First and third teams enjoyed an off day in the schedule.

Favored Roman Boy Takes Speed Purse at Charles Town

Kelly Brings Victor in by Wide Margin

Time Her Second, Length-and-a-Half Back; Last Bet Puts On a Pre-Race Show

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Charles Town, W. Va., May 20.—Making his first start of the year, P. H. Faulconer's Roman Boy showed that time has not dulled his energy over the 4½-furlong route at this track by winning the Speed Purse, featuring today's card. The son of Ha Ha and Roman Girl, often referred to as the "sprint champion" of Charles Town, finished a length and a half in front of Mrs. G. C. Rollins' Time Her, with Michael Seth's Star Strewn third and four lengths from second money.

Roman Boy's workouts and his past performances at the abbreviated distance were well known to the 6,000 fans and he was played as if the race had already been run. After he had accounted for the purse, there was a $3.60 mutuel displayed. The 5-year-old gelding was clocked in 0:50 a second over the track record held by Irene's Bob.

Last Bet Goes Berserk

For while, it appeared that the race might be run in the dark. There is a rule at this track which prohibits horses working out on the way to the post. Last Bet, owned by G. G. Waugh, jr., decided that he needed some pre-race action so he tossed off Jockey Patsy Grant and ran away. He slowed down and stopped in front of the judges' stand.

After being returned to the starting gate, Last Bet did everything but stand on his head. Assistant starters tried to get him in the gate and once again he threw Grant and ran off. This time he galloped to the finish line, turned around and then ran the other way. Meanwhile, the other jockeys dismounted to await developments.

Grant again climbed into the saddle. This time the men were unable to get Last Bet close to his stall gate, Starter Morrissey then gave up and ordered him to start from the outside.

When the break came, Time Her and Roman Boy bounded to the front, accompanied by Star Strewn. Last Bet wheeled slightly and then showed a flash of speed to get to contention, but his prerace efforts had sapped his strength and he dropped back.

Charles Town Race Charts

WEATHER, CLEAR; TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:32½. Off at 2:33. Winner, W. B. Amos' br. f. (4), by Crack Brigade—Warning. Trained by Mrs. G. A. Saportas. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:50⅘.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	Start	¼	Stretch	Finish	Straight
MISS WARNING	(Scott)	105	8	7	2¹	1¹	1¹	$1.80
LIL'S DAUGHTER	(C.Kirk)	110	4	3	1nk	2¹	2¹½	8.70

BRAINCHILD	(Claggett)	105	3	2	6½	5¹	6¹	6.40
LEAD PLEASE	(Kelly)	110	7	1	4nk	7¹	7¹⁰	16.80
ROVING EYE	(Eversole)	110	5	8	8	8	8	10.50

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS WARNING, $5.60, $3.60, $3.00; LIL'S DAUGHTER, $7.80, $4.40; BUDDY AL, $2.80.

MISS WARNING, off sluggishly, rushed to contention on the outside, took command over LIL'S DAUGHTER and held sway thereafter, winning with something left. LIL'S DAUGHTER was prominent from the start and closed gamely. BUDDY AL raced wide entering the stretch and came with good energy at the close. SISTER CANTER closed full of run.

SECOND RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:06½. Off at 3:08. Winner, W. G. Wright's b. g. (6), by Kiev—Maliza. Trained by D. Chamblin. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:27.

GOLDEN MAYNE	(Dufford)	113	6	2	7¹	8	8	8	9.50

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRANK H., $6.20, $3.60, $3.20; QUESTRE, $6.60, $5.40; LAFITOFF, $12.00.

FRANK H., off slowly and taken wide for racing room, improved his position steadily, responded when shaken up and disposed of QUESTRE to win with speed in reserve. QUESTRE was hustled to the front at once, set a good pace and held on gamely. LAFITOFF was far back early and closed with a terrific rush. DIN was in the thick of contention to the stretch and weakened.

THIRD RACE—Charles Town course. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:36½. Winner, Flamingo Farm's b. g. (3), by Registrar—Orphan Ann. Trained by W. C. Kennedy. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:16⅘.

MOWYOUDOWN	(Whittington)	110	1	7	8	8	8	8	13.70

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILL K., $7.60, $3.60, $3.40; MISS FIDGIT, $2.80, $2.80; BEAUTY'S WAY, $9.20.

BILL K. took command in the opening furlong, was hard ridden and had to be shaken up to stave off MISS FIDGIT. The latter was closest to the pace from the start, made repeated bids, but was held safe at the close. BEAUTY'S WAY lost ground while racing forwardly and weakened badly in the closing stages. PASO GRANDE had some early speed and tired badly.

Daily Double, FRANK H. and BILL K., Paid $17.80

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; caple same. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:03¼. Winner, Mrs. H. S. Horkheimer's ch. m. (5), by Pompey—Sweet Mary. Trained by J. B. Bond. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:22.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Straight
POMARY	(Kelly)	111	1	8	4²	3½	1½	1¹¼	$3.20
SCHLEY AL	(Claggett)	107	3	4	3½	4²	4¹	2nk	2.70

SPOUT RUN	(J.Hernandes)	112	4	1	1¹	1h	3nk	8	20.60

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POMARY, $8.40, $3.80, $3.40; SCHLEY AL, $3.80, $3.40; TIME PASSES, $5.60.

POMARY stumbled and almost unseated her rider leaving the gate, was lucky to find racing room on the inside while improving her position steadily, took command approaching the stretch and held away under strong handling. SCHLEY AL was blocked at the first turn, came to contention boldly and hung in the final drive. TIME PASSES escaped trouble at the first turn, was hard ridden and closed willingly. MISS MAKER was blocked repeatedly.

FIFTH RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:34½. Off at 4:35. Winner, J. F. Donaldson's ch. s. (9), by Botanical—Cautious. Trained by M. Johnson. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:27⅘.

ROMAN LEADER	(Eversole)	108	4	3	6nk	7nk	7²	8	10.40

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAUTIOUS BO, $35.00, $9.20, $4.80; SARANITE, $3.60, $3.00; OVERPLAY, $10.40.

CAUTIOUS BO, closest to the pace of MAESAK from the start, rallied when placed to a hard drive to take command and held SARANITE safe. SARANITE was shuffled back going to the first turn, was forced wide entering the stretch and hung in the closing drive. OVERPLAY was within striking distance throughout and showed a good effort. MAESAK set a fast pace and weakened badly through the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—About 4½ furlongs. Purse, $500. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:14. Off at 5:18. Winner, P. H. Faulconer's ch. g. (5), by Haha—Roman Girl. Trained by C. H. FitzGerald. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:50.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	Start	¼	Stretch	Finish	Straight
ROMAN BOY	(Kelly)	114	5	2	1²	1²	1²	$0.80

STUBBS	(West)	116	2	6	6½	6½	7²	5.50
BLOWING ROCK	(Root)	110	3	8	8	8	8	49.10

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROMAN BOY, $3.60, $2.80, $2.80; TIME HER, $5.00, $3.60; STAR STREWN, $12.80.

ROMAN BOY forged to the front at once, drew far out, but had to be kept to a drive through the stretch to hold TIME HER safe. TIME HER, first away, could not keep up with the winner, but responded to punishment to close gamely. STAR STREWN was forwardly placed from the start and showed a good effort. BOB JUNIOR went evenly. LAST BET unseated his rider twice and ran off. He was off poorly, showed speed and then faltered.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:44. Off at 5:44½. Winner, N. Corbin's blk. f. (4), by Hijack—Sun Hussy. Trained by N. Corbin. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:48.

WALE SIGNAL	(Palumbo)	111	7	7	6½	7	7	7	7	17.90

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAZEN HUSSY, $7.00, $4.40, $2.80; GROUCHY, $10.60, $5.00; PAMUNKEY, $2.80.

BRAZEN HUSSY took command at once, drew out to a long lead and was never threatened while winning easily. GROUCHY was in the first flight from the start, rallied in the closing test, but was no match for the winner. PAMUNKEY was closest to the pace from the start and weakened in the closing stages. PALKIN went evenly.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 6:13. Off at 6:13. Winner, H. W. Pearson's b. h. (6), by Kai Sang—Minxy. Trained by C. W. Byers. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:55⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAI-MIN, $20.20, $9.80, $4.40; AMERICA FIRST, $6.80, $4.20; CURVES, $2.80.

KAI-MIN shook off BROOKE HEROD to take command, opened a long lead, ran out entering the stretch, but had enough left to hold the others safe. AMERICA FIRST was rated while in the first flight and rallied gamely in the closing test. CURVES saved ground, worked his way to contention and closed willingly. TRANSDAY closed some ground.

Selections at Charles Town.
Dear Al:

Today's feature race is the Retreat and it was not named for any war movement but for the ancestral home of Leeds Riley, secretary of the jockey club here. A field of nine including The Fop, Royal Business, Don Orlan and Blablah has been listed. Racing Secretary Fred Burton has assigned Match Point high weight of 119. A horse arrival yesterday was Mrs. H. G. Bedwell's Nannykins, winner of the 1940 Pimlico Nursery, shipped in from Pimlico. In winning the stake, Nannykin carried 119 pounds over five-eighths in 1:01. When Timber Lady refused to break from the stall gate here, Trainer G. E. Littlefield shipped her back to W. D. Jones' farm near Fredericksburg, Va., where she was bred. The four strong horses which pull the starting gate here are owned by Baily Boyd, J. J. Murphy, who made a big hit here as chief representative of the Daily Racing Form, left yesterday for Omaha to cover for his publication there. Carlyle Johnson replaces him here. Mickey McGuire, who has been writing breeding for the Form, is making his headquarters here. Apprentice Jockey Al Bocson has signed with Mrs. Cy Butler and will handle her horses. He took out a ridnig license yesterday. He is former exercise boy for the Benning Stable. Al is a good kid and needs only a break or two. Jockey O. Hernandez swung into action yesterday for his first time. Jockey Danny Scocca continues to turn in good rides on ordinary horses. Alan Clarke tells me that he is shipping Walter Haight, the colt, to Delaware Park. I hope he's going for more than the ride. Clarke has been telling me about his improvement but after seeing him defeat only three horses in three days, I'm beginning to lack confidence in his ability. We shall see what we shall see. At any rate, I'll see you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—HAPPY SIS is the speed of this party and needs only a ride. VEE PEE races well over this track and likes the short sprint route. FUSIONETTE has worked smartly.

Second race—VENDOR'S LIEN shapes up well in this company; seems capable of carrying top weight to victory. QUICK VINE has speed and is dangerous. EMMA H. flashed form on the milers and could surprise.

Third race—WAY OUT looks all the part of a winner in this field. The route and the company suit. MY FIRST is in good form and will take it all if the top one makes mistakes. BALKANESE for the show, end.

Fourth race — BLENETHEL exhibited good speed over in Maryland and might take it all at good odds. OWALLER has worked well for this. SCULLERY MAID has done everything asked.

Fifth race—BERWYN, 120 pounds and all, appears to be the day's standout in this abbreviated sprint. MARANDAN has good races in the book and is fit as hands can make him. NEVER HOME beat cheaper ones at this route.

Sixth race—THE FOP has had a race over the course and appears ready to win a test of this kind. ROYAL BUSINESS did not like that heavy track last week and will improve on a fast oval. BLABLAH belongs at least third.

Seventh race — BURNER is a standout in this field if track conditions do not change. BULL TERRIER has some class and will be in the thick of contention. SUMMER STOCK for the show.

Eighth race—BLOX will be a hard horse to beat; has been racing into top form and appears ready for the question. CUSTER and NEVER IDOL to fill out the money bracket.

Substitute race—If this event is used, I'll take PLEASANT LADY, GOLDEN KEY and STAR MINT.

Best bet—BERWYN.

Safeway Sales Increase 11% In Four Weeks

Sales of Safeway Stores, Inc., for the four weeks ended May 10 were 194,002 for the four weeks ended May 11, 1940, an increase of 11.18 per cent.

Sales for the 20 weeks ended May 10, 1941, were $163,776,984, against $149,408,342 for the 20 weeks ended May 11, 1940, an increase of 9.62%.

Garfinckel Dividends

Directors of Julius Garfinckel & Co., Inc., of Washington, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 37.5 cents a share on preferred stock, payable June 30, to stockholders of record June 14, and the regular quarterly dividend of 17.5 cents a share on common stock, payable on same date.

Duff in New Post

Donald A. Duff, recently appointed Eastern Division traffic manager for Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, has relinquished that post to accept a position with Northeast Airlines, with offices in Boston, it was learned yesterday.

Duff, who has been with P.-C. A. here for more than three years, will become general traffic and sales manager for the Northeast Airlines, which is headed by Samuel J. Solomon, manager of the Washington Airport.

Previous to coming to Washington in 1937, Duff served P.-C. A. as district manager in Pittsburgh, division manager at Detroit, and director of publicity and advertising. A graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Duff is a resident of Arlington County, Virginia.

Contractors to Meet

The Associated General Contractors of America will hold the spring meeting of its governing and advisory boards at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Tuesday and Wednesday, June 10 and 11. The A. G. C. secretaries council will devote the preceding day, Monday, June 9, to its meeting.

Managing Director H. E. Foreman said:

"The theme of the board meeting will be fitting the construction industry more completely to defense needs and studying the problems which can be anticipated following the defense effort . . ."

Loans for Defense

Nearly one billion dollars of commitments for loans to finance the production of defense supplies was reported to the American Bankers Association as outstanding on March 31 by 345 banks in 137 cities, according to a survey made by the association.

To obtain an indication of the trend in the volume of credit extended for the financing of defense orders, the A. B. A. queried 500 of the larger banks. Of this number, 345 institutions in 137 cities replied that they had outstanding on March 31 commitments totaling $934,197,688 on 5,894 loans. In addition, the reported "negotiations in progress with loan likely to result" on 434 applications totaling $97,027,352. Of the commitments made, $429,050,242 was actually in use on March 31.

The 345 banks reported 2,298 loan commitments for production of supplies and equipment totaling $394,941,425 and 2,358 for construction work and plant facilities totaling $355,093,620.

Merck Stock Offered

The initial offering of common stock of Merck & Co., Inc., was made yesterday by 54 underwriters headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Lehman Bros. The underwriting embraces 202,372 shares, of which 102,372 shares are now outstanding and 100,000 shares represent new financing by the company. The price of the stock is $28.75 a share.

The common stock included in the public offering represents part of the stock which has been held by members of the Merck and Rosengarten families, who, with certain other stockholders, are not exercising their stock purchase warrants under the company's offer.

Other underwriters included: Dillon, Read & Co.; Hayden, Stone & Co.; Hemphill, Noyes & Co.; Hornblower & Weeks; Kidder, Freres & Co.; Mackubin, Legg and Company; Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt; G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.; and others.

Malt Liquor Output Rises

The Treasury reports April production of fermented malt liquors totaled 5,129,108 barrels compared with 5,124,256 in the similar month last year. Production in the first 10 months of the fiscal year totaled 43,170,502 barrels, compared with 43,609,864 in the similar portion of the preceding fiscal year.

Steel Furniture Sales Up

Manufacturers of steel office furniture have reported to the Census Bureau that orders booked in the first quarter of 1941 increased to $12,688,911, compared with $6,663,125 in the first quarter of last year. Shipments totaled $10,341,407 in the first quarter of this year, compared with $6,951,902 in the similar period last year.

First Quarter Dividends

The Exchange, publication of the New York Stock Exchange, said yesterday that of 833 common stocks listed, 121 had paid bigger dividends in the first quarter of 1941 than in the first quarter of 1940.

The magazine said 424 issues paid a total of $437,407,000 in dividends for the 1941 quarter, a gain of 8.1 per cent above the 1940 first quarter figure.

Its report showed 273 stocks paying the same as the 1940 quarter, 30 paying less, and 17 eliminating or deferring their dividends.

Steel, iron and coke shares showed the largest increase in dividend payments, the magazine said, with 130.7 per cent. Tobacco common stock dividends were down 13 per cent, retail merchandising stock dividends down 5.3 per cent and petroleum dividends down 4.4 per cent.

The article commented: "Consideration of recent gains in dividends does not, of course, subtract from the impending effect of increased taxation, higher wage rates and higher material and other costs while, in some instances, Governmental authorities give notice that prices are not to be raised."

FLOW OF COAL RESUMED—From a high point of 100 per cent of capacity in the week previous to the coal mine stoppage, weekly steel production dropped to a low 94 per cent in the last week of April, but rebounded to 97.5 per cent in the latest week when the flow of coal from the mines was resumed, according to the Iron Age

Rubber Drops, Other Staples Hold Steady

By the Associated Press

A further heavy slump in the future delivery price of rubber, which stands high on the list of strategic materials, contrasted with steady to firm trends in most other key commodities yesterday.

Commodity circles noted indications of hasty speculative liquidation in this essential import material, presumably as a result of unconfirmed Washington stories that it was in line for inclusion among the staples for which price ceilings have been decreed.

The same gossip referred to other items, but they failed to crack as rubber did.

A majority of leading New York futures markets closed on the credit side: Cotton futures were up 35 to 50 cents a bale; Santos coffee, up .07 to .12 of a cent a pound; domestic sugar, unchanged to .03 of a cent higher; hides, up .19 to .32 of a cent.

Cocoa futures were a shade lower, cottonseed oil, wool tops, and silk moderated their pace and showed minor changes at the end.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot commodities continued in a familiar direction, reaching a new four-year high at 85.02 per cent of the 1926 average compared with 84.83 per cent Monday.

Both Unions See Victory on Eve Of Ford Election

Detroit, May 20 (INS).—With both the C. I. O. and the A. F. L. predicting victory, the National Labor Relations Board completed arrangements tonight for one of the largest collective bargaining elections in its history.

The election will be conducted tomorrow among 83,675 workers at the Ford Motor Co. Rouge and Lincoln plants.

John B. Locher, of Washington, was among eight nominated for six vice precidencies. Secretary Frank J. Coleman, of Washington, was unanimously renominated for his eighteenth consecutive term.

The election will start at 4:30 a. m. and will determine whether Ford employes want to be represented by the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers Union, the A. F. L. Federal local, or no union at all.

Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O., asserted there would be an overwhelming victory for his union, but John J. Murphy, A. F. L. organizer, predicted a 2-to-1 victory for the A. F. L.

Census Shows D. C. Most Crowded Of All State Areas

The Census Bureau yesterday revealed that Washington was the most crowded area in the nation, as compared with the 48 States. The District has a population of 10,870 persons per square mile against an average of 44.2 for the country as a whole.

Densest of the States is Rhode Island, with 674.2 inhabitants per square mile; sparsest is Nevada, with an average of 1. The statistics also showed that from 1930 to 1940 the nation-wide average increased 1.1.

Dr. Clark Heads G. W. Medical Society

Election of Dr. William Earl Clark as president of the George Washington University Medical Society was announced yesterday. Other new officers are Drs. W. M. Ballinger and Esther Nathanson, vice presidents; O. B. Hunter, secretary-treasurer, and W. B. King and L. H. French, members of the society's council.

Reserve Head Warns Defense To Enrich None

By the Associated Press

New Orleans, May 20.—Chester C. Davis warned today that no participant in defense production should expect to enrich himself through the national effort and said "we must expect to return to the Government through taxation" extraordinary profits.

The president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis and former member of the Defense Advisory Commission told the convention of the National Cottonseed Products Association, Inc.:

"We must expect to divert our savings by whatever extent is required to the financing of this (defense) program."

Davis said there should be no alarm about a carryover of more than 12,000,000 bales of cotton which he predicted at the beginning of August, 1941.

"In a crisis like this," he said, "any industrial nation would give much to possess it. I am not one of those who believe we have lost our world market for cotton. We haven't, if we possess the sense and courage to fight for it."

At the end of the present conflict, he added the world would be faced with the greatest need of food and fiber ever known.

"Until then," he said, "cotton farmers particularly must be protected from the sudden shock of losing 20 per cent of their market overnight. It is sound national policy to use the price bolstering mechanism of loans and parity payments to sustain farm income."

Trade Federation Backs Staggered Pay Program

The Federation of Business Men's Associations, which held its monthly meeting last night at the Hay-Adams House, adopted a resolution approving unanimously the staggered payday plan for Government employes.

Louis I. Obergh, member of the Central Business Men's Association, who introduced the measure, said that "staggering" the pay days would help alleviate congestion on street cars, buses and in downtown stores.

The federation also approved the plan to increase gasoline taxes to raise funds and the Whitehurst traffic survey. In approving the plan, members said they would suggest that only emergency projects be immediately constructed to circumvent any skilled labor shortage in Washington.

Bordeaux Starts Limited Trading

Vichy, May 20 (AP).—The Bordeaux Stock Exchange operated today under numerous restrictions and open only to brokers, bank representatives and newspapermen with special admission cards. Jews were not admitted.

Net changes in stock prices were limited to three per cent in any one day, with quotations based on those of the Paris exchange.

The only stocks quoted were those on the Bordeaux Exchange before the war, stocks of foreign companies and French companies operating abroad being excluded.

Reichesbank director, serving as stock exchange commissioner to the occupying authorities and military administrative counselor, was present at the reopening ceremony.

D. C. Pharmacists Convene Today

The District Pharmaceutical Association will hold its annual convention today and tomorrow at the Shoreham Hotel.

Edgar Morris, chairman of the Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade, will open the convention. Speakers during the first day will include O. K. Fike, director of Doctors Hospital, who will discuss "Does the Hospital Overcharge You?"

I. T. & T. Reported Hard Hit By War; Income Off 3 Million

By the Associated Press

New York, May 20—One effect of the European war on the International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation has been a drop of dividends from its European subsidiary from $3,600,000 in 1939 to $600,000 in 1940, President Sosthenes Behn said today in his annual report for 1940.

Behn said no further payments were expected from the subsidiary, International Standard Electric Corporation, under the present international situation.

The company president said part of the $13,800,000 received from the sale of the Rumanian Telephone Co. to the Rumanian National Bank in January, 1941, had been used to buy at market some of the I. T. & T. debentures.

Behn told how money transfer restrictions practically stopped remittances from England, Germany, Spain and the occupied countries of Europe, and said only English and Spanish company factories were delivering equipment needed for operations.

He said the I. T. & T. plants in Europe had suffered only slight damage and had reemployed part of their personnel and resumed operations at a diminished rate.

Because of the loss of equipment supplies from Europe, Behn said, the company planned to manufacture telephone equipment in Newark, N. J., at the International Telephone & Radio Manufacturing Corporation plant. To expedite entry into the radio field, Behn said this company had offered to purchase virtually all the stock of the Federal Telegraph Co. from its affiliate, Commercial Mackay Corporation, to absorb its property and also a small radio firm.

Bright spots of the report were substantial gains in net income of the affiliated All America Cables & Radio, Inc., return of the Spanish property to I. T. & T. management and continued growth of the telephone subsidiaries.

Behn said the company had orders for 48,000 telephones pending in Argentina, Chile, Shanghai and Spain which it was unable to fill because of equipment shortages.

Southern Rwy. Head Stresses Heavier Costs

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., May 20.—Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway, told the annual meeting of the company's stockholders today that provisions of the coal miners' new contract would boost the Southern's cost of fuel by $1,250,000 a year.

He also reported that the railway's tax bill for the present year would total approximately $12,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 over 1940.

The stockholders also were informed that the last of Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans aggregating $31,405,000 between 1932 and 1938 had been paid off by the negotiation of a loan of $10,000,000 through five New York banks and one in Chicago that would save the company approximately $50,000 a year in interest.

Four directors whose terms expire this year were reelected without opposition for new terms of three years. They are John Stewart Bryan, of Richmond; Oliver Iselin and Gerrish H. Milliken, of New York, and John K. Ottley, of Atlanta, Ga. Nearly 70 per cent of the stock—more than $1,275,000 shares—was represented.

The newly negotiated bank loan of $10,000,000 is repayable in quarterly installments beginning August 15 this year and ending May 15, 1944, but Norris said the road hopes to anticipate the maturities "soon." Interest rates on these notes vary from 2 to 3⅜ per cent compared with 4 per cent for the RFC money.

When a stockholder asked when the railway would declare dividends, Norris said there was nothing he would like more to see than the payment of dividends, but "I'll ask you, what would you pay them with?" Until the debt is cleared, he intimated it would be difficult to return any earnings to the stockholders.

$200,000,000 A T & T Financing Foreseen

New York, May 20 (AP).—Financial circles anticipated today a new financing program of upwards of $200,000,000 by American Telephone & Telegraph would come out of the directors meeting tomorrow. The reports said such a plan would include refunding of the 5½ per cent debentures of 1943. Officials of the company would say only that dividends were on the schedule.

Earnings Reports

Liquid Carbonic Corporation reported net profit of $257,399 for the quarter ended March 31, equal to 35 cents a share and compared with a net loss of $80,801 for the March quarter of 1940. The 1941 figure included $36,550 in non-recurring profit from the sale of securities.

Servel, Inc., refrigerator manufacturers, reported net profit for the quarter ended April 30 of $646,057, equal to 36 cents a common share and compared with $692,890, equal to 39 cente a common share, in the April quarter of 1940.

Erie Railroad reported April net railway operating income of $1,366,203, up sharply from the $543,975 for April, 1940. Income available for fixed charges was $1,421,326. Before the road went into reorganization the charges were $1,160,405; under the pending reorganization plan the charges, with leased road rentals, would be about $580,000.

Chesapeake & Ohio Railway reported a net loss of $1,515,776 for April, when the bituminous coal fields shutdown cut sharply into its business, against $2,295,473 net profit for April of 1940. Net income the first four months was $6,675,467, down $2,771,422 from the same period of last year.

International Hydro-Electric System reported consolidated net earning of $136,605 for the year ended December 31, 1940, compared with $1,200,770 in 1939.

Irwin L. Moore, president, said that because of the necessity of subsidiaries retaining their cash and the arrears on their preferred shares which limit or preclude dividends on the equity shares held by the system, consolidated earnings did not represent cash available to the system.

Kansas R. R. Votes Equipment Purchase

New York, May 20 (AP).—Directors of the Kansas City Southern Railway authorized today purchase of 200 box cars in addition to 50 auto box cars, two 2,000-horsepower Diesel-electric passenger locomotives and one 1,000 horsepower Diesel switching locomotive ordered last month.

C. P. Couch, president, said both orders were to meet existing traffic conditions caused by defense preparations.

Couch estimated Kansas City Southern's April net income at $135,000 as compared with $24,000 in April, 1940, which would place the net income for the first four months of 1941 at about $569,000 as compared with $336,000 in the first four months of 1940.

Mediterranean Cargo Risk Rates to Jump

London, May 20 (AP).—Increased risks in the eastern Mediterranean were reflected tonight in higher shipping insurance rates announced by the Institute of London Underwriters.

Effective tomorrow, rates to and from Haifa, Palestine, are jumped from 10 to 15 per cent in most cases, an exception being between Haifa and Port Sudan, on the Red Sea, which is raised from 7½ to 10 per cent.

Other increases: To and from India and Turkey, from 12½ to 15 per cent; to and from Alexandria, Port Said, Suez, Cyprus and Mediterranean ports east of Cyprus, from 5 to 7½ per cent.

Steel Issues Lead Brisk Closing Recovery; Turnover More Than Doubles Previous Day's

New York, May 20.—The stock market swung into a late brisk recovery today behind steels after earlier rallying leadership had been provided by oils, coppers, aircrafts, farm implements and specialties.

Best prices were seen in the final few minutes. Closing gains ran to a point or better for the more active favorites while scattered issues tacked on 2 to 4 on limited turnovers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks registered a net advance of .5 of a point to 40.1, best day's upturn in two weeks. Transfers totaled 471,350 shares against a nine-month low yesterday of 223,010. Dealings acquired momentum in the last hour.

Brokers attributed much of the day's comeback to the belief of financial quarters the market recently had resisted a lot of unsatisfactory war, labor and tax news and was in a position to revive sharply on any worthwhile developments.

Another lift in crude petroleum and gasoline prices aided the oils while steels, a bit indifferent most of the time, speeded up on the home stretch when reports were heard that the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply would make some upward revisions in its April 17 steel price "freezing" order.

Expectations high parity loans for farm products soon would become a reality helped agricultural implements. Mounting demand for copper cheered holders of the red metal shares. Rails managed to hold their own without exhibiting much buoyancy as transportation observers began to hope that the big wage boost asked by the brotherhoods might be pared in a final agreement.

Among stocks J. I. Case jumped 4 points on total transfers of 400 shares. On relatively small transactions Norfolk & Western was up 3½, Union Carbide 2⅞ and du Pont 2½.

Lesser gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Standard Oil (N. J.), Skelly Oil, General Motors, Chrysler, Kennecott, American Smelting, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Lockheed, United Aircraft, J. C. Penney and Montgomery Ward. Western Union and Climax Molybdenum edged into new high ground for the year.

In the plus division of the Curb were Gulf Oil, Creole Petroleum, American Gas, Calamba Sugar, N. J. Zinc and Pantepec. Volume here was around 100,000 shares versus 46,000 Monday.

A better demand for bonds developed today after prices of corporates had shown a general dip and at the close, many early losses had been converted into moderate net gains.

The rally moved at peak force in the closing hour, seemingly in response to a general hardening of quotations in the share list.

Rail loans led in the downward movement and in the late recovery. While they were under pressure trading circles appeareed to be concerned over the latest wage increase demands of the rail brotherhoods and proposals for revision of the excess profits measure.

The United States Government list continued to mark time for the Treasury June financing announcement expected later in the week.

In the stock exchange Treasuries closed 1-32 higher to 12.32 lower. The over-the-counter market range was about 1-32d lower on Treasuries.

The foreign list was animated by a 5½ point jump in French Government 7½s on the announcement the bonds would be paid off June 1, the maturity date. Some issues of Denmark, Australia, and Japan also moved up for good gains. Panama 5s dropped 4½s.

Ford Delivers '6s,' Advances Prices of '8s'

Detroit, May 20 (AP).—The Ford Motor Co. today increased the price of all its V-8 cylinder models by $15 and at the same time disclosed it had beegun deliveries of a new model powered with a six-cylinder 90-horsepower engine.

The new six cylinder motor, which the company has been working on for many months, originally was scheduled to be brought out early this year. Owing to priorities given to defense work, however, a company statement said, normal production of the new unit probably will not be in full swing until "early fall."

The six-cylinder engine is to be interchangeable with the 90 horsepower V-85 motor.

Drop Word 'Crisis' From Vocabulary, Urges Utility Chief

Hamilton, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press)—The sooner the word "crisis" is deleted from "our war vocabulary the better it will be for the morale of your nation and mine," Thomas J. Strickler, of Kansas City, Mo., president of the American Gas Association, said today in an address before the Canadian Gas Association convention.

"It is a word that often tends to take the heart out of one—to make one think in terms of possible defeat instead of inevitable victory," he said, adding that what the people of North America face is a "challenge."

"War is no novel experience to your country or mine," he said. "Therefore, let us not permit the present extraordinary events to shape our destinies. Let us be on guard against mass hysteria. Let us face the future, come what may, with complete confidence in our nations, in ourselves and in our business. Finally, let us resist emotionally-dictated decisions."

Big Board Seat Is Purchased By Industrialist

New York, May 20 (AP).—Norman F. S. Russell, president of the United States Pipe & Foundry Co., has purchased a seat in the New York Stock Exchange for $21,000, it became known today.

He is one of the few industrialists who have bought seats in the exchange. It was believed that he acquired the seat for his son, who is in college.

Robert L. Coleman, jr., a San Francisco broker, also has bought a seat for $21,000. It is thought that this will be the first in a series of purchases of membership in the New York Stock Exchange by West Coast brokers. In this way Pacific Coast brokers can eliminate the "overriding charge."

A nonmember of the stock exchange cannot collect a broker's commission even though the business originates with him. The full commission goes to the member firm and the originator collects a $5 overriding charge on the customer.

Cotton Spinning At 119.6% Rate

By the Associated Press

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that the cotton spinning industry operated during April at 119.6 per cent of capacity, on a 2-shift, 80-hour-week basis, compared with 116.7 per cent during March this year, and 92.1 per cent during April last year.

Spinning spindles in place April 30 totaled 24,434,380, of which 22,787,396 were active at some time during the month, compared with 24,420,726 and 22,795,742 for March this year, and 24,921,986 and 22,301,218 for April last year.

Food Sales in May Show Sharp Climb

New York, May 20 (AP).—Food sales still are gaining, the American Institute of Food Distribution reported today.

The dollar volume of food sold to consumers and added to distributors' stocks has been snowballing in May, showing larger increases than earlier this year.

Expanding payrolls, higher prices to farmers and creeping advances in the prices of many foods were said to be principally responsible.

Fairchild to Produce Six Planes a Day

Special Dispatch to The Post

Hagerstown, Md., May 20.—The Fairchild Aviation Corporation, which expects to complete a new plant here within the next several months, will be turning out basic training planes for the United States Army at the rate of six a day by the end of the year, F. A. Galligan, manager of the plant, announced.

He said the company now has a total of $15,000,000 in plane orders. About 650 more workers will be taken on before the first of the year. The company now employs 1,350 here.

Retailers Laud Price Ceiling On Cotton Yarn

By the Associated Press

New York, May 20.—Leon Henderson's announced intention of putting a ceiling of 40 cents a pound on combed cotton yarn—now selling at 52 cents a pound—has received the official blessing of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

In a statement, Lew Hahn, general manager of the association, said it appeared to be time for a real showdown with the cotton goods industry.

"The cotton goods manufacturers seem to be in a peculiar situation," Hahn said. "They make little if any attempt to justify present cotton goods prices except to attribute the situation to the law of supply and demand, working through their own confessedly 'cumbersome' marketing system. They feel they are not allowed under the present Federal law to discuss prices with a view to keeping them down and they express a general attitude of helplessness to deal with the siutation."

"The demand for goods admittedly has been great. Buyers have feared the effect of shortages and have insisted on buying into the long future. Prices are determined by the general market reaction to buying, and they are forced to sit helplessly and accept prices which they know are too high."

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

. . . insure the other fellow's car . . . and not their own

Sure, you ought to insure yourself against any damage your car may do to the property of others. But what about your property . . . your car? Unless you have collision insurance, you're paying money to protect the other fellow and leaving yourself out in the cold.

Moral: Give yourself a break. Let us fix you up with protection for your OWN car.

Wright, Kuhel Lead Chisox To Victory

what Taft Wright did, too, and the Chicagoans had a 2-0 lead.

It was a pair of unearned runs the Nats came up with to tie the score temporarily in the first inning. With one out, Cramer reached base on Appling's fumble, and Archie moved him to second with a single to left. Lewis drew a walk to fill the bases, but Appling raced into short left for Travis' bid for a Texas Leaguer. Bloodworth finally got around to slugging two runs home with a single to center.

The White Sox got obstreperous against Leonard again in the third inning and took a 4-3 lead. It happened with two out, and it was foreshadowed because the two outs were line drives into the gloves of Lewis and Chapman. Anyway, former Nat Kuhel walloped a double to center and former Nat Wright walked, whereupon Johnny Lodigiani slammed a double to right and the former Nats crossed the plate.

Chicago's fifth run was driven in by Kuhel in the fifth. Knickerbocker opened the inning with a single to left and moved to third on Appling's single to cenater. Appling was cut down by Cramer's throw when he tried to stretch his hit, but Kuhel produced a fly to Case that got Knickerbocker home from third.

The Nats were able to move only two men past first base the last eight innings against Lee. One of them, Buddy Lewis, stole second and reached third on a passed ball, and the other reached second on an outfield error. The Nats were a pretty puerile outfit yesterday.

Anacostia High Files Protest After Defeat

No sooner had the public school fathers decided to do nothing about Roosevelt High's protest of its loss to Central in the interhigh baseball series than another protest was filed yesterday. Anacostia, taking an 11-10 defeat at the hands of Eastern, filed a complaint because of Jack Hoffman's appearance at first base with the Tide.

The matter, to be referred to Birch Bayh, head of the department of health and physical education, probably will be one of the last issues to be decided by the latter official.

Bayh, according to an announcement yesterday, has filed application for a year's leave of absence with the school board, whose regular meeting is scheduled today. If granted his request, Bayh will accept an appointment as civilian aide in the United States Army Air Corps, stationed at Bolling Field. His place probably will be filled by Miss Belle Meyers, his present assistant.

Dan Ahern, long Western's football coach, has submitted his resignation to become superintendent of the Industrial Home School for Boys. It will also be acted on by board members today.

Also scheduled for Army service are Sherman Reese, new Coolidge coach; Phil Fox, Eastern cage mentor, and Herman Littman, Roosevelt basketball and baseball guide. Reese and Littman will be inducted sometime around June 30, though Fox will not be called until August.

McKinley Nine Beaten, 5-4

Puhing across a run in the ninth with two out, Washington-Lee High's smart diamonders yesterday tripped McKinley, 5-4, for their fourteenth triumph in 20 games. The clash at the Arlington diamond was marked by a player argument with Umpire Russell which caused the banishment of W.-L.'s Owen and McPherson.

Whirlaway Wins At Belmont Park

Chance's 116 and Ringle's 116. Despite this, some of his most ardent followers went back on him and wouldn't get on him, fearing that the older boys would play too rough.

They were all around tonight, swearing that Whirlaway is the greatest colt since Paul Revere was riding.

Whirley's time was 1:43.3, comfortably back of the track record of 1:42-1-5, but once again the chestnut thunderbolt eased up when he had the race clinched.

Senate, Linen Teams Clash Tonight at Ballston

With the league lead as the prize, Senate Beer and Standard Linen, only undefeated teams in the Merchants Softball League will collide tonight at Ballston Stadium in the nightcap of a double-header. I. B. M. engages Manhattan Auto and Radio in the 7:45 opener.

Both the Linemen and Beermen have breezed through three league games without a setback this season and a victory for either would probably mean the first-round championship, for after tonight's games there will be only three left in first-round play.

Louis, Baer End Training Today for Bout

around at Riverside for the delight of Jacobs and 2,323 paying guests.

He started off by knocking Larry Bouchard flat with a devastating right cross that pole-axed the big Canadian. His next venture was to slam across a short right to the jaw of Joe Corili that gave at least 80 per cent of the spectators a headache.

Joe's trainer, Jack Blackburn, said after the workout that he was tickled to death with Louis' attitude and condition.

"Chappie's just right," Blackburn beamed. "We are going out there quick to win this one. We are not saying anything about that knockout—you know the other fellow has something to say about that."

Louis, who was having a good time kidding Blackburn about his fifty-eighth birthday yesterday—"the sixth one so far," Joe guffawed—said he never felt better.

"Buddy's a good boxer," was his only and rather reluctant comment on the Friday night business.

Buddy worked out at Steve Cochran's Olney farm with the District Boxing Commission in full attendance—meaning, Claude W. Owen, Maj. Ernest W. Brown and Thomas P. Morgan, jr.

Representative Albert E. Carter, of Oakland, Calif., also attended the Baer workout and promised Buddy a steak dinner if he wins.

"You can put the steak on now, because I'm going to win," Buddy shot back.

The big youngster worked only three rounds and today will box but two. Manager Ancil Hoffman and Trainer Izzy Kline were still as confident as Buddy, basing their hopes on Buddy's slow-motion but quite dangerous right hand.

Heath's double and Trosky's fly. The A's scored one in the fourth on Sam Chapman's triple and Boudreau's error; one in the fifth on McCoy's walk and Johnson's double and one in the sixth on Suder's homer.

are shown in the box. This is how G. G. N. describes the deal:

"Here is a psychic bid which did so many things, I have lost count. It induced the opponents to bid a slam which, without the psychic, couldn't have been made; then induced declarer to take extreme and roundabout measures with what could have been an easy play, but the slam was made, anyway.

"Without the psychic diamond, 7, sitting south, should never have dared the slam try; but the prospect of a lead up to my ace, queen made me bold. Without the psychic West would certainly not have doubled. Without the double South would have finessed trumps and made the hand with ease.

"West opened the diamond king, on which a low spade was discarded from dummy. As it looked certain that the heart finesse would fail, South led the heart ace, then ran the clubs. He discarded the spade nine with bated breath as the club suit broke, and the jack of spades on the club nine, triumphantly; for, after that West could use the heart king when he pleased.

"The hand was in. Imagine the laughter and astonishment when East ruffed with that king to end the rubber and the evening and the career of the psychic bid with doubled repercussions."

Civil Service Urged to Hire Draft-Age Men

No discrimination against young men of Selective Service age "who may be eligible for appointment from regularly established civil service registers" was urged yesterday in a resolution adopted by the Eastern Regional Conference of the Civil Service Assembly.

Stating that "during a period of national emergency it is possible "that such discrimination may occur in certain civil service appointments," the resolution called on civil service jurisdictions not to permit it.

Herbert Emmerich, secretary, Office of Production Management, in an address yesterday urged that "a corps of high-grade administrative assistants" be provided to relieve the load of administrative detail on specialists and technical experts called in on the national defense program.

At another point in his address, Emmerich said the "centralization of governmental action at the top is bottlenecking decision and prematurely aging high administrators. They must learn to delegate to assistants and juniors who in turn must cultivate the muscle of decisionism."

Marsh Named Chairman

Harry Marsh, of the National Civil Service Reform League, was elected chairman of the conference, meeting at the Wardman Park Hotel. Albert H. Aronson, chief, State Technical Advisory Service, Social Security Board, was named vice chairman. Eugenia McLaughlin, chief examined, New York State Civil Service, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The annual institute of the Society for Personnel Administration, which is meeting jointly with the Assembly, elected the following officers: President, Robert Barnett, personnel director, Federal Security Agency; vice president, A. J. Sarre, director of personnel, Federal Works Agency; secretary-treasurer, Henry F. Hubbard, Council of Personnel Administration; executive committee member 1941-45, Clive W. Palmer, director of personnel, Home Owners Loan Corporation; advisory committee, Manlio DeAngelis, U. S. Civil Service Commission; Josephine Blades, Office for Emergency Management; Mark Odell, National Youth Administration; Zola Emerson, Railroad Retirement Board; David Stanley, Farm Credit Administration.

Central Clerical Pool

In his address Emmerich pointed out that a suggestion had been made for the establishment of a central stenographic and clerical pool for the entire Federal Government, to be supplied through a mass recruitment program supervised by the Civil Service Commission, so agency requests for personnel could be supplied from the pool in a few hours by transfer.

In discussing some of the "outworn habits" which public administration must change to meet the needs of the crisis, Emmerich said: "Citizens are being frozen out of participating in the national defense program because each expert has his guild and each guild resists lay participation."

The general public, he said, is gradually awakening to the need for habit changes which will soon be required in the form of increased income taxes, special sales or luxury taxes on specific items, increased prices on certain semi-critical consumers' goods, the supply of which will be diminished by defense purchasing; restrictions or substitutions on certain consumers' goods utilizing critical supplies or materials or necessary production facilities. The most widely publicized of the latter, he pointed out, are the reduction in domestic aluminumware manufacturing and the projected 20 per cent reduction in output of new automobiles.

Commission Commended

Emmerich spoke on "Can American public administration change its habits quickly enough to meet the rapidly emerging challenge of the greatest crisis in our history?"

The Assembly's Conference adopted a resolution commending the U. S. Civil Service Commission for initiating development of the "National Roster of Scientific and Professional Personnel" to serve as a reservoir of scientifically qualified men and women who may be of service to the Nation in emergency. It was urged that the roster be made available to State and local civil service commissions for selections to fill key positions.

Another resolution commended the development of the cooperative recruitment project between the U. S. Civil Service Commission and local public personnel agencies, and pledged the conference's support to it.

Most of you can remember the day not so long ago when the name Edward G. Robinson was the essence of everything cinematically criminal. When you thought of Edward G. Robinson you thought of the prime scourge of law and order. It doesn't sound nice to say so, but it looked for a long time as if the man didn't have a decent bone in his body. He got worse, if anything, in each picture.

So it's a comforting thing to be able to report that all bad things must end, that tonight that same Edward G. Robinson is being awarded a gold medal by the American Humane Association "for his humanitarian interest in the welfare of children and animals."

The marvel all came about in "Big Town," his radio series which you hear every Wednesday night over WJSV and the Columbia network. For a change Mr. Robinson was put in a role where, as a newspaper editor, he could still be tough, but tough as a crusader for the right.

And week after week in the series he's been charging at the very evils which he used to represent so well only a short time ago. For instance, tonight the show tells how tough kids have been put on the right path by boys' clubs.

It's things like that which brought him the medal which will be awarded on the program tonight.

The Post Radio Highlights

7:30, WOL—Jean Hersholt's fictional Dr. Christian gets involved with a murder tale involving circumstantial evidence.

8, WRC—Banjo-eyed Eddie Cantor plays host to that keen-eyed Siegfried of Wagnerican Opera, Lauritz Melchior.

8, WJSV—Doc Rockwell, who certainly used to be a riot in vaudeville, has decided to pay a call on his old two-a-day pal, Fred Allen. Their ad-libbery should be goodery.

9:15, WJSV—"Axis Penetration in South American Aviation" titles an address by Oswald Ryan, of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

29th Division Gets Into Trim For Maneuvers

By a Staff Correspondent

Fort Meade, Md., May 20.—Guardsmen and selectees of the Twenty-ninth Division were being whipped into shape today with the prospect of regimental combat maneuvers in the new Caroline County, Va., maneuver area as early as the second week in June.

Whether regimental combat teams will be sent to the area south of Fredericksburg beginning June 8 will be decided at a division inspection in about two weeks, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, division commander, said. The Fifth Engineers, from Fort Belvoir, now are constructing a division camp in the section purchased for maneuvers.

Gen. Reckord added that the entire division, now near its fighting strength of 17,945, would be given experience in the combat area before going to corps and Army maneuvers in North and South Carolina next fall. Regimental and brigade combat teams would be trained first, he said.

As a result of the training, he said, regimental and brigade commanders should "get the feel" of handling their units in the field and should be "trained to use everything there is in a combat team."

The Caroline County area will have 20,000 acres of fields and woodland ready for troops by June 1, with 50,000 acres available by June 15.

Army Adopts Cheerful Garb For Patients

New bathrobes, pajames and convalescent suits—dyed a "cheerful" maroon and designed to spike an old and rather ghoulish Army joke—have been adopted for use in military hospitals.

The nwe color has been in use while undergoing tests at Walter Reed and other Army hospitals for at least a year.

The change over from khaki to maroon as the color of clothing worn by soldiers in hospitals was announced by the War Department, which said that tests had shown the latter had "a cheerful effect on patients."

Drab colored "uniforms" for hospital inmates were found "to have a depressing eeffect," it was said, particularly after many washings turned them a prison gray.

Moreover, medical officers said that a new insignia, "U. S. A.-M. D." will be embroidered in white on the right breast of each of the new garments in place of the old "M. D.-U. S. A." Both officially stand for the same thing—the medical department of the United States Army, but newcomers in military hospitals "never heard it that way."

From time immemorial, a new patient was told by the soldier in the next bed that the letters stood for "Many Die, U Shall Also," a tale that definitely lacked the "cheerful" effect desired now by the service.

Officials said the color maroon was chosen because it is one of those known to psychology as "pleasing" to patients and also in view of the fact it is the official color of the Army Medical Corps.

District Selectee Goes to Air Corps

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 20.—Private Theodore Nicholas Gill 3d, of Company K, 175th Infantry, has been ordered to Bolling Field to be examined physically for appointment as a cadet in the Air Corps.

Gill was one of several thousand sleectees added to the Twenty-ninth Division. He lived in Washington at 3022 P Street Northwest and was employed at the City Bank. He is a graduate of Harvard University, class of 1938.

Draft Exemption Expected Soon for Ex-Service Groups

Washington Selective Service officials yesterday advised all local boards here to prepare for the exemption of all former service men registrants with three consecutive years' experience in the Navy, Coast Guard or Marine Corps.

A Congressional bill, sent to the Whitte House Monday, specifies such deferments, and President Roosevelt is expected to sign it shortly. The bill, officials said, is, in effect, an amendment to the original draft act which automatically exempted former Army men with the three years' service or National Guardsmen with the same length service but one of them active.

Meanwhile, yesterday, George Washington University began aiding students subject to selective training to apply for occupational deferment.

A recently suggested plan of National Selective Service and the Office of Production Management urged deferment of registrants studying college courses, preparing them for jobs which contribute to national interest, health or safety.

The deferment, it was said, is one step in providing a source of skilled technicians, doctors and engineers, of which there is presently a shortage.

In another announcement yesterday, local draft officers made public the names of 112 white and 136 colored registrants who will be inducted today, and the compilation by local boards of the 420 white and colored men to be called June 17, 18, 19 and 20.

Total registrants to be supplied by local boards here during the four-day June period are:

Board No.	White	Colored	Board No.	White	Colored
2	8	1	16	5	7
3	8	0	17	13	4
4	14	1	18	7	8
5	15	0	19	2	21
6	13	3	20	14	1
7	12	6	21	12	6
8	9	10	22	6	6
9	15	9	23	5	11
10	9	13	24	9	4
11	5	21	25	2	17
12	3	16
14	9	8

The contingent of 112 white and 136 colored registrants scheduled to be inducted at 7:15 a. m. today at the District Armory will be the largest to leave Washington at one time to date. The white selectives, who will be inducted at Richmond, are by board number:

6,500 Help Colonel Take General's Test

By a Staff Correspondent

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 20.—With the aid of 6,500 officers and men of the Twenty-ninth Division, Col. Paul B. Parker, former football coach and Arlington (Va.) real estate man, today completed tests for promotion to brigadier general.

The test, which lasted all day, gave Col. Parker a brigade combat team to command, and combat training to officers and men of the team. It also brought together two officers who fought together 23 years ago in France and had not seen each other again until yesterday.

Col. Parker, acting as brigade commander, had as his executive officer Lieut. Col. Edgar T. Fell, executive officer of the 175th Infantry. In France, Col. Parker was a captain in the Fifty-sixth Infantry, Seventh Division, where Col. Fell was a lieutenant.

Today's problem, on whose execution, together with the results of three days of oral and written examinations, depends Col. Parker's promotion, assumed that he was sent with a brigade of infantry, a regiment of field artillery and detachments of engineers and medical troops, to hold an advancing enemy while the division and the Second Corps mobilized for war. His tropos were the 115th Infantry, commanded by Col. D. John Markey, the 175th Infantry, Col. Harry C. Ruhl, and the 110th Field Artillery, Col. Henry Evans.

With the 175th on the right, Col. Parker advanced his brigade westward on two roads, colliding with the hypothetical enemy entrenched on the heights above Little Patuxent River. Holding them with the 175th, he sent the 115th out to the south in a wide enveloping movement.

While his brigade was thus divided and committed to battle, he was handed an order from division headquarters informing him that the enemy had appeared in force in his rear and ordering him to withdraw and join the division. This move he executed in time to send the troops to their barracks for dinner.

Lieut. Col. Louis G. Smith, executive officer, Fifty-eighth Brigade, was chief umpire. The examining board consisted of Brig. Gen. Amos W. W. Woodcock, commanding the Fifty-eighth; Brig. Gen. William H. Sands, commanding the Fifty-fourth Brigade, and Brig. Gen. Ray L. Avery, of Edgewood Arsenal.

Col. Parker, who lives at 3441 North Glebe Road, Arlington, is a reserve officer on active duty in the Operations Section, office of the Quartermaster General.

District's 121st Engineers Show Progress in Inspection

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 20.—Newly reorganized, the District's 121st Engineers today underwent annual inspection of men, equipment and quarters, followed by a regimental review before Col. John W. Oehmann, commanding.

Efforts of members of three units of the regiment to call attention, during the regulation period for complaints, to two grievances, were unsuccessful, spokesmen said, when Lieut. Col. Graham B. Bright, division inspector, told them the matters complained of were controlled by division orders. Headquarters and Service Company, the Band and Medical Detachment sent a delegation to the inspector to ask that overnight passes be granted as on other posts and that men be permitted to operate private automobiles on one road in the reservation.

At present, they explained, men must be in bed by 10:30 p. m., a regulation which makes it impossible for them to complete a picture show or to visit their homes in Washington. Men below the three highest noncommissioned grades are not permitted to operate automobiles on the post, they said, adding that they can park within walking distance of their barracks on a one-way road outside the reservation, but cannot leave by the same road or by another road without entering the post.

The complaint period is set aside so the inspecting officer may hear grievances which might not appear in a general inspection.

During the morning, Col. Bright inspected the regiment's field equipment and arms, spread out on a field near its camp and went through its barracks. The review was held in the afternoon.

"With all our battalion and company officers now professional engineers," Col. Oehmann said last night, "the regiment should begin making real progress in training. The engineer regiment should be the finest regiment in the division, a goal which is now within reach."

Last week 11 officers, including the regimental executive and both battalion commanders, were transferred to Infantry and Artillery regiments. All officers transferred, Col. Oehmann pointed out, were not engineers and all were replaced by officers who practiced engineering in civil life.

The changes were made, he said, after he discussed several times with Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, division commander, the engineering qualifications of all officers in the regiment.

"I was surprised," he said, "that so many officers were replaced, but now both battalions and all companies are commanded by engineers."

Col. Oehmann said the regiment should begin, within two weeks, training with the big 10-ton pontoon bridge which is part of its equipment.

176th to Try Guns At Indiantown Gap

Special Dispatch to The Post

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 20.—First Field Artillery unit of the Twenty-ninth Division to fire its guns since induction into Federal service, the 176th Field Artillery, of Pittsburgh, will leave Wednesday for Indiantown Gap, Pa.

While there, 28 officers and 115 selected enlisted men will fire subcaliber shells in the regiment's big 155-mm. howitzers and will try out the new 75-mm. antitank guns with service ammunition. The trip will be made by motor convoy.

Trio of Escaped Army Prisoners Sought in 3 States

Special Dispatch to The Post

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 20.—Three prisoners of the 176th Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division, escaped from a guard late today and were being sought tonight in three States.

The men, Joseph J. Wilcox and Thomas C. Kelly, of Norfolk, and Howard E. Loser, of Richmond, were held on several charges each of being absent without leave. Officers said the soldiers were returning with a party of prisoners which had been clearing stumps on the reservation and broke away while crossing the Annapolis Road. The guard, unable to pursue because of a number of other prisoners under his charge, did not fire for fear of striking someone not involved in the escape.

Gold Imports Shrink
